Democracy and Global Water Politics in Historical Perspective Jose Esteban Castro, 2024-12-23 This book addresses water privatization from a historical sociological perspective and argues against the unrelenting imposition of neoprivatist water politics worldwide. Water is essential for life but it is also a source of economic and political power. Prevailing water politics continues to erode the conditions of dignified living conditions of millions of human beings around the world including many living in Western capitalist democracies. The book revisits water related myths, fake truths and authoritarian practices promoted or employed by International Financial Institutions, governments and other powerful actors to keep enforcing long failed policies grounded on ideological dogmas and short term interests and argues for the substantive democratization of water politics and management. It rejects claims of scientific neutrality from academics and other actors across the political spectrum who are co responsible for the perpetuation of these conditions, interrogating the ethics of scientific political pragmatism.

Democracy and Democratization in Africa Udogu, 2021-11-01 The 9 contributors to this volume are Africanists whose comprehension of the political vernacular of Africa helped to sharpen their analyses of a continent on the eve of a new millennium and in the aftermath of the Cold War. The debate over the most relevant political models for African countries has till recently been conducted against a backdrop of the competing claims of socialism and capitalism. Attempts to consolidate democracy and constitutionalism have taken place in the shadow of intractable economic problems prompting the question of whether democracy can survive in Africa without economic prosperity. The papers published here address many of these problems as well as dealing with the questions of ethnicity, leadership, the power of the military and prodemocracy movements within African nation states.

Constitutional Change and Democracy in Indonesia Donald L. Horowitz, 2013-03-25 How did democracy become entrenched in the world's largest Muslim majority country? After the fall of its authoritarian regime in 1998, Indonesia pursued an unusual course of democratization. It was insider dominated and gradualist and it involved free elections before a lengthy process of constitutional reform. At the end of the process, Indonesia's amended constitution was essentially a new and thoroughly democratic document. By proceeding as they did, the Indonesians averted the conflict that would have arisen between adherents of the old constitution and proponents of radical immediate reform. Donald L. Horowitz documents the decisions that gave rise to this distinctive constitutional process. He then traces the effects of the new institutions on Indonesian politics and discusses their shortcomings and their achievements in steering Indonesia away from the dangers of polarization and violence. He also examines the Indonesian story in the context of comparative experience with constitutional design and intergroup conflict.

Democracy and Democratization Michael Moran, Geraint Parry, 2015-04-29 Following the collapse of the former regimes of Eastern and Central Europe and Latin America the choice of all of the democratising countries was to move towards liberal democracy Likewise in Africa many authoritarian regimes seem to be in retreat perhaps most significantly in South Africa Democracy seems to be the only valued political system of the late twentieth century so that even China for example describes itself as the people's democratic dictatorship So have we really as Francis Fukuyama suggested reached the end of history Should we not look seriously at the tension between liberalism and democracy which have led to dissatisfaction with the liberal model in countries such as Britain and France Is it not important to discuss the real problems of stabilisation and survival which the democratising countries are experiencing This timely collection examines questions of central concern to scholars and practitioners of politics It looks at both the concept of democracy and the process of democratisation combining theoretical chapters by historians of ideas and political theorists with empirical chapters on the process of democratisation in Eastern Europe China The Middle East and Latin America as well as in established democracies such as Britain and France
