Primates in the Real World Georgina M. Montgomery, 2015-09-21 The opening of this vital new book centers on a series of graves memorializing baboons killed near Amboseli National Park in Kenya in 2009 a stark image that emphasizes both the close emotional connection between primate researchers and their subjects and the intensely human qualities of the animals Primates in the Real World goes on to trace primatology s shift from short term expeditions designed to help overcome centuries old myths to the field s arrival as a recognized science sustained by a complex web of international collaborations Considering a series of pivotal episodes spanning the twentieth century Georgina Montgomery shows how individuals both within and outside of the scientific community gradually liberated themselves from primate folklore to create primate science Achieved largely through a movement from the lab to the field as the primary site of observation this development reflected an urgent and ultimately extremely productive reassessment of what constitutes natural behavior for primates An important contribution to the history of science and of women's roles in science as well as to animal studies and the exploration of the animal-human boundary. Montgomery's engagingly written narrative provides the general reader with the most accessible overview to date of this enduringly fascinating field of study.

The Mentalities of Gorillas and Orangutans Sue Taylor Parker, Robert W. Mitchell, H. Lyn Miles, 1999-08-26 Research on the mental abilities of chimpanzees and bonobos has been widely celebrated and used in reconstructions of human evolution. In contrast, less attention has been paid to the abilities of gorillas and orangutans. This 1999 volume aims to help complete the picture of hominoid cognition by bringing together the work on gorillas and orangutans and setting it in comparative perspective. The introductory chapters set the evolutionary context for comparing cognition in gorillas and orangutans to that of chimpanzees, bonobos, and humans. The remaining chapters focus primarily on the kinds and levels of intelligence displayed by orangutans and gorillas compared to other great apes, including performances in the classic domains of tool use and tool making, imitation, self-awareness, social communication, and symbol
