Baxter Magolda, 1999 This book is intended to help college faculty create conditions in which students learn to construct knowledge in their disciplines and achieve self authorship A significant and often overlooked dimension mediating learning and self authorship centers on learners ways of knowing or their assumptions about the nature limits and certainty of knowledge A learner who assumes that all knowledge is certain expects to hear answers from an authority figure in contrast a learner who views knowledge as relative expects to explore multiple viewpoints By taking a constructive developmental approach the author demonstrates how students ability to construct knowledge is intertwined with the development of their assumptions about knowledge itself and their role in creating it She shows how the structure of constructive developmental teaching hinges on three principles validating students ability to know situating learning in students experience and defining learning as teachers and students mutually constructing meaning The book also takes abstract pedagogical principles and translates them into practical approaches

Horace's School Theodore R.Sizer,1992 REDESIGNING THE AMERICAN HIGH SCHOOLFrom Library Journal

Situated Learning Perspectives Hilary McLellan,1996

Promising Practices for Family and Community Involvement during High School Lee Shumow,2009-06-01 This volume focuses on family and community connections with education during the high school years In comparison to the wealth of attention that has been focused on involving parents with schools during the early childhood and elementary school years less attention has been directed to parents of high school students and fewer educational programs have been developed to forge connections between family community students and educators at the high school level Researchers have found that family and community have a very significant impact on student achievement and on post secondary attainment despite the considerable decline in parental involvement by high school Educators know that family and community factors are important for student success in high school while at the same time they identify working with families and connecting the curriculum to the community as difficult Currently scholars from various fields are involved in conducting research to better understand how schools can best enhance the education of the young through interactions with students families and communities Educational practitioners also are pioneering efforts to involve and serve families as well as to connect with communities in order to enrich the educational environment and enlarge opportunities for students teachers families and community members This volume which will be of interest to both researchers and educators reflects the interdisciplinary nature of the field The contributors were recruited from diverse fields and workplaces Chapters are organized into two sections to reflect whether the genesis of the work described is from theory and research or from practice and policy Chapters originating from theory and research address adolescent development and family involvement the role of family and community in extracurricular activity participation and the evolution of trust relationships in school community partnership development Chapters originating from practice and policy address transition to high school using the community as a text for learning career education partnerships with businesses post secondary institutions and community organizations as well as state policies and programs that support parental involvement in postsecondary planning

FieldWorking Bonnie Stone Sunstein, Elizabeth Chiseri-Strater, 2011-09-02 FieldWorking is a fun and practical guide to research and writing This acclaimed text incorporates examples by professional writers such as Peter Elbow Joan Didion Oliver Sacks and Jamaica Kincaid as well as student research projects on communities as diverse as a truck stop sports bar homeless shelter and horse sales barn to help students identify and define their own subcultures and communities In unique activities and comprehensive instruction FieldWorking presents an ethnographic approach that empowers students to observe listen interpret analyze and write about the people and artifacts around them while learning the essentials of college writing and research FieldWorking is suitable for courses in English anthropology cultural studies journalism or in any discipline where research is required Liberal Learning and the Art of Self-Governance Emily

Chamlee-Wright, 2015-11-19 Concerns over affordability and accountability have tended to direct focus away from the central aims of liberal learning such as preparing minds for free inquiry and inculcating the habits of mind practical skills and values necessary for effective participation in civil society The contributors to this volume seek to understand better what it is that can be done on a day to day basis within institutions of liberal learning that shape the habits and practices of civil society The central argument of this volume is that institutions of liberal learning are critical to a developing and flourishing civil society It is within these civil society incubators that the habits of open discourse are practiced and honed that a collaborative often contentious commitment to truth seeking serves as the rules that govern our work together that the rules of personal and widespread social cooperation are established practiced and refined Many have made this argument as it relates to community based learning and we explore that theme here as well But acquiring and practicing the habits of civil society recur within and throughout the college context in the classrooms in college governance structures in professional associations in collaborative research in the residence halls and on the playing field To put it another way when they are at their best institutions of liberal learning are contexts in which students learn how to live in a free society and learn the art of self governance Advancing Race and Ethnicity in Education Richard Race,Vini Lander,2014-05-19 This timely collection focuses on domestic and international education research on race and ethnicity As co conveners of the British Education Research Associations BERA Special Education Group on Race and Ethnicity 2010 2013 Race and Lander are advocates for the promotion of race and ethnicity within education With its unique structure and organisation of empirical material this volume collates contributions from global specialists and fresh new voices to bring cutting edge research and findings to a multi disciplinary marker which includes education sociology and political studies The aim of this book is to promote and advocate a range of contemporary issues related to race ethnicity and inclusion in relation to pedagogy teaching and learning

Capper,1993-07-01 In this bold provocative supplemental text for the field of educational administration Colleen Capper and contributors challenge administrators policymakers practitioners and communities to confront the realities of schools and students in a pluralistic society The book examines recent educational initiatives aimed at addressing the needs of students and staff from traditionally underrepresented groups marginalized on the basis of race language gender sexual orientation social class or disability Each chapter critically reviews the literature and research to probe the current characteristics of a nondominant group including such information as its demographic characteristics its role in school reform its representation in organizational theory and behavior its presence within curriculum and instruction and its relationship with the school as community Capper argues for the adoption of a multiparadigmatic framework from which to approach educational leadership for today s schools Book jacket
