Feminist Film Studies Karen Hollinger, 2012-08-21 Feminist Film Studies is a readable yet comprehensive textbook for introductory classes in feminist film theory and criticism. Karen Hollinger provides an accessible overview of women's representation and involvement in film complemented by analyses of key texts that illustrate major topics in the field. Key areas include a brief history of the development of feminist film theory, the theorization of the male gaze and the female spectator, women in genre films and literary adaptations, the female biopic, feminism and avant-garde and documentary film, women as auteurs, lesbian representation, women in Third Cinema. Each chapter includes a Films in Focus section which analyzes key texts related to the chapter's major topic, including examples from classical Hollywood world cinema and the contemporary period. This book provides students in both film and gender women's studies with a clear introduction to the field of feminist film theory and criticism.

Cinéma&Cie. International Film Studies Journal

Aa, 2015-08-03T00:00:00+02:00 Over the last two decades, discoveries made in the field of cognitive neuroscience have begun to permeate humanities and social sciences. This special issue of Cinéma&Cie focuses on major conceptual and epistemological arguments arising from the dialogue between audiovisual studies and neurosciences. In the context of this intersection, Neurofilmology is an interdisciplinary research program that arises at the encounter between two models of viewer: the viewer as mind deriving from a cognitive analytical approach and the viewer as body typical of the phenomenological continental approach. Accordingly, Neurofilmology focuses on the viewer as organism by investigating with both empirical and speculative epistemological tools the subject of audiovisual experience postulated as embodied, enacted, extended, emerging, affective and relational.

