Proceedings

The first convention of the Industrial Workers of the World was held in Chicago, June 27 to July 8, 1905. Never had America witnessed such a gathering of militants and revolutionaries. Among the galaxy of 112 strike leaders, radicals, labor heroes and heroines who took the floor in the debates were Eugene V. Debs, Daniel De Leon, "Big Bill" Haywood, "Mother" Jones, and Lucy Parsons. Long a rarity, this book once again makes available all the speeches, motions, interventions, and questions of the delegates, communications received by the convention, committee reports, and tabulations of roll-call votes. In these pages the reader finds not only an important historical record but a sense of the past come to life with a message of current relevancy.

powerful influence of race upon American life Iton argues that the failure of the American Left lies in its inability to come to grips with the centrality of race in the American experience Placing the history of the American Left in an illuminating comparative context he also broadens our definition of the Left to include not just political parties and labor unions but also public policy and popular culture an important source for the kind of cultural consensus needed to sustain broad social and collectivist efforts Iton says In short by exposing the impact of race on the development of the American Left Iton offers a provocative new way of understanding the unique orientation of American politics James Connolly Seán
