Doris Lessing

Four Gated City:

The Four-gated City Doris Lessing, 1969 Doris Lessing's classic series of autobiographical novels is the fictional counterpart to Under My Skin. In these five novels first published in the 1950s and 60s Doris Lessing transformed her fascinating life into fiction creating her most complex and compelling character Martha Quest. The Four-gated City Doris Lessing, 1976 The four-gated city Doris Lessing, 1976 The fifth book in the Children of Violence series a quintet of novels tracing the life of Martha Quest from her childhood in colonial Africa through to old age in a post nuclear Britain. The other books are Martha Quest, A Proper Marriage, A Ripple from the Storm and Landlocked. Four-gated City Doris Lessing, 2000 THE FOUR-GATED CITY DORIS LESSING, 1969 The Four-gated City Doris Lessing, 1977

Four-gated City, 1969 The four-gated city Doris May Lessing, 1973 Children of Violence: The four-gated city Doris Lessing, 1969 Rereading Doris Lessing Claire Sprague, 2014-07-02 According to Sprague doubling in Lessing's novels is a perfect correlative for the complexity and contradiction Lessing perceives as central to the private and collective human experience. Her doubles and multiples not only indicate the fracturing or the formation of identity but they also are among the several strategies used to project complex private and societal concerns. This study of Lessing's dialectical imagination extends and revises earlier feminist approaches. Originally published in 1987. A UNC Press Enduring Edition. UNC Press Enduring Editions use the latest in digital technology to make available again books from our distinguished backlist that were previously out of print. These editions are published unaltered from the original and are presented in affordable paperback formats bringing readers both historical and cultural value. Doris Lessing Gayle Greene, 1994 An original and compelling appraisal of this important international literary figure. Between East and West Müge Galin, 1997-01-01 Considers how Lessing's exposure to a particular aspect of tasawwuf the classical Sufi Way has shaped her work. Impresses upon the reader the degree to which Lessing is seriously offering her space fiction utopias as plausible and even necessary alternatives to our present Western ways of life. William Blake and the Moderns Robert J. Bertholf, Annette S. Levitt, 1983-06-30 Robert Bertholf and Annette Levitt have assembled thirteen essays that establish Blake as a central voice molding modern literature and thought. The essays in this volume examine Blake's influence on modern poetry, the modern novel and modern thought from various critical approaches. This collection maps out the lines of direct literary influences and indirect intellectual affinities that make up the tradition of enacted form. Through the use of various aspects of Blake's form and ideas this book reasserts the idea of continuity, the drive for wholeness and the arrival of new poetic forms. Blake is considered one of the major and most modern of Romantics. This collection positions him as a precursor of the modern using his vision and poetry as a base for discussing a central issue in literary theory today: influence and the literary tradition. Just how is the legacy of a literary artist passed on and how is it resurrected in the works of subsequent generations?

Science Fiction and Psychology Gavin Miller, 2020-01-31 Science Fiction and Psychology explores science fiction

literature's varied use of psychological discourses from the late nineteenth century to the end of the twentieth. The readings explore the varied employment in science fiction of ideas from five key psychological schools: evolutionary psychology, psychoanalysis, behaviourism, existential humanism, and cognitivism, and conclude by examining psychology's use of science fiction.

Politics and the British Novel in the 1970s J. Russell Perkin, 2021-06-15 The 1970s in Britain saw a series of industrial disputes, a referendum on membership in the European Economic Community, conflict about issues of immigration and citizenship, and emergent environmental and feminist movements. It was also a decade of innovation in the novel, and novelists often addressed the state of the nation directly in their works. In Politics and the British Novel in the 1970s, Russell Perkin looks at social novels by John Fowles and Margaret Drabble, the Cold War thrillers of John le Carr, Richard Adams's best-selling fable Watership Down, the popular campus novels of Malcolm Bradbury and David Lodge, Doris Lessing's dystopian visions, and V. S. Naipaul's explorations of post-colonial displacement. Many of these highly regarded works sold in large numbers and have enjoyed enduring success, a testament to the power of the political novel to explain a nation to itself. Perkin explores the connections between the novel and politics, situating the works it discusses in the rich context of the history and culture of the decade, from party politics to popular television shows. Politics and the British Novel in the 1970s elucidates a period of literary history now fifty years in the past and offers a balanced perspective on the age, revealing that these works not only represented the politics of the time but played a meaningful role in them.

The Dialogic Self Roxanne J. Fand, 1999 By theorizing subjectivity according to the dialogic model of Mikhail Bakhtin, author Roxanne J. Fand posits a moderating self-narrator who, rather than imposing a single authoritarian voice of fixed ideology and identity, negotiates among diverse internalized voices of one's social-ecological milieu.

Old Lines, New Forces Robert K. Morris, 1976 Draws together a dozen essays by the foremost contemporary critics of the British novel to examine its growth in the sixties. The collection of critical pieces is devoted to major, minor, and rising novelists who are cultivating the seedbed of contemporary fictional talent in England today.

Madness and Sexual Politics in the Feminist Novel Barbara Hill Rigney, 1978 A greater part of the feminist movement has considered traditional psychology to be both a product and a defense of the status quo, a patriarchal society. Here Barbara Hill Rigney explores emerging feminist psychology by applying it to literary works by women who have depicted the relationship between madness and the female condition. The result is a fascinating and illuminating exposition, certain to be welcomed by students and scholars in literature and women's studies as well as those in sociology and psychology whose interests include feminism and problems of women and society. Among the works Rigney considers are Charlotte Brontë's Jane Eyre, Virginia Woolf's Mrs Dalloway, Doris Lessing's The Four-Gated City, and Margaret Atwood's Surfacing, all of which depict insanity in relation to sexual politics. These authors portray a patriarchal social system which, in itself, manifests symptoms of collusive madness in the form of war or sexual oppression and is thereby seen as threatening to female psychological survival. Each of Rigney's author subjects sees her protagonist as tragically divided between male society's prescribed roles for women and a sense of an authentic self. Thus emerges a pattern common to all works in which the divided self is reflected by the inevitable juxtaposition of the protagonist to a doppelgänger, an insane self, an extension of the protagonist who herself can be regarded as sane only by degree. A return to true sanity is traced through the patterns found in the selected works. Rigney explores the literary metaphor of the return of Demeter or the Amazon mother to restore the alienated female protagonists. In order to begin the return from psychosis, Rigney concludes they must find the mother within themselves in the form of a feminist consciousness of self worth. Doris Lessing Alice Ridout, Susan Watkins, 2011-10-20. Despite winning the Nobel Prize for Literature, Doris Lessing has received relatively little critical attention. One of the reasons for this is that Lessing has spent much of her lifetime and her long published writing career crossing both national and ideological borders. This essay collection reflects and explores the incredible variety of Lessing's border crossings and positions her writing in its various social and cultural contexts. Lessing crosses literal national borders in her life and work, but more controversial have been her crossings of genre borders into sci-fi and space fiction and her crossing of ideological borders such as moving into and out of the Communist Party and from a colonial into a post-colonial world. This timely collection also considers a number of the most interesting recent critical and theoretical approaches to Lessing's writing, including work on maternity and abjection in relation to The Fifth Child and The Grass is Singing, eco-criticism in Lessing's Ifraikan novels and postcolonial re-writings of landscape in her African Stories.

Romanticism and the City L. Peer, 2011-04-25. Romanticism and the City explores how late eighteenth and early nineteenth century literature conceptualized urban space. Fresh readings of key texts show how Romantic concerns with urban life shaped both individual works and broad theoretical issues in European Romanticism at large.
