to pursue the goal of overall shelf life extension. Concurrently the increasing requirements among consumers for convenience, smaller package sizes and for minimally processed fresh and healthy foods have necessitated the design of highly sophisticated and engineered coatings. To this end, new chemical pathways, new raw materials (e.g. biopolymers) and non-conventional deposition technologies have been used. Nanotechnology, in particular, paved the way for the development of new architectures and never before seen patterns that eventually yielded nanostructured and nanocomposite coatings with outstanding performance. This book covers the most recent advances in the coating technology applied to the food packaging sector with special emphasis on active coatings and barrier coatings intended for the shelf life extension of perishable foods.
