Fractured Cities Brian David Jacobs,1992 A book describing the political economy of urban change which explores the future of the city and the implications of social disorder and injustice Fractured Cities Brian D. Jacobs,2003-09-02 Anglo American cities face economic decline social polarisation and racial conflict Their fate is increasingly decided by the global actions of transnational corporations and market forces Community groups find it difficult to gain access to the political system Ethnic minorities strive for empowerment while indebted city governments battle to maintain basic services Such is the urban crisis of the 1990s Fractured Cities describes the political economy of urban change and explores the future of the city

Building the Urban Environment Harold L Platt,2015-10 History and critique of post World War II urban planning explores its effects on the environment race labor housing and municipal administration

Creating Sustainable Community Programs Mark R. Daniels,2001-02-28 Public opinion polls consistently reveal the lack of confidence disillusionment and mistrust that citizens feel toward government Daniels and his contributors believe that the relationship between citizens and their governments can be changed by facilitating greater citizen collaboration with government particularly through local sustainable programs As the case studies show often sustainable community programs are created through grassroots movements that are initiated and managed by citizens themselves bringing them in contact with their local elected and appointed officials Unlike traditional programs that are administered by local officials on behalf of their citizens once sustainable community programs are created citizens administer their own programs in collaboration with local officials The case studies look at a variety of sustainable programs primarily in the United States that help to deal with issues such as recycling transportation microcredit site redevelopment pollution health care and hunger Creating Sustainable Community Programs is the first book on sustainable programs that is intended for an audience of public administration scholars researchers and students as well as practitioners who are searching for ways to change the relationship between citizens and their governments

Cities and Consumption Mark Jayne,2006 This text investigates the mutual and dynamic relationship between urban development and consumption It uses case studies and illustrations from North America Europe and Asia

Transforming Cities Nick Jewson,Susanne MacGregor,2005-06-28 This collection examines the profound transformations that have characterised cities of the advanced capitalist societies in the final decades of the 20th century It analyses ways in which relationships of contest conflict and cooperation are realised in and through the social and spatial forms of contemporary urban life In particular the essays focus on the impact of economic restructuring and changing forms of urban governance on patterns of urban deprivation and social exclusion These processes they contend are creating new patterns of social division and new forms of regulation and control

Planning in Divided Cities Frank Gaffikin,Mike Morrissey,2011-04-18 Does planning in contested cities inadvertently make the divisions worse The 60s and 70s saw a strong role of planning social engineering etc but there has since been a move towards a more decentralised community planning

approach The book examines urban planning and policy in the context of deeply contested space where place identity and cultural affinities are reshaping cities Throughout the world contentions around identity and territory abound and in Britain this problem has found recent expression in debates about multiculturalism and social cohesion These issues are most visible in the urban arena where socially polarised communities co habit cities also marked by divided ethnic loyalties The relationship between the two is complicated by the typical pattern that social disadvantage is disproportionately concentrated among ethnic groups who also experience a social and cultural estrangement based on religious or racial identity Navigating between social exclusion and community cohesion is essential for the urban challenges of efficient resource use environmental enhancement and the development of a flourishing economy The book addresses planning in divided cities in a UK and international context examining cities such as Chicago hyper segregated around race and Jerusalem acting as a crucible for a wider conflict The first section deals with concepts and theories examining the research literature and situating the issue within the urban challenges of competitiveness and inclusion Section 2 covers collaborative planning and identifies models of planning policy and urban governance that can operate in contested space Section 3 presents case studies from Belfast Chicago and Jerusalem examining both the historical contemporary features of these cities and their potential trajectories The final section offers conclusions and ways forward drawing the lessons for creating shared space in a pluralist cities and addressing cohesion and multiculturalism Addresses important contemporary issue of social cohesion vs urban competitiveness focus on impact of government policies will appeal to practitioners in urban management local government and regeneration Examines role of planning in cities worldwide divided by religion race socio economic etc Explores debate about contested space in urban policy and planning Identifies models for understanding contested spaces in cities as a way of improving effectiveness of government policy

