Le Guin, 2019-02-05 Resistance and change often begin in art Very often in our art the art of words Ursula K Le Guin When she began writing in the 1960s Ursula K Le Guin was as much of a literary outsider as one can be a woman writing in a landscape dominated by men a science fiction and fantasy author in an era that dismissed genre literature as unserious and a westerner living far from fashionable East Coast publishing circles The interviews collected here spanning a remarkable forty years of productivity and covering everything from her Berkeley childhood to Le Guin envisioning the end of capitalism highlight that unique perspective which conjured some of the most prescient and lasting books in modern literature

Anarchism & Sexuality Jamie Heckert, Richard Cleminson, 2011-10-20 Anarchism between sexual desires categorised as heterosexual or homosexual between seemingly mutually exclusive activism and scholarship between forms of expression such as poetry and prose and between disciplinary categories of knowledge Anarchism to make a queer and feminist intervention within the most recent wave of anarchist scholarship and to make a queerly anarchist contribution to social justice literature policy and practice By mingling prose and poetry theory and autobiography it constitutes a gathering place to explore the interplay between sexual and social transformation This book will be of use to those interested in anarchist movements cultural studies critical legal theory gender studies and queer and sexuality studies Ursula K. Le Guin, Consent, and Metaphor Kate

Sheckler,2022-02-28 In Ursula K Le Guin Consent and Metaphor Kate Sheckler constructs a new method to categorize metaphor arguing that the moment of consent that exists in the form determines the effects of the interchange Using the fiction of Ursula K Le Guin with the work of Paul Ricoeur as a primary theoretical focus Sheckler identifies both the dangers and necessity of understanding the interplay that determines by whom and at what point consent is offered within the dynamic shift that occurs in metaphor In doing so she identifies the way marginalized groups and cultures can be reconstructed in service to an outside force and notes the absolute necessity of metaphor as a constructive force in a world where we must imagine new ways to approach the future Forgiven and Forgiving L. William Countryman,1998-03

Combining excellent theology theory and practical pastoral suggestions the author explores the concept that forgiveness is not a step by step process but one of conversion and of seeing Gods way Biblically based with sound academic research yet written in a conversational style Forgiveness, Reparation, and Remorse Anthony Bash,Martyn Percy,2025-01-04 The authors explore a variety of traditions historical and contemporary religious and non religious about forgiveness apologies and resentment They critically interact with the traditions to identify and synthesize the best from them all and develop a new taxonomy of forgiveness The traditions are also drawn on and re imagined for situations of systemic wrongdoing in a new way The book explores why people want apologies and sometimes something more such as restitution and why people consider them to be necessary The authors discuss the reason as partly arising because people feel resentment when they have been wronged They therefore explore what resentment is and why people feel resentment recognizing that resentment can be effectively mitigated other than through apologies or like behaviour Reflections on power leadership and authority thread their way through each chapter In the final chapter the book offers a proposed outline of a legal framework for apologies by public organizations that meet what the book identifies as cogent forms of institutional and organisational apologies and forgiveness This unique book addresses these relatively neglected topics systematically and coherently tested methods can help us with every conundrum from how to bicker less with our partners to pitching to a tough crowd and in doing so change our lives The Forgiveness of Others Ashraf H. A. Rushdy, 2025-05-02 The Forgiveness of Others claims that forgiveness is a complex and dynamic moral practice that raises metaphysical questions about the meaning of change and of personal identity When we forgive we are transformed from one state resentment say and one identity injured party to another state and identity someone forgiving By looking closely at various accounts of forgiving and being forgiven and of being unforgiving and unforgiven this book explores how often we find cases in which we have substitutions as well as transformations Rushdy focuses on two kinds of substitutions cases in which we have survivors who forgive on behalf of the absent injured party and cases in which we have proxies who are forgiven on behalf of the wrongdoer He contends that these substitutions help us more fully understand the dynamic conditions of forgiveness What might seem to some to be violations of the protocols of forgiveness being offered by and to others is arguably the crux of forgiveness as a moral practice that transforms those who offer and receive it in a way that represents or effects their transformation This volume advocates a pluralist approach that traces an alternative path between those who argue that forgiveness is meaningful only if it follows a particularly restrictive paradigm and those who argue that it is meaningless because it is either futile or impossible
