Goodly Is Our Heritage Childrens Literature Empire And The Certitude Of Character:

Goodly is Our Heritage Rashna B. Singh, 2004 Patterns of sublimation begin in childhood So does binary and hierarchical thinking The child must be trained to see in oppositions and on a scale of order So the story of nation and people race and culture begins as the bedtime story The author How else asks Rashna Singh do we explain the uncanny physical resemblance between Osama bin Laden and the evil Jaffar of Disney s motion picture Aladdin Singh provides a most persuasive argument for why these sentiments are both insidious and compelling and how they resonate to this day While she includes such classic examples as The Secret Garden Robinson Crusoe and the Babar series it is her inclusion of genuinely neglected fictions that lends her analyses a special richness In an engaging narrative style Singh demonstrates how constructions of character evolve into cultural imprints which encourage their young readers to choose the goodly side with little thought of badly repercussions

Contemporary English-Language Indian Children's Literature Michelle Superle, 2011-05-09 Concurrent with increasing scholarly attention toward national children s literatures Contemporary English language Indian Children s Literature explores an emerging body of work that has thus far garnered little serious critical attention Superle critically examines the ways Indian children s writers have represented childhood in relation to the Indian nation Indian cultural identity and Indian girlhood From a framework of postcolonial and feminist theories children s novels published between 1988 and 2008 in India are compared with those from the United Kingdom and North America from the same period considering the differing ideologies and the current textual constructions of childhood at play in each Broadly Superle contends that over the past twenty years an aspirational view of childhood has developed in this literature a view that positions children as powerful participants in the project of enabling positive social transformation Her main argument formed after recognizing several overarching thematic and structural patterns in more than one hundred texts is that the novels comprise an aspirational literature with a transformative agenda they imagine apparently empowered child characters who perform in diverse ways in the process of successfully creating and shaping the ideal Indian nation their own well adjusted bicultural identities in the diaspora and or their own empowered girlhoods Michelle Superle is a Professor in the department of Communications at Okanagan College She has taught children s literature composition and creative writing courses at various Canadian universities and has published articles in Papers and IRCL

Empire in British Girls' Literature and Culture M. Smith, 2011-07-08 While the gender and age of the girl may seem to remove her from any significant contribution to empire this book provides both a new perspective on familiar girls literature and the first detailed examination of lesser known fiction relating the emergence of fictional girl adventurers castaways and ripping schoolgirls to the British Empire

Discourses of Postcolonialism in Contemporary British Children's Literature Blanka Grzegorzczak, 2014-10-03 This book considers how contemporary British children s books engage with some of the major cultural debates of recent years and how they resonate with the current preoccupations and tastes of the white mainstream

British reading public A central assumption of this volume is that Britain's imperial past continues to play a key role in its representations of race identity and history The insistent inclusion of questions relating to colonialism and power structures in recent children's novels exposes the complexities and contradictions surrounding the fictional treatment of race relations and ethnicity Postcolonial children's literature in Britain has been inherently ambivalent since its cautious beginnings it is both transgressive and authorizing both undercutting and excluding Grzegorzczuk considers the ways in which children's fictions have worked with and against particular ideologies of race The texts analyzed in this collection portray ethnic minorities as complex hybrid products of colonialism global migrations and the ideology of multiculturalism By examining the ideological content of these novels Grzegorzczuk demonstrates the centrality of the colonial past to contemporary British writing for the young

Colonial India in Children's Literature Supriya Goswami, 2012-07-26 Colonial India in Children's Literature is the first book length study to explore the intersections of children's literature and defining historical moments in colonial India Engaging with important theoretical and critical literature that deals with colonialism hegemony and marginalization in children's literature Goswami proposes that British Anglo Indian and Bengali children's literature respond to five key historical events the missionary debates preceding the Charter Act of 1813 the defeat of Tipu Sultan the Mutiny of 1857 the birth of Indian nationalism and the Swadeshi movement resulting from the Partition of Bengal in 1905 Through a study of works by Mary Sherwood 1775 1851 Barbara Hofland 1770 1844 Sara Jeanette Duncan 1861 1922 Rudyard Kipling 1865 1936 Upendrakishore Ray 1863 1915 and Sukumar Ray 1887 1923 Goswami examines how children's literature negotiates and represents these momentous historical forces that unsettled Britain's imperial ambitions in India Goswami argues that nineteenth century British and Anglo Indian children's texts reflect two distinct moods in Britain's colonial enterprise in India Sherwood and Hofland writing before 1857 use the tropes of conversion and captivity as a means of awakening children to the dangers of India whereas Duncan and Kipling shift the emphasis to martial prowess adaptability and empirical knowledge as defining qualities in British and Anglo Indian children Furthermore Goswami's analysis of early nineteenth century children's texts written by women authors redresses the preoccupation with male authors and boys adventure stories that have largely informed discussions of juvenility in the context of colonial India This groundbreaking book also seeks to open up the canon by examining early twentieth century Bengali children's texts that not only draw literary inspiration from nineteenth century British children's literature but whose themes are equally shaped by empire
