Stephen L. Koss, 2009-12-18 From 2001 2004 Steve Koss lived in Suzhou China a city so renowned for its magnificent classical gardens rich cultural heritage and beautiful women that a centuries old proverb describes it as paradise on Earth There he met Ping Ping his wife to be lived in a middle class building in a neighborhood where foreigners were rarely seen shopped the local markets taught in the university and became a guest teacher at two local high schools where he introduced those students and their teachers to Western life from The Simpsons and South Park to Christmas carols and poetry slams With Ping Ping ever present at his side Steve explored the citys ancient Buddhist temples World Cultural Heritage gardens and thousand year old Precious Belt Bridge as well as its quiet canal hugging lanes newest shopping districts and modern high rise apartment complexes going up in the citys two rapidly expanding suburban industrial parks Yet even as he was discovering a China few outsiders see Steve watched the old city disappearing under waves of industrialization Westernization and massive urban renewal and expansion Through his personal experiences and observations Steve Koss captures the countrys poignant struggle to maintain its traditions while integrating new wealth technology and cultural influences from the West His book opens a deeply personal window into the changing soul of an ancient city Culinary Nationalism in Asia Michelle T. King, 2019-07-11 With culinary nationalism defined as a process in flux as opposed to the limited concept of national cuisine the contributors of this book call for explicit critical comparisons of cases of culinary nationalism among Asian regions with the intention of recognizing patterns of modern culinary development As a result the formation of modern cuisine is revealed to be a process that takes place around the world in different forms and periods and not exclusive to current Eurocentric models Key themes include the historical legacies of imperialism colonialism nationalism the Cold War and global capitalism in Asian cuisines internal culinary boundaries between genders ethnicities social classes religious groups and perceived traditions modernities and global contexts of Asian cuisines as both nationalist and internationalist enterprises and Asia itself as a vibrant culinary imaginary The book which includes a foreword from

Krishnendu Ray and an afterword from James L Watson sets out a fresh agenda for thinking about future food studies scholarship

Sensing the World David Le Breton, 2020-05-31 Sensing the World An Anthropology of the Senses is a highly original and comprehensive overview of the anthropology and sociology of the body and the senses Discussing each sense in turn seeing hearing touch smell and taste Le Breton has written a truly monumental work vast in scope and deeply engaging in style Among other pioneering moves he gives equal attention to light and darkness sound and silence and his disputation of taste explores aspects of disgust and revulsion Part phenomenological part historical this is above all a cultural account of perception which returns the body and the senses to the center of social life Le Breton is the leading authority on the anthropology of the body and the senses in French academia With a repute comparable to the late Pierre Bourdieu his 30 books have been translated into numerous languages This is the first of his works to be made available in English This sensuously nuanced translation of La Saveur du monde is accompanied by a spicy preface from series editor David Howes who introduces Le Breton's work to an English speaking audience and highlights its implications for the disciplines of anthropology sociology and the cross disciplinary field of sensory studies
