Fiction Urszula Kizelbach,2023-02-22 This book is a pragma stylistic study of Ian McEwan's fiction providing a qualitative analysis of his selected novels using im politeness theory Im politeness is investigated on two levels of analysis the level of the plot and the story world intradiegetic level and the level of the communication between the implied author and implied reader in fiction extradiegetic level The pragmatic theory of im politeness serves the aim of internal characterisation and helps readers to better understand and explain the characters motivations and actions based on the stylistic analysis of their speech and thoughts and point of view More importantly the book introduces the notion of the impoliteness of the literary fiction a state of affairs where the implied author or narrator expresses their impolite beliefs to the reader through the text which has face threatening consequences for the audience e.g moral shock or disgust dissociation from the protagonist feeling hurt or put out Extradiegetic impoliteness one of the key characteristics of McEwan's fiction offers an alternative to the literary concept of a secret communion of the author and reader Booth 1961 describing an ideal connection or good rapport between these two participants of fictional communication This book aims to unite literary scholars and linguists in the debate on the benefits of combining pragmatics and stylistics in literary analysis and it will be of interest to a wide audience in both fields

Supporting Reading in Grades 6-12 Sybil M. Farwell, Nancy L. Teger, 2012-06-11

This book presents a curricular framework for students, grades 6-12, that school librarians and teachers can use collaboratively to enhance reading skill development, promote literature appreciation, and motivate young people to incorporate reading into their lives beyond the required schoolwork. Supporting Reading Grades 6-12: A Guide addresses head-on the disturbing trend of declining leisure reading among students and demonstrates how school librarians can contribute to the development of lifelong reading habits, as well as improve students' motivation and test scores. The book provides a comprehensive framework for achieving this: the READS curriculum, which stands for Read as a personal activity, Explore characteristics, history, and awards of creative works, Analyze structure and aesthetic features of creative works, Develop a literary-based product, and Score reading progress. Each of these five components is explained thoroughly, describing how school librarians can encourage students to read as individuals, in groups, and as school communities; support classroom teachers' instruction; and connect students to today's constantly evolving technologies. Used in combination with an inquiry/information skills model, the READS curriculum enables school librarians to deliver a dynamic, balanced library program that addresses AASL's Standards for the 21st Century Learner.

New Perspectives on Narrative and Multimodality Ruth Page, 2009-09-10

The contributors in this collection question what kinds of relationships hold between narrative studies and the recently established field of multimodality; evaluate how we might develop an analytical vocabulary which recognizes that stories do not consist of words alone and demonstrate the ways in which multimodality brings into fresh focus the embodied nature of narrative production and processing; Engaging with a spectrum of multimodal storytelling from low-tech examples encompassing face-to-face stories, comic books, printed literature, through to opera, film, adaptation, and television documentary, stretching beyond to narratives that employ new media such as hypertext, performance art, and interactive museum guides, this volume examines the interplay of semiotic codes—visual, oral, aural, haptic, physiological—within each case under scrutiny, thereby exposing both points of commonality and difference in the range of multimodal narrative experiences.