European Cities and Towns Peter Clark, 2009-01-30

Since the Middle Ages Europe has been one of the most urbanized continents on the planet and Europe s cities have firmly stamped their imprint on the continent s economic social political and cultural life This study of European cities and towns from the fall of the Roman Empire to the present day looks both at regional trends from across Europe and also at the widely differing fortunes of individual communities on the roller coaster of European urbanization Taking a wide angled view of the continent that embraces northern and eastern Europe as well as the city systems of the Mediterranean and western Europe it addresses important debates ranging from the nature of urban survival in the post Roman era to the position of the European city in a globalizing world The book is divided into three parts dealing with the middle ages the early modern period and the nineteenth and twentieth centuries with each part containing chapters on urban trends the urban economy social developments cultural life and landscape and governance Throughout the book addresses key questions such as the role of migration including that of women and ethnic minorities the functioning of competition and emulation between cities as well as issues of inter urban cooperation the different ways civic leaders have sought to promote urban identity and visibility the significance of urban autonomy in enabling cities to protect their interests against the state and not least why European cities and towns over the period have been such pressure cookers for new ideas and creativity whether economic political or cultural

Power and Politics in the City Janice Caulfield, John Wanna, 1995 This study of community power in Brisbane analyses the challenges posed by growth and the shifting of the balance of power from the country to the city Consists of a series of case studies focusing on discrete policy issues and key areas and exploring topics such as relations between state and city governments and between public and private sectors and their impact on the Brisbane community Caulfield is a lecturer in public administration at the University of Queensland and Wanna is a senior lecturer in politics and public policy at Griffith University

Cities in Contemporary Europe Arnaldo Bagnasco, Patrick Le Galès, 2000-05-11 European cities are at the centre of social political and economic changes in Western Europe This book proposes a new research agenda in urban sociology and politics applying primarily to European cities in particular those that together make up the urban structure of Europe a fabric of older cities of over 100 000 inhabitants regional capitals and smaller state capitals The contributors develop an analytical framework which views cities as local societies and as collective factors and site for modes of governance The three parts of the book examine the economics of cities the social structures and the modes and processes of governance Each chapter comprises a comparison across several countries and examines critically the book's central theoretical perspective This is not a book about the making of a Europe of cities but rather about how some cities can take advantage of their changing global and European environment

Branding Cities Stephanie Hemelryk Donald, Eleonore Kofman, Catherine Kevin, 2009-01-13 Cultural analysts social scientists and media scholars explore the ways in which cities generate competing visions of their use and their future thereby branding their image for international consumption

Strategy and Partnership in Cities and Regions B. Jacobs, 2015-12-22 Policy makers in Pittsburgh Birmingham and Rotterdam are confronted with rapidly changing social and economic environments Public and private sector organizations in the three cities are increasingly addressing regional issues strategically and joining together in partnerships to promote competitiveness and economic growth Local communities are linking to regional economies as companies restructure and strategy makers recognise the benefits of urban regeneration as an important condition for economic prosperity The book covers the complexities of modern governance under such circumstances the diversity and patterning of public private partnerships and networks and the changing economic development strategies of city governments and regional and local organizations