Knowledge and Knowing in Media and Film Studies Steve Connolly, 2025-05-20 For traditional subjects such as History, Art and Science, debate about the nature of knowledge in the school curriculum has produced a growing literature on the relationship between disciplinary knowledge and what is taught in schools. For newer subjects, however, the path is less clear. Knowledge and Knowing in Media and Film Studies is the first book to grapple with the question for these two related subjects. Steve Connolly argues that while Media and Film Studies each have a clear epistemological base, consideration of craft skills alongside factual knowledge and criticality has led to the development of different criteria for what constitutes valuable knowledge than in traditional school subjects. The book problematises this difference through a genealogy of both subjects as they appear in the English school curriculum, charting their historical and disciplinary origins within that system. In so doing, it finds that far from being new subjects, Media and Film Studies have parallel histories with more established subjects. Using a range of primary and secondary data, including interviews with media and film teachers, case studies and historical sources, the book provides an account of knowledge and knowing in school Media Studies and Film Studies which both consolidates existing views and proposes some new perspectives Praise for Knowledge and Knowing in Media and Film Studies The status of Media and Film Education has been contested for a very long time In this book Steve Connolly drills down beneath the surface level of debates about academic rigour and what education is for He analyses how knowledge works in these subjects how it differs from other educational processes why this is important and how this matters for more recent endeavours in media literacy No future conversation about the value of these subjects in education should begin without attention to this rich contribution Julian McDougall Bournemouth University book     Jungian Film Studies Helena Bassil-Morozow, Luke Hockley, 2016-11-25 Jungian film studies is a fast growing academic field but Jungian and post Jungian concepts are still new to many academics and film critics Helena Bassil Morozow and Luke Hockley present Jungian Film Studies The Essential Guide the first book to bring together all the different strands issues and arguments in the discipline and guide the reader through the various ways in which Jungian psychology can be applied to moving images Bassil Morozow and Hockley cover a range of Jungian concepts including the collective unconscious archetypes the individuation process alchemy and signs and symbols showing how they can be used to discuss the core cinematic issues such as narrative structure gender identity genre authorship and phenomenology The authors argue that as a place where the unconscious and conscious meet cinema offers the potential for imagery that is psychologically potent meaningful and that plays a role in our personal psychological development This much needed book which bridges the space between Jungian concepts and traditional film theory will be essential reading for scholars and students of Analytical Psychology psychoanalysis Jungian film studies media film and cultural studies psychosocial psychology and clinical psychology It will also appeal to analytical psychologists psychotherapists and readers with an interest in film analysis     Cinema and Secularism Mark Cauchi, 2023-12-14 Cinema and Secularism is the first collection to make the relationship between cinema and secularism thematic utilizing a number of different methodological approaches to examine their identification and differentiation across film theory film aesthetics film history and throughout global cinema The emergence of moving images and the history of cinema historically coincide with the emergence of secularism as a concept and discourse More than historically coinciding however cinema and secularism would seem to have and many contemporary theorists and critics seem to assume a more intrinsic almost ontological connection to each other While early film theorists and critics explicitly addressed questions about secularism religion and cinema once the study of film was professionalized and secularized in the Western academy in both film studies and religious studies explicit and critical attention to the relationship between cinema and secularism rapidly declined Indeed if one canvases film scholarship today one will find barely any works dedicated to thinking critically about the relationship between cinema and secularism Extending the recent secular turn in the humanities and social sciences Cinema and Secularism provokes critical reflection on its titular concepts Making contributions to theory philosophy criticism and history the chapters in this pioneering volume collectively interrogate the assumption that cinema is secular how secularism is conceived and related to cinema differently in different film cultures and whether the world is disenchanted or enchanted in cinema Coming from intellectually diverse backgrounds in film studies religious studies and philosophy the interdisciplinary contributors to this book cover films and traditions of thought from America Europe Africa the Middle East South Asia and East Asia In these ways Cinema and Secularism opens new areas of inquiry in the study of film and contributes to the ongoing interrogation of secularism more broadly     Feminist Film Studies Janet McCabe, 2005-01-19 An introduction to feminist film theory as a discourse from the early seventies to the present McCabe traces the broad ranging theories produced by feminist film scholarship from formalist readings and psychoanalytical approaches to debates initiated by cultural studies race and queer theory Medium Cool Roger Beebe,2007-09-26 Provides a survey of the history of televised music videos around the globe The "Nation" in War Gita Viswanath,2014-04-11 The Nation in War A Study of Military Literature and Hindi War Cinema explores the notions of nation and nationalism as they emerge in war narratives specifically military literature and war films in popular Hindi cinema This book is an interesting examination of how the discourses of military literature and war films construct the subject namely nation The Indian nation faces a multi pronged attack from neighbouring countries that seek territorial aggrandizement the forces of liberalization economic and cultural and from secessionist forces within the nation In the face of such an attack a plethora of discourses engages seriously in constructing an idea of the Indian nation and reinforcing the notion of an Indian identity The nation may have come into existence as a political entity in August 1947 but the nation as a cultural social and economic entity is constantly in the making The Nation in War addresses concerns such as What narrative modes are deployed to create consensus for war How do war narratives further the statist agenda What is the link between the war waged by the national army and that by the insurgents How do war narratives construct women as national subjects These questions and more are addressed using theoretical insights from various disciplinary positions such as feminist postcolonial and film studies The book will be of interest to scholars of cultural studies film studies feminist studies political science and sociology From Film Adaptation to Post-Celluloid Adaptation Costas Constandinides,2010-10-21 The main corpus of film adaptation thus far has focused on films based on canonical literature From Film Adaptation to Post Celluloid Adaptation takes the next logical step by discussing the emerging modes of film adaptation from older media to new mainly focusing on the computer generated reconstructions of popular narratives and characters along with other forms of convergence such as the Internet While New Media is a broad concept the book will concentrate on the ways digital technology is being used in the encoding of films and discuss the ways this shift can be debated from a theoretical perspective Though the discussion is framed through the new media lens the work will not exclude a broader understanding of New Media which refers to video games official websites and interactivity so as to examine how the visual style of contemporary films is dispersed across and influenced by other media Discussing films like Minority Report King Kong 300 and Wanted in relation to Film Adaptation theory the work aims to challenge and rework the definition of adaptation

Japanese Cinema in the Digital Age Mitsuyo Wada-Marciano,2012-05-31 Digital technology has transformed cinema s production distribution and consumption patterns and pushed contemporary cinema toward increasingly global markets In the case of Japanese cinema a once moribund industry has been revitalized as regional genres such as anime and Japanese horror now challenge Hollywood s preeminence in global cinema In her rigorous investigations of J horror personal documentary anime and ethnic cinema Mitsuyo Wada Marciano deliberates on the role of the transnational in bringing to the mainstream what were formerly marginal B movie genres She argues persuasively that convergence culture which these films represent constitutes Japan's response to the variegated flows of global economics and culture With its timely analysis of new modes of production emerging from the struggles of Japanese filmmakers and animators to finance and market their work in a post studio era this book holds critical implications for the future of other national cinemas fighting to remain viable in a global marketplace As academics in film and media studies prepare a wholesale shift toward a transnational perspective of film Wada Marciano cautions against jettisoning the entire national cinema paradigm Discussing the technological advances and the new cinematic flows of consumption she demonstrates that while contemporary Japanese film on the one hand expresses the transnational as an object of desire i e a form of total cosmopolitanism on the other hand that desire is indeed inseparable from Japan's national identity Drawing on a substantial number of interviews with auteur directors such as Kore-eda Hirokazu Kurosawa Kiyoshi and Kawase Naomi and incisive analysis of select film texts this compelling original work challenges the presumption that Hollywood is the only authentically global cinema

