Gorgons Gaze German Cinema Expressionism And The Image Of Horror:

The Gorgon's Gaze Paul Coates,1991-04-26 This interdisciplinary study of recurrent themes in German cinema as it has developed since the early twentieth century focuses on pertinent films of the pre and post World War II eras The author explores the nature of expressionism which is generally agreed to have ended with the advent of sound and its persistence in the styles of such modern masters of film noir as Orson Welles and Ingmar Bergman In considering the possibility of homologies between the necessary silence of pre sound cinema and the widespread modernist aspiration to an aesthetic of silence Coates relates theories of the sublime the uncanny and the monstrous to his subject He also reflects upon problems of representability and the morality of representation of events that took place during the Nazi era Feminism, Film,

Fascism Susan E. Linville,2010-01-01 German society's inability and/or refusal to come to terms with its Nazi past has been analyzed in many cultural works including the well known books Society without the Father and The Inability to Mourn In this pathfinding study Susan Linville challenges the accepted wisdom of these books by focusing on a cultural realm in which mourning for the Nazi past and opposing the patriarchal and authoritarian nature of postwar German culture are central concerns namely women's feminist autobiographical films of the 1970s and 1980s After a broad survey of feminist theory Linville analyzes five important films that reflect back on the Third Reich through the experiences of women of different ages Marianne Rosenbaum's Peppermint Peace Helma Sanders-Brahms's Germany Pale Mother Jutta Brückner's Hunger Years Margarethe von Trotta's Marianne and Juliane and Jeanine Meerapfel's Malou By juxtaposing these films with the accepted theories on German culture Linville offers a fresh appraisal not only of the films' importance but especially of their challenge to misogynist interpretations of the German failure to grieve for the horrors of its Nazi past Fritz Lang's Metropolis

Michael Minden,Holger Bachmann,2002 Providing a broad range of materials and resources for the study of Fritz Lang's classic film Metropolis 1927 this volume includes both standard critical essays and contributions appearing for the first time

Weimar Cinema and After Thomas Elsaesser,2013-04-15 German cinema of the 1920s is still regarded as one of the golden ages of world cinema Films such as The Cabinet of Dr. Caligari, Dr. Mabuse the Gambler, Nosferatu, Metropolis, Pandora's Box and The Blue Angel have long been canonised as classics but they are also among the key films defining an image of Germany as a nation uneasy with itself The work of directors like Fritz Lang, F. W. Murnau and G. W. Pabst which having apparently announced the horrors of fascism while testifying to the traumas of a defeated nation still casts a long shadow over cinema in Germany leaving film history and political history permanently intertwined Weimar Cinema and After offers a fresh perspective on this most national of national cinemas re-evaluating the arguments which view genres and movements such as films of the fantastic, Nazi Cinema, film noir and New German Cinema as typically German contributions to twentieth century visual culture Thomas Elsaesser questions conventional readings which link these genres to romanticism and expressionism and offers new approaches to analysing the function of national cinema in an advanced culture industry and in a Germany constantly reinventing itself both geographically and politically Elsaesser argues that German cinema's significance lies less in its ability to promote democracy or predict fascism than in its contribution to the creation of a community sharing a historical imaginary rather than a national identity In this respect he argues German cinema anticipated some of the problems facing contemporary nations in reconstituting their identities by means of media images memory and invented traditions

Passport to Hollywood James Morrison, 1998-09-11 CHOICE 1999 Outstanding Academic Books In Passport to Hollywood James Morrison examines a series of Hollywood films by directors from European art cinemas Drawing widely on current research in film theory film history and cultural studies he traces the influence of European filmmakers in Hollywood from the 1920s to the 1980s and illuminates the relation between modernism and mass culture in American movies By interpreting important American films Morrison also shows how these films illustrate key issues of cultural hierarchy and national culture over fifty years of American cinema In addition he explores the complex and often contradictory ways that these Hollywood movies conceptualize ideas about foreignness Using insightful close readings Morrison demonstrates new connections among modernism postmodernism and American movies

The Cinema of Steven Spielberg Nigel Morris, 2007-02-13

Cinema's most successful director is a commercial and cultural force demanding serious consideration Not just triumphant marketing this international popularity is partly a function of the movies themselves Polarised critical attitudes largely overlook this and evidence either unquestioning adulation or vilification often vitriolic for epitomising contemporary Hollywood Detailed textual analyses reveal that alongside conventional commercial appeal Spielberg's movies function consistently as a self reflexive commentary on cinema Rather than straightforwardly consumed realism or fantasy they invite divergent readings and self conscious spectatorship which contradict assumptions about their ideological tendencies Exercising powerful emotional appeal their ambiguities are profitably advantageous in maximising audiences and generating media attention

