Frames Of Mind Ability Perception And Self Perception In The Arts And Sciences:

Frames of Mind Liam Hudson, 2017-03-27 Contrary Imaginations was an original and suggestive study of two types of intelligent schoolboy the converger with his preference for science and the diverger with his leaning towards the arts In Frames of Mind originally published in 1968 Liam Hudson extends and enriches this classification and begins to detect the existence of two subcultures Within these it is not merely a question of leanings towards science or the arts as a vocation respect for authority masculine and feminine tendencies qualities of perception and the prevalent myths about various callings are all involved The result is a very human and well grounded investigation of the profound forces whether of social origin or based within their own personalities which in varying ways influence young people in choosing a career

Creativity and Early Years Education Anna Craft, 2002-12-31 Creativity is firmly embedded in curricular exam and inspection schemes Focusing on children aged three to eight this book discusses the teaching of creativity explaining the implications for practice theory and policy through a consideration of pedagogy curriculum learning and assessment

The Woman Composer Jill Halstead, 2017-07-05 Unlike previous anthologizing examinations of women and musical composition this book concentrates on the reasons why there have been and continue to be so few women composers Jill Halstead focuses on the experiences of nine composers born in the twentieth century Avril Coleridge Taylor Grace Williams Elizabeth Maconchy Minna Keal Ruth Gipps Antoinette Kirkwood Enid Luff Judith Bailey and Bryony Jagger to explore the physiological social and political factors that have inhibited women from pursuing careers as composers Is there a biological argument for inferior female creativity Do social structures such as marriage serve to restrict potential women composers Is the gender of a composer reflected in the music they write If so how would this manifest itself The conclusions that are reached are as complex and challenging as the questions that are raised This powerful and provocative book aims to open up debate on these issues which have all too often been avoided by critics and musicologists whose writings have perpetuated arguments that denigrate women's ability to compose By confronting these arguments this study will hopefully begin a reassessment of attitudes towards women and music so that women composers are less of a rarity by the end of the next century

Creativity and Education Hugh Lytton, 2012-05-04 The author gives a lucid account of creativity and its educational context He discusses the creative process the character of different kinds of creativity creative people developing creativity and the creative child at school to give his readers an understanding of the issues that home or school have to face in fostering a creative non habit bound child The book should be particularly welcome to all concerned with education in view of the present stress on child centred education and on the development of individual children's abilities especially their powers of original thought and search to the full

Making Doctors Simon Sinclair, 2020-08-07 Few outsiders realize that student illness is frequently and ironically a by product of medical training This unique study by a medical doctor and trained anthropologist debunks popular myths of expertise and authority which surround the medical establishment and asks provoking questions about the acquisition and dissemination of knowledge within the field In detailing all levels of basic training in a London medical school the author describes students official activities that is what they need to do to qualify as well as their unofficial ones such as their social life in the bar This insider s expos should prompt a serious reconsideration of abuses in a profession which has a critical influence over untold lives In particular it suggests that the structures and discourses of power need to be re examined in order to provide satisfactory answers to sensitive questions relating to gender and race the dialogue between doctor and patient and the mental stability of students under severe stress How

Designers Think Bryan Lawson,2014-05-15 How Designers Think The Designing Process Demystified Second Edition provides a comprehensive discussion of the psychology of the design process The book is comprised of 15 chapters that are organized into three parts The text first discusses the fundamentals of the concept of designer designing and design The second part deals with design problems including its components model and solutions The last part covers the cognitive aspect of designing the coverage of this part includes the philosophes strategies and tactics of design The book will be of great interest to both students and instructors of architecture planning and industrial and interior design Adolescence and Debates examines this debate by tracing the emergence of Psychology from parent disciplines such as philosophy and physiology and analyzes key topics such as the nature of science itself a much misunderstood human activity often equated with natural science the nature of the scientific method and the relationship between data gathering and generalization the nature of certainty and objectivity and their relevance to understanding the kind of scientific discipline Psychology is today This engaging overview written by renowned author Richard Gross is an accessible account of the main conceptual themes and historical developments Covering the core fields of individual differences cognitive social and developmental psychology as well as evolutionary and biopsychology it will enable readers to understand how key ideas and theories have had impacts across a range of topics This is the only concise textbook to give students a thorough grounding in the major conceptual ideas within the field as well as the key figures whose ideas have helped to shape it      Mathematics and the Aesthetic

Nathalie Sinclair, William Higginson, 2007-12-28 A majority of the chapters in this book first saw the light of day as talks at a conference organised and held at Queen's University in Kingston Ontario Canada in April 2001 This small invitational meeting tellingly entitled Beauty and the Mathematical Beast brought together a range of academics interested in and committed to exploring connections between mathematics and aesthetics The enthusiastic response of participants at this gathering encouraged the presenters to expand upon their initial contributions and persuaded the organisers to recruit further chapters in order to bring a greater balance to the whole The timing of this event was not arbitrary The preceding decade had seen a resurgence in serious writing dealing with deeper relations between mathematics and science and the beautiful In many ways we the editors of this volume found these contributions to the literature were revisiting and drawing on themes that had been prominent over two thousand five hundred years ago in certain writings of the Pythagoreans While not intending to offer a historical reappraisal of these ancient thinkers here we have none the less chosen to invoke this profound interweaving of the mathematical and the aesthetic to which this reputedly secretive philosophical sect was extensively attuned This book is divided into three sections comprising three chapters each each with its own short introduction discussing the particular chapters within      Structure in Thought and Feeling (PLE: Emotion) Susan Aylwin, 2014-11-20

How does a person's way of thinking influence their personality their values and their choice of career In this important study originally published in 1985 Susan Aylwin uses such questions as a starting point for elucidating the relationship between thought and feeling Three modes of thought are compared in detail inner speech visual imagery and enactive imagery the last being an important addition to our understanding of mental representations The structural characteristics of all three types are analysed using an association technique Their affective aspects are then explored through a variety of means including the analysis of daydreams an examination of the evaluative complements of categorizing the study of cognitive style an exploration of such social feelings as embarrassment and the experiential study of strong emotion The author ends by integrating her findings showing how thought and feeling are related aspects of the temporal organization of consciousness Structure in Thought and Feeling is written in a lively and accessible style and brings a refreshing perspective to many issues of central concern to psychologists interested in cognition emotion personality and psychotherapy

Relational Practices, Participative Organizing Chris Steyaert, Bart Van Looy, 2010-07-27 This book focuses on the concept and role of relational practices as a way to understand and study processes of organizing Relational practices are conceived as an ongoing everyday process resulting in more participative ways of organizing
