cultural values as well as physical constraints and thus serves as a bridge between the contested space of the self and the body particularly for women in the nineteenth century Cookbooks represent important contact zones of social philosophies cultural beliefs and rhetorical traditions and through their rhetoric we witness women's roles as republican mothers sentimental evangelists wartime fundraisers home economists and social reformers Beginning in the early republic and tracing the cookbook through the publishing boom of the nineteenth century the Civil War and Reconstruction the Progressive era and rising racial tensions of the early twentieth century Sarah W Walden examines the role of taste as an evolving rhetorical strategy that allowed diverse women to engage in public discourse through published domestic texts

Creating Consumers Carolyn M. Goldstein, 2012-05-28 Home economics emerged at the turn of the twentieth century as a movement to train women to be more efficient household managers At the same moment American families began to consume many more goods and services than they produced To guide women in this transition professional home economists had two major goals to teach women to assume their new roles as modern consumers and to communicate homemakers' needs to manufacturers and political leaders Carolyn M Goldstein charts the development of the profession from its origins as an educational movement to its identity as a source of consumer expertise in the interwar period to its virtual disappearance by the 1970s Working for both business and government home economists walked a fine line between educating and representing consumers while they shaped cultural expectations about consumer goods as well as the goods themselves Goldstein looks beyond 1970s feminist scholarship that dismissed home economics for its emphasis on domesticity to reveal the movement's complexities including the extent of its public impact and debates about home economists' relationship to the commercial marketplace
