The Man Who Lost the Sea Theodore Sturgeon, 2013-04-23 By the winner of the Hugo the Nebula and the World Fantasy Life Achievement Awards this latest volume finds Theodore Sturgeon in fine form as he gains recognition for the first time as a literary short story writer Written between 1957 and 1960 when Sturgeon and his family lived in both America and Grenada finally settling in Woodstock New York these stories reflect his increasing preference for psychology over ray guns Stories such as The Man Who Told Lies A Touch of Strange and It Opens the Sky show influences as diverse as William Faulkner and John Dos Passos Always in touch with the zeitgeist Sturgeon takes on the Russian Sputnik launches of 1957 with The Man Who Lost the Sea switching the scene to Mars and injecting his trademark mordancy and vivid wordplay into the proceedings These mature stories also don't stint on the scares as The Graveyard Reader one of Boris Karloff's favorite stories shows Acclaimed novelist Jonathan Lethem's foreword neatly summarizes Sturgeon's considerable achievement here

Chinese History and Literature J. Prusek, 2012-12-06 The studies contained in this volume arose over the last thirty years Originally the range of the materials I intended to include in my selection was very much wider Publishing difficulties however have obliged me to curtail them to something less than half the planned content At first I intended to include all the studies I supposed might be of interest to readers and represent contributions still of some significance for research in this domain of Oriental scholarship When the necessity arose to limit the contents I gave preference to the standpoint of thematic completeness rather than to what would be of interest to the general reader Thus in this volume I have confined myself to two thematic fields only Old Chinese literature and studies dealing with mediaeval storytellers productions hua pen I have excluded the whole complex of historical studies and all studies relating to the new literature I am now preparing on the principal historical theme on which I was engaged already in the period of my studies in Prague under Prof J Bidlo and then in 1928 till 1930 with Prof B Karlgren in Sweden and Prof G Haloun in Halle in Germany a more compendious study in which I hope to sum up the results of my research and I also intend to publish a volume of selected studies dealing with the New Chinese literature at some later date

Provincial Readers in Eighteenth-Century England Jan Fergus,2007-01-25 Many scholars have written about eighteenth century English novels but no one really knows who read them This study provides historical data on the provincial reading publics for various forms of fiction novels plays chapbooks children s books and magazines Archival records of Midland booksellers based in five market towns and selling printed matter to over thirty three hundred customers between 1744 and 1807 form the basis for new information about who actually bought and borrowed different kinds of fiction in eighteenth century provincial England This book thus offers the first solid demographic information about actual readership in eighteenth century provincial England not only about the class profession age and sex of readers but also about the market of available fiction from which they made their choices and some speculation about why they made the choices they did Contrary to received ideas men in the provinces were the principal customers for eighteenth century novels including those written by women Provincial customers preferred to buy rather than borrow fiction and women preferred plays and novels written by women women s works would have done better had women been the principal consumers That is demand for fiction written by both men and women was about equal for the first five years but afterward the demand for women s works declined Both men and women preferred novels with identifiable authors to anonymous ones however and both boys and men were able to cross gender lines in their reading Goody Two Shoes was one of the more popular children s books among Rugby schoolboys and men read the Lady s Magazine These and other findings will alter the way scholars look at the fiction of the period the questions asked and the histories told of it Parnassus on the Mississippi Thomas W.

Cutrer,1984-06-01 Parnassus on the Mississippi is a history of the short lived yet remarkable productive epoch when in the words of C Vann Woodward the center of the avant garde of American literary criticism shifted temporarily to the banks of the Mississippi at Baton Rouge Beginning with the establishment of the Southern Review at Louisiana State University in 1935 Baton Rouge became the home not only to a brand of criticism that would reshape the teaching of literature in America but also to a community of scholars and artists that included Cleanth Brooks Robert Penn Warren Katherine Anne Porter Robert Lowell Jean Stafford and Peter Taylor Thomas Cutrer chronicles how the Southern Review created in the midst of the Depression by the largess of Louisiana governor Huey P Long quickly rose to the position of the finest American literary journal of its day Under the joint editorship of Cleanth Brooks and Robert Penn Warren the journal published criticism poetry and short fiction by writers as eminent as R P Blackmur Kenneth Burke T S Elliot and Wallace Stevens The editors also encouraged and published works by such young talented and at the time unknown writers as Nelson Algren Randall Jarrell Mary McCarthy and Eudora Welty During these same years Brooks and Warren collaborated on three textbooks An Approach to Literature Understanding Poetry and Understanding Fiction which would revolutionize college English by emphasizing the study of a literary work itself in concrete and precise terms over the study of the biographical historical and moral issues surrounding it Brooks also wrote his influential critical works Modern Poetry and Tradition and The Well Wrought Urn while Warren wrote two novels and some of his finest poems and stories and absorbed material from the political tumult around him for the work that would later become All the King's Men. The stature of the Southern Review and the vitality of the literary community that it spawned were both to a great extent born of the dedication and creativity of Brooks and Warren but in other very tangible ways they were also by products of the ambition of Huey Long; ironically it was the actions of one of the assassinated governor's loyalists that brought an end to Baton Rouge's time as a Parnassus. After a financial scandal rocked the university a reform administration was appointed which in its zeal to curb a runaway budget stopped the funding for the review. Soon after Brooks and Warren both left the faculty. The Southern Review itself would lie dormant until its revival two decades later.