Bernard Herrmann's The Ghost and Mrs. Muir David Cooper, 2005-08-04

Regarded as one of the greatest film composers of all time Bernard Herrmann was responsible for some of the most memorable music in film His work with Alfred Hitchcock produced a slew of classics including Vertigo 1958 North by Northwest 1959 and Psycho 1960 Several years before collaborating with Hitchcock however Herrmann composed the brilliant score for The Ghost and Mrs Muir 1947 which remained a personal favorite of the composer's Herrmann's score reinforces the film's romantic theme and much of the music has an appropriately elegiac quality In mood orchestration and even to some extent thematic identity it seems to prefigure his music for Vertigo In this latest addition to the Scarecrow Film Score Guide series author David Cooper examines Herrmann's career in general as well as the specific elements that went into the creation of The Ghost and Mrs Muir's score Cooper traces the development of Herrmann's craft as a film composer especially through his radio work where he made contact with many of the great artists of the age most notably Orson Welles This association was to give him a passport to Hollywood and led to the scoring of his first film Citizen Kane Herrmann's subsequent film scores of the 1940s included The Devil and Daniel Webster The Magnificent Ambersons and Jane Eyre In this guide Cooper considers Herrmann's musical technique and offers a theorization of some of the ways in which music can be meaningful in film He also explores non musical contexts of the film including the screenplay's relationship to the popular novel from which it was adapted as well as the contribution of director Joseph L Mankiewicz the performances of Gene Tierney and Rex Harrison and the editing of Dorothy Spencer Cooper also provides a quantitative evidence based study of the score In doing so he discusses the extent to which Herrmann adopted screenwriter Philip Dunne's suggestions for music in

World Cinema Bryan Burns, 1996

Hungarian cinema began in cafes and short films were projected at the Velence coffee house in Budapest in the late 1890s By 1912 a distinct film culture had formed in Hungary which unlike the imported American popular entertainment cinema throughout its history has shown a commitment to the idea of film as art This new book is a detailed historical critical and appreciative account of the Hungarian cinema from its early days to the transforming 1990s and provides an extended analysis of some 50 directors and their key films It describes the ways in which the industry has developed largely with the assistance of the state especially since the Second World War and shows how the Hungarian cinema has achieved an international success out of all proportion to its size and despite the potential obstructions of language and culture The author concludes with a survey of recent filmmaking activities and a look towards the future in rapidly changing Eastern Europe This book will appeal to all those interested in Hungarian and Eastern European film and history

Comparative Cinema Paul Coates, 2021-05-10 This book comprises what may be called exercises in comparative cinema Its focus on endings near endings and late style is connected with the author's argument that comparative criticism itself may constitute an endgame of criticism arising at the moment at which societies or individuals relinquish primary adherence to one tradition or medium The comparisons embrace different works and artistic media and primarily concern works of literature and film though they also consider issues raised by the interrelationship of language and moving and still images as well as inter and intra textuality The works probed most fully are ones by Theo Angelopoulos Ingmar Bergman Harun Farocki Theodor Fontane Henry James Krzysztof Kieślowski Chang-dong Lee Roman Polański Thomas Pynchon and Paul Schrader while the key recurrent motifs are those of dusk the horizon the labyrinth and the ruin

Cinema and Evil Dara Waldron, 2014-08-11 Malevolence and its causes has been central to film since its inception the birth of film coinciding with a fascination with crime death murder horror etc Films which address the problem of evil however are less frequent and fewer in quantity especially films which respond to a body of thought philosophical or theological which has deliberated on the topic of evil over the centuries Cinema and Evil Moral Responsibility and the Dangerous Film addresses these films It explores the legacy of evil from Manicheism to Arendt assessing the alternative definitions offered by philosophers theologians and writers per se on its problematic status It then considers how the films of filmmakers such as Fritz Lang Orson Welles Pier Paolo Pasolini Michael Haneke Gus Van Sant and Lynne Ramsay have responded to the problem of evil in their films In case by case studies filmmakers response to evil events whether those such as the Holocaust or Columbine in which evil is used as a descriptor for human behaviour is explored The book refers to these as dangerous films tasking us with the need to consider evil as a problem which is also our responsibility It argues that these filmmakers have been at the forefront of ethical deliberation on evil

The Gothic Nick Groom, 2012-09-27 The Gothic is wildly diverse It can refer to ecclesiastical architecture supernatural fiction cult horror films and a distinctive style of rock music It has influenced political theorists and social reformers as well as Victorian home décor and contemporary fashion Nick Groom shows how the Gothic has come to encompass so many meanings by telling the story of the Gothic from the ancient tribe who sacked Rome to the alternative subculture of the present day This unique Very Short Introduction reveals that the Gothic has predominantly been a way of understanding and responding to the past Time after time the Gothic has been invoked in order to reveal what lies behind conventional history It is a way of disclosing secrets whether in the constitutional politics of seventeenth century England or the racial politics of the United States While contexts change the Gothic perpetually regards the past with fascination both yearning and horrified It reminds us that neither societies nor individuals can escape the consequences of their actions The anatomy of the Gothic is richly complex and perversely contradictory and so the thirteen chapters here range deliberately widely This is the first time that the entire story of the Gothic has been written as a continuous history from the historians of late antiquity to the gardens of Georgian England from the mediaeval cult of the macabre to German Expressionist cinema from Elizabethan Revenge Tragedy to American consumer society from folk ballads to vampires from the past to the present ABOUT THE SERIES The Very Short Introductions series from Oxford University Press contains hundreds of titles in almost every subject area These pocket sized books are the perfect way to get ahead in a new subject quickly Our expert authors combine facts analysis perspective new ideas and enthusiasm to make interesting and challenging topics highly readable
