Using Art Media in Psychotherapy Michelle L. Dean, 2016-01-22 Using Art Media in Psychotherapy makes a thoughtful and contextual argument for using graphic art materials in psychotherapy providing historical context for art materials and their uses and incorporating them with contemporary practices and theories Written with an analytic focus many of the psychological references nod to Jung and post Jungian thought with keen attention to image and to symbolic function This book jettisons the idea of reductionist cookbook approaches and instead provides an integrated and contextual understanding of the origins of each art form as well as an insightful use for each in its application in mental health healing practices Using Art Media in Psychotherapy gives clinicians and students alike the tools they need to offer psychologically minded and clinically astute choices that honor their clients Conducting Educational Research R.

Murray Thomas, 1998-09-30 Emphasizing the comparative aspects of research this introduction to educational research traces the process through five stages choosing what to study including specifying the research problem collecting information organizing and summarizing information interpreting results and reporting the outcomes Each of the stages offers diverse options available to researchers for solving the problems of that stage and a research project checklist at the end of each chapter guides readers in applying the chapter's contents to their own research studies In much educational discourse comparative education has referred solely to the study of educational similarities and differences between regions of the world or between two or more nations This book uses the broader definition of the term to encompass a large body of research including studies focusing on comparisons between local educational systems schools classrooms language groups religious denominations genders social classes and individual students Students who are planning research projects as well as staff members of such organizations as ministries of education school systems bureaus of educational research and educational aid agencies will find this volume indispensable Fall Narratives Zohar Hadromi-Allouche, Áine

Larkin, 2016-12-01 Throughout history the motif of the Fall has impacted upon our understanding of theology and philosophy and has had an influence on everything from literature to dance Fall Narratives brings together theologians historians and artists as well as philosophers and scholars of religion and literature to explore and reflect on a wide range of concepts of the Fall Bringing a fresh understanding of the nuanced meanings of the Fall and its various manifestations over time and across space contributions reflect on the ways in which the Fall can be seen as a transition into absence how conceptions of the Fall relate to change and shape one another and how the Fall can be seen positively embracing as it does a narrative of hope
