Literature Beyond the Human Luca Bacchini, Victoria Saramago, 2022-07-22 How can Clarice Lispector's writings help us make sense of the Anthropocene How does race intersect with the treatment of animals in the works of Joaquim Maria Machado de Assis What can Indigenous philosopher and leader Ailton Krenak teach us about the relationship between environmental degradation and the production of knowledge Literature Beyond the Human is the first collection of essays in English dedicated to an investigation of Brazilian literature from the viewpoint of the environmental humanities animal studies Anthropocene studies and other critical and theoretical perspectives that question the centrality of the human This volume includes 15 chapters by leading scholars covering two centuries of Brazilian literary production from Gonçalves Dias to Astrid Cabral from Euclides da Cunha to Davi Kopenawa and others By underscoring the vast theoretical potential of Brazilian literature and thought from the influential Modernist thesis of cultural cannibalism antropofagia to the renewed interest in Amerindian perspectivism in culture Post Anthropocentric Brazil shows how the theoretical strength of Brazilian thought can contribute to contemporary debates in the anglophone realm

Literary Passion, Ideological Commitment Dawn Duke, 2008 This study examines Afro-Cuban and Afro-Brazilian women writers as well as analysing the roles of women of African descent in Cuban and Brazilian literature Initially literary imagination locked women into circumscribed roles a result of hierarchies embedded in slavery and colonialism and sustained by hierarchical theories on race and gender The discussion illustrates how these negative aspects have influenced the mainstream literary imagination that contrasts with the self portrayals created by women writers themselves Even as there continues to be disadvantageous constructions there is no doubt that a modification has occurred over time in images representation and articulation It is a change directly associated with the instances when women themselves are the writers The historiographic image of the Afro Cuban and Afro Brazilian woman as a written object is ideologically replaced by a vision of her as a writing subject It is here that the vision of a creative multifaceted and diversified literature becomes important

Oshun's Daughters Vanessa K. Valdés, 2014-01-01 Examines the ways in which the inclusion of African diasporic religious practices serves as a transgressive tool in narrative discourses in the Americas Oshun's Daughters examines representations of African diasporic religions from novels and poems written by women in the United States the Spanish Caribbean and Brazil In spite of differences in age language and nationality these women writers all turn to variations of traditional Yoruba religion Santería Regla de Ocha and Candomblé as a source of inspiration for creating portraits of womanhood Within these religious systems binaries that dominate European thought man woman mind body light dark good evil do not function in the same way as the emphasis is not on extremes but on balancing or reconciling these radical differences Involvement with these African diasporic religions thus provides alternative models of womanhood that differ substantially from those found in dominant Western patriarchal culture namely that of virgin asexual wife mother and whore Instead we find images of the sexual woman who enjoys her body without any sense of shame the mother who nurtures her children without sacrificing herself and the warrior woman who actively resists demands that she conform to one dimensional stereotypes of womanhood

Brazilian Women's Filmmaking Leslie Marsh, 2012-10-30 At most recent count there are no fewer than forty five women in Brazil directing or codirecting feature length fiction or documentary films In the early 1990s women filmmakers in Brazil were credited for being at the forefront of the rebirth of filmmaking or retomada after the abolition of the state film agency and subsequent standstill of film production Despite their numbers and success films by Brazilian women directors are generally absent from discussions of Latin American film and published scholarly works Filling this void Brazilian Women's Filmmaking focuses on women's film production in Brazil from the mid 1970s to the current era Leslie L Marsh explains how women's filmmaking contributed to the reformulation of sexual cultural and political citizenship during Brazil's fight for the return and expansion of civil rights during the 1970s and 1980s and the recent questioning of the quality of democracy in the 1990s and 2000s She interprets key films by Ana Carolina and Tizuka Yamasaki documentaries with social themes and independent videos supported by archival research and extensive interviews with Brazilian women filmmakers Despite changes in production contexts recent Brazilian women's films have furthered feminist debates regarding citizenship while raising concerns about the quality of the emergent democracy Brazilian Women's Filmmaking offers a unique view of how women's audiovisual production has intersected with the reconfigurations of gender and female sexuality put forth by the women's movements in Brazil and continuing demands for greater social
