Halving It All How Couples Share Parent:

Halving It All Francine Deutsch, 2000-04-07 The best way to have it all both a full family life and a career is to halve it all That s the message of Francine Deutsch s refreshing and humane book based on extensive interviews with a wide range of couples Deutsch casts a skeptical eye on the grim story of inequality that has been told since women found themselves working a second shift at home She brings good news equality based on shared parenting is possible and it is emerging all around us Some white collar fathers achieve as well as talk about equality and some blue collar parents work alternate shifts to ensure that one parent can always be with the children Using vivid quotations from her interviews Deutsch tells the story of couples who share parenting equally and some who don t The differences between the groups are not in politics education or class but in the way they negotiate the large and small issues from whose paid job is important to who applies the sunscreen With the majority of mothers in the workforce parents today have to find ways of sharing the work at home Rigid ideas of good mothers and good fathers Deutsch argues can be transformed into a more flexible reality the good parent Halving It All takes the discussion beyond shrill ideological arguments about working mothers and absent fathers Deutsch shows how with the best of intentions people perpetuate inequalities and injustices on the home front but also and more important how they can devise more equal arrangements out of explicit principles or simply out of fairness and love are some mothers subverting these contradictions and finding meaningful ways of reconciling their autonomous and maternal selves In Modern Motherhood and Women's Dual Identities Petra Bueskens argues that western modernisation consigned women to the home and released them from it in historically unprecedented yet interconnected ways Her ground breaking formulation is that western women are free as individuals and constrained as mothers with the twist that it is the former that produces the latter Bueskens theoretical contribution consists of the identification and analysis of modern women's duality drawing on political philosophy feminist theory and sociology tracking the changing nature of discourses of women freedom and motherhood across three centuries While the current literature points to the pervasiveness of contradiction and double shifts for mothers very little attention has been paid to how some women are subverting contradiction and rewriting the sexual contract Bridging this gap Bueskens interviews ten revolving mothers to reveal how periodic absence exceeding the standard work day disrupts the default position assigned to mothers in the home and in turn disrupts the gendered dynamics of household work A provocative and original work Modern Motherhood and Women's Dual Identities will appeal to graduate students and researchers interested in fields such as Women and Gender Studies Sociology of Motherhood and Social and Political Theory Diversity in Families Maxine Baca Zinn, D.
