

A young child with blonde hair is lying on their stomach on a light-colored carpet. They are wearing a light blue shirt and a pink and blue patterned diaper. The child is playing with wooden blocks, some of which are stacked. A colorful toy, possibly a rolling pin or a similar object, is lying on the carpet next to the child. The background is a blurred indoor setting with a blue wall and a white door.

Occupational Therapy Models for Intervention with Children and Families Sandra Barker Dunbar, 2007 This textbook explores recent theoretical models that enable occupational therapists to practice and interact with families in a more holistic and occupation centered manner It offers the latest information on viewing the broader contexts of environment and family in order to meet diverse occupational needs in a range of settings The editor presents a variety of case scenarios that feature culturally diverse populations and varying diagnoses of children with occupational needs With contributions from 11 leaders in occupational therapy this comprehensive text is designed to increase awareness and understanding of theoretical models and their relationship to current occupational therapy practice with today's children and families. Traditional frames of reference in pediatric practice are explored, including sensory integration and neurodevelopmental treatment. Some current theoretical models discussed include the Model of Human Occupation, the Person-Environment-Occupation model, the Ecology of Human Performance model, and the Occupational Adaptation model. The new Occupational Therapy Practice Framework is incorporated throughout the text. Overall, the textbook employs a practical approach to this significant aspect of pediatric practice in occupational therapy.

Kramer and Hinojosa's Frames of Reference for Pediatric Occupational Therapy Paula L. Kramer, Tsu-Hsin Howe, Francine M. Seruya, 2025-06-23

Using frames of reference as effective blueprints for applying theory to pediatric OT practice, Kramer and Hinojosa's Frames of Reference for Pediatric Occupational Therapy 5th Edition helps students learn to effectively evaluate child and adolescent clients and plan for intervention. This proven, reader-friendly approach helps students understand the why of each frame of reference: neurodevelopment or Ayres sensory integration, for example, before moving on to the how of creating effective treatment programs. Thoroughly updated content covers the foundations of frames of reference for pediatric OT, followed by commonly used frames of reference such as biomechanical and motor skill acquisition. A final section discusses focused frames of reference such as handwriting skills and social participation. An easy-to-follow, templated format provides illustrated real-world examples as it guides readers through each frame of reference: Theoretical Base, the Function-Dysfunction Continuum, Guide to Evaluation, Application to Practice, and Supporting Evidence.