Interpretation and Film Studies Phillip Novak, 2020-07-31 This book argues that the sustained interpretation of individual movies has contrary to conventional wisdom never been a major preoccupation of film studies that indeed the field is marked by a dearth of effective engaging and enlightening critical analyses of single films The book makes this case by surveying what has been written about four historically important and well known movies D W Griffith's Way Down East Marcel Carné's Port of Shadows Mike Nichols's The Graduate and Michelangelo Antonioni's Red Desert none of which has been the focus of sustained critical attention and by exhaustively examining the kinds of work published in four influential film journals Cinema Journal Screen Wide Angle and Movie The book goes on to argue for the value of the work of interpretation illustrating this value through extended analyses of Roman Polanski's Chinatown and Christopher Nolan's Memento both of which thematize interpretation Novak demonstrates the causes and consequences of reading poorly and the importance of reading well

Intersections Across Disciplines Brad Hokanson, Marisa Exter, Amy Grincewicz, Matthew Schmidt, Andrew A. Tawfik, 2020-12-15 This volume is the result of the annual Summer research symposium sponsored by the Association for Educational Communications and Technology AECT The twenty two chapters in this volume seek to examine how learning and the design of instruction is interdisciplinary and connective in terms of research and practice The book is generally divided into three areas Theory Research and Application This framework shaped the authors' interactions, discussions and the informal context of the symposium Writings are included on multiple levels including research and practice on learning across disciplines including instructional design and how design thinking is inherently interdisciplinary How learning is designed for general audiences or for purposely integrated educational experiences has also been examined

Reorienting the Middle East Dale Hudson, Alia Yunis, 2024-01-16 Stories of desert landscapes cutting edge production facilities and lavish festivals often dominate narratives about film and digital media on the Arabian Peninsula However there is a more complicated history that reflects long standing interconnections between the Persian Gulf Arabian Sea and Indian Ocean Just as these waters are fluid spaces so too is the flow of film and digital media between cultures in East Africa Europe North Africa South Asia Southwest Asia and Southeast Asia Reorienting the Middle East examines past and contemporary aspects of film and digital media in the Gulf that might not otherwise be apparent in dominant frameworks Contributors consider oil companies that brought film exhibition to this area in the 1930s the first Indian film produced on the Arabian Peninsula in the late 1970s blackness in Iranian films the role of Western funding in reshaping stories Dubai s emergence in global film production uses of online platforms for performance art the development of film festivals and cinemas and short films made by citizens and migrants that turn a lens on racism sexism national identity and other rarely discussed social issues Reorienting the Middle East offers new methods to analyze the often neglected littoral spaces between nation states and regions and to understand the role of film and digital media in shaping dialogue between area studies and film and media studies Readers will find new pathways to rethink the limitations of dominant categories and frameworks in both fields

The Routledge Companion to Cinema and Politics Yannis Tzioumakis, Claire Molloy, 2016-07-01 The Routledge Companion to Cinema and Politics brings together forty essays by leading film scholars and filmmakers in order to discuss the complex relationship between cinema and politics Organised into eight sections Approaches to Film and Politics Film Activism and Opposition Film Propaganda Ideology and the State The Politics of Mobility Political Hollywood Alternative and Independent Film and Politics The Politics of Cine geographies and The Politics of Documentary this collection covers a broad range of topics including third cinema cinema after 9 11 eco activism human rights independent Chinese documentary film festivals manifestoes film policies film as a response to the post 2008 financial crisis Soviet propaganda the impact of neoliberalism on cinema and many others It foregrounds the key debates concepts approaches and case studies that critique and explain the complex relationship between politics and cinema discussing films from around the world and including examples from film history as well as contemporary cinema It also explores the wider relationship between politics and entertainment examines cinema s response to political and social transformations and questions the extent to which filmmaking itself is a political act
