End Of Life In Care Homes A Palliative Care Approach:

End of Life in Care Homes Jeanne Samson Katz, Sheila M. Peace, 2003-04-03 In our society the overwhelming majority of people die in later life They typically die slowly of chronic diseases with multiple co existing problems over long periods of time They spend the majority of their final years at home but many will die in hospitals or care homes This book explores the possibilities for improving the care of older people dying in residential care and nursing homes It argues that there are aspects of palliative care that given the right circumstances are transferable to dying people in settings that are not domestic or hospice based End of Life in Care Homes describes what happens in nursing and residential care homes when a resident is dying how carers cope and the practical health and emotional challenges that carers face on top of their day to day work Based on detailed research from both the UK and US the book shows how the situation can be improved End of Life in Care Homes Jeanne Katz, Sheila M. Peace, 2003 This book explores the possibilities for improving the care of older people dying in residential and nursing homes It argues that there are aspects of palliative care that given the right circumstances are transferable to people dying in institutional settings End of Life in Care Homes Jeanne Samson Katz, Sheila M. Peace, 2003-04-03 In our society the overwhelming majority of people die in later life They typically die slowly of chronic diseases with multiple co existing problems over long periods of time They spend the majority of their final years at home but many will die in hospitals or care homes This book explores the possibilities for improving the care of older people dying in residential care and nursing homes It argues that there are aspects of palliative care that given the right circumstances are transferable to dying people in settings that are not domestic or hospice based End of Life in Care Homes describes what happens in nursing and residential care homes when a resident is dying how carers cope and the practical health and emotional challenges that carers face on top of their day to day work Based on detailed research from both the UK and US the book shows how the situation can be improved Palliative Care Nursing: Principles And Evidence For Practice Payne, Sheila, Seymour, Jane, Ingleton, Christine, 2008-08-01 This textbook in palliative care nursing draws together the principles and evidence that underpins practice to support nurses working in specialist palliative care settings and those whose work involves end of life care Mental Health and Care Homes Tom Denning, Alisoun Milne, 2011-05-26 The care home sector is large with over 400 000 residents in the UK and a similar number employed within the homes Care home residents are often very old and many have multiple physical and mental health needs meaning that their care poses particular challenges This book offers a coherent and evidence based text exploring these issues End of Life Care Great Britain. National Audit Office, 2008 This National Audit Office report finds that some people approaching the end of their life receive a high quality service but that there is room for improved coordination between health and social care services in planning and delivering end of life care The provision of end of life care is becoming increasingly complex with people living longer and the incidence of frailty and multiple conditions in older people rising Information on peoples wishes is often not captured or shared and a lack of services to support them at home may lead to unplanned and unwanted admissions to hospital. In 2006/07 estimated expenditure on specialist palliative care varied considerably between PCTs from 154 to 1 684 per person who died. While there are no complete data on the total cost of end of life care, NAO estimate the cost of caring for the 27 per cent of people who die from cancer is 1.8 billion in the last year of their life. The majority of people approaching the end of their life wish to be cared for outside of hospital so reducing the amount of time they spend there unnecessarily could make resources available to support these people more effectively in their preferred place of care. Frontline staff often lack training in delivering basic end of life care. Only 29 per cent of doctors and 18 per cent of nurses received pre registration training in end of life care and there is a lack of formal training for staff working in care homes. Positive experiences of care were often linked to being treated by staff who understood, appreciated and empathised with the end of life situation.

End-of-Life Nursing Care Annie Pettifer, Joanna de Souza, 2012-12-18. Students and newly qualified staff make up much of the workforce delivering end of life care but because end of life care can be both technically challenging and emotionally demanding it is an aspect of nursing that can cause considerable anxiety. This very accessible straightforward book helps to allay those concerns and enables pre registration students to prepare confidently for the challenges they will face when they are caring for dying patients and supporting their families. Each chapter is based on a different and realistic scenario reflecting a range of circumstances to demonstrate the essential generic knowledge and skills they need to develop and draws out the important practical and theoretical issues students should consider and address if patients and their families are to receive the best possible care. Written by two experienced palliative care lecturer practitioners and mapping closely to the NMC's 2010 domains the book is tailored to the needs of student nurses working with adult patients. It explores the importance of their role in end of life care and how this interfaces with the roles of other multidisciplinary professionals involved in the care of their patients. It will also be helpful to students of other health care professions and support newly qualified health care professionals working in adult health.

Death, Dying, and Social Differences David Oliviere, Barbara Monroe, Sheila Payne, 2011-09-15. This book examines access to specialist palliative care among different groups in society and the ways of working with difference within such services.

Intellectual Disability in Health and Social Care Stacey Atkinson, Joanne Lay, Su McAnelly, Malcolm Richardson, 2014-09-16. Many practitioners within health and social care come into contact with people with intellectual disabilities and want to work in ways that are beneficial to them by making reasonable adjustments in order to meet clients needs and expectations. Yet the health and wellbeing of people with learning disabilities continues to be a neglected area where unnecessary suffering and premature deaths continue to prevail. This text provides a comprehensive insight into intellectual disability healthcare. It is aimed at those who are training in the field of intellectual disability nursing and also untrained practitioners who work in both health and social care settings. Divided into five sections it explores how a wide range of biological, health, psychological and social barriers impact upon people with learning disability and includes Six guiding principles used to adjust plan and develop meaningful and accessible health and social services Assessment screening and diagnosis of intellectual disability across the life course Addressing lifelong health needs Psychological and psychotherapeutic issues including sexuality behavioural and mental health needs bereavement and ethical concerns The changing professional roles and models of meeting the needs of people with intellectual and learning disabilities Intellectual Disability in Health and Social Care provides a wide ranging overview of what learning disability professionals roles are and provides insight into what health and social care practitioners might do to assist someone with intellectual disabilities when specific needs arise
