Fragile Beauty John Nichols Milagro Country:

A Fragile Beauty John Nichols' Milagro Country John Treadwell Nichols, 1987 A Fragile Beauty John Treadwell Nichols, 1987 A Fragile Beauty is a joyful summing up in words and photographs of John Nichols' life in New Mexico and his writings since 1969. The book is a rich tapestry of his artistic, spiritual, and political evolution in a lovely, fragile land. Using excerpts from his early writings plus black and white new photographs and candid snapshots he took long ago, Nichols acquaints us with the living roots of his work and his persuasions. Finally, he details the baroque, whacky, and ultimately rewarding process of nursing his book The Milagro Beanfield War through the Hollywood maze to ultimate fruition under the directorial guidance of Robert Redford. Complementing that intriguing saga are some of the author's pictures from the filming. In addition to the introductory essay, Nichols has chosen from four of his previous books to illustrate themes that lie at the heart of his work: a strong passion for the land and a deep concern for those who wish to protect it and who struggle for the rights of the human community. These excerpts form an essay that is quintessential Nichols: a humorous, lyrical, and occasionally angry reflection of his beliefs. Book jacket A Fragile Beauty, 1995-07 I Got Mine John Nichols, 2022-05-15 I Got Mine Confessions of a Midlist Writer is the memoir of Nichols' extraordinary life as seen through the lens of his writing. Everything that went into making him a writer and eventually found an outlet in his work: his education, family, wives, children, friends, enemies, politics, and place is told from the point of view of his daily practice of writing. Beginning with his first novel The Sterile Cuckoo published in 1965 when he was just twenty-four, Nichols shares his highs and lows, his ambivalent relationship with money, his growing disenchantment with the hypocrisy of capitalism, and his love-hate relationship with Hollywood, including the years-long struggle of working with director Robert Redford on the film version of The Milagro Beanfield War, which was filmed around Truchas and featured many of Nichols' northern New Mexico neighbors. Throughout I Got Mine, Nichols spins a shining thread connecting his lifelong engagement with progressive political causes, his passionate interest in, and identification with, ordinary people, and his deep connection to the land. The Environmental Justice Reader Joni Adamson, Mei Mei Evans, Rachel Stein, 2022-02-08 From the First National People of Color Congress on Environmental Leadership to WTO street protests of the new millennium, environmental justice activists have challenged the mainstream movement by linking social inequalities to the uneven distribution of environmental dangers. Grassroots movements in poor communities and communities of color strive to protect neighborhoods and worksites from environmental degradation and struggle to gain equal access to the natural resources that sustain their cultures. This book examines environmental justice in its social, economic, political, and cultural dimensions in both local and global contexts, with special attention paid to intersections of race, gender, and class inequality. The first book to link political studies, literary analysis, and teaching strategies, it offers a multivocal approach that combines perspectives from organizations such as the Southwest Network for Environmental and Economic Justice and the International Indigenous Treaty Council with the insights of such notable scholars as Devon Pe a Giovanna Di Chiro and Valerie Kuletz and also includes a range of newer voices in the field This collection approaches environmental justice concerns from diverse geographical ethnic and disciplinary perspectives always viewing environmental issues as integral to problems of social inequality and oppression It offers new case studies of native Alaskans protests over radiation poisoning Hispanos struggles to protect their land and water rights Pacific Islanders resistance to nuclear weapons testing and nuclear waste storage and the efforts of women employees of maquiladoras to obtain safer living and working environments along the U S Mexican border The selections also include cultural analyses of environmental justice arts such as community art and greening projects in inner city Baltimore and literary analyses of writers such as Jimmy Santiago Baca Linda Hogan Barbara Neely Nez Perce orators Ken Saro Wiwa and Karen Yamashita artists who address issues such as toxicity and cancer lead poisoning of urban African American communities and Native American struggles to remove dams and save salmon The book closes with a section of essays that offer models to teachers hoping to incorporate these issues and texts into their classrooms By combining this array of perspectives this book makes the field of environmental justice more accessible to scholars students and concerned readers