Urban Regeneration in the UK Andrew Tallon, 2013-06-07

Striking transformations are taking place in the urban landscape. The regeneration of urban areas in the UK and around the world has become an increasingly important issue amongst governments and populations since the global economic downturn. This textbook provides an accessible and critical synthesis of urban regeneration in the UK, analyzing key policies, approaches, issues and debates. It places the historical and contemporary regeneration agenda in context. The second edition has been extensively revised and updated to incorporate advances in literature, policy and case study examples as well as giving greater discussion to the New Labour period of urban policy and the urban agenda and regeneration policies of the Conservative Liberal Democrat Coalition government elected in 2010. The book is divided into five sections with Section I establishing the conceptual and political framework for urban regeneration in the UK. Section II traces policies that have been adopted by central government to influence the social, economic and physical development of cities, including early town and country and housing initiatives, community-focused urban policies of the late 1960s, entrepreneurial property-led regeneration of the 1980s, competition for urban funds in the 1990s, urban renaissance and neighborhood renewal policies of the late 1990s and early 2000s, and new approaches since 2010 which have sought to stimulate enterprise and embrace localism in an age of austerity resulting from the global economic downturn. Section III illustrates the key thematic policies and strategies that have been pursued by cities themselves, focusing particularly on improving economic competitiveness, tackling social disadvantage and promoting sustainable urban regeneration. Section IV summarizes key issues and debates facing urban regeneration in the early 2010s and speculates upon future directions in an era of economic and political uncertainty. Urban Regeneration in the UK combines the approaches taken by central government and cities themselves to regenerate urban areas, providing a comprehensive and up-to-date synthesis of the field. Each chapter also contains case studies, study questions, suggested further reading and websites, making this an essential resource for undergraduate students interested in Urban Studies, Geography, Planning and the Built Environment.

Town and Country Planning in the UK Barry Cullingworth, Vincent Nadin, 2006-10-16 This revised fourteenth edition reinforces this title's reputation as the bible of British planning. It provides a thorough explanation of planning processes, including the institutions involved, tools, systems, policies and changes to land use.

Docklands Janet Foster, 2020-10-21 This text is a sociological study of a community in transition and the impact of urban regeneration. The process of change on the Isle of Dogs is revealed from the differing perspectives of Islanders, developers and business and yuppies attracted to the area. The book is intended for undergraduate and postgraduate courses in urban sociology, social geography, cultural and community studies, housing and urban planning, race and ethnic studies and broader market including Open University courses, A-level courses and general interest.

Cities on the Margin, on the Margin of Cities Philippe Laplace, Eric Tabuteau, 2003
Docklands: Urban Change Janet Foster, 2005-06-27 A sociological study of a community in transition and the impact of urban regeneration. Change on the Isle of Dogs is revealed from the differing perspectives of Islanders developers and business and yuppies attracted to the area

The Secret Life of Cities Helen Jarvis, Andy C. Pratt, Peter Cheng-Chong Wu, 2016-07-01 Contemporary urbanisation has two faces global flows of people money and information and that of localised social and economic disparities Recent research has focused on the headlines of global cities as control centres of the world economy and social and economic shock waves that have raged through cities and regions but less attention has been paid to the secret life of cities and the changing nature of everyday life in the wake of such changes This book challenges current research and policy agendas recommending spatial concentration and relocation as a solution to the problems of environmental sustainability and social dislocation Instead this book highlights the key linkages between social and environmental problems it argues that neither are likely to be resolved with a simple spatial fix The book draws attention to local contexts of contemporary urbanisation emphasising consideration of policy making from the perspective of the household as a key unit of analysis in identifying links between labour and housing markets transport and leisure This book draws upon detailed household interviews about the daily experience of life in a global city It illustrates the dilemmas and solutions that people routinely find in order to go on in their lives It shows that these local fixes that are managed at the level of the household work in spite of and sometimes against existing policies aimed at sustainability It concludes that policy making needs to be radically overhauled in order to address the integrated nature of people s everyday lives

Healthy Cities Namir Khan, Willem H. Vanderburg, 2001 Modern cities can be designed to constitute a more supportive environment for a great many activities provide a more livable habitat and reduce the burden imposed on the biosphere They can be made healthier in terms of the definition by World Health Organization and more sustainable by means of new and emerging preventive approaches Healthy Cities focuses on those preventive approaches that can make cities healthier and more sustainable This book as well as the two companion volumes Sustainable Energy and Sustainable Production is the result of a twelve year research project carried out at the Center for Technology and Social Development at the University of Toronto The research findings led to the development of a new conceptual framework and strategy aimed at converting technological and economic growth into development that would gradually become more sustainable
