Fourth International Symposium On Bovine Leukosis:

Fourth International Symposium on Bovine Leukosis O.C. Straub, 1982-01-01 The series of international symposia on Enzootic Bovine Leukosis EBL sponsored by the Commission of the European Communities began in 1975 in Copenhagen This latest symposium the third was held in Bologna 5 7 November 1980 If we compare the two proceedings it is quite evident how much progress has been achieved in EBL research during these few years Whereas in 1975 there were still discussions on the characterisation and importance of the various identified antigens and the anti bodies against them we now have evidence of base sequence variations of the bovine leukosis provirus derived from cattle in different continents due to the world wide cooperation on the subject Disease control was still largely based on haematology whereas now some countries are completely free or on the verge of becoming completely free of the disease following the introduction of serological methods of diagnosis EBL research appears to me to be an excellent example of the production of new fundamental research and its transfer to the applied disciplines of veterinary sciences I must emphasise that this progress would not have been achieved if the CEC had not sponsored a number of projects and the meetings I should like to thank the CEC for this continued sponsorship Prof Dr Gentile whose invaluable assistance helped to ensure the quality of the symposium and Janssen Services for their work in preparing the proceedings and assistance with the editing of the papers and discussion

Current problems associated with the mycotoxicoes include the recognition of an animal disease as being a mycotoxicosis and confirmation of diagnosis of the mycotoxicosis by satisfactory laboratory methods By gathering a vast amount of scientific literature diagnosticians can provide themselves with suitable information for making such a diagnosis However the increased number of reported intoxications caused by fungi the wide range in diversity of disease conditions and the chemical compounds causing the mycotoxicoes and the ever changing and rapid developments in the technology of mycotoxin analysis has made the gathering and assimilation of sufficient information by the diagnostician an insurmountable task This is the reason for development of the symposium and the publication of this book the first time that the subject of diagnosis of mycotoxicoes has been assembled in a single publication and as a compilation of topic papers by experts in this subject area The UJNR panel on toxic microorganisms is interested in all aspects of intoxications by microorganisms as evidenced by its annual joint meetings in either the United States or Japan and its involvement in sponsoring numerous symposia and several publications in this broad scientific area The overall mission of the National Animal Disease Center includes research efforts in the improvement or establishment of diagnostic methods for animal diseases The UJNR panel and
