List of Threatened Animals Ulf Gärdenfors, A. J. Stattersfield, International Union for Conservation of Nature and Natural Resources. Species Survival Commission, 1996 The 1994 IUCN Red List of Threatened Animals was a major advance on its predecessors in clarity of layout and amount of information presented This is taken further in the 1996 edition which is also the first global compilation to use the complete new IUCN Red List category system      Birds in Jeopardy Paul R.

Ehrlich, David S. Dobkin, Darryl Wheye, 1992-03-01 As the human population skyrockets and the toxic impact of human society spreads the natural habitats of birds degrade and diminish and the bird populations decline Two hundred years ago when the United States and Canada were home to less than 5 million people they were also home to some 650 species of birds Today more than 280 million people live there and 33 bird species have already been driven to extinction and well over 150 are in danger of extinction in all or parts of their range This book organized and written by the authors of The Birder's Handbook and enriched by 191 strikingly beautiful color paintings illustrating all of the birds treated is the first concise authoritative review of the status of the birds currently imperiled in the United States and Canada those that are federally listed as Endangered or Threatened and those that are listed by the National Audubon Society as suffering local or regional or

Widespread decline It also treats the birds that have been driven to extinction in the past two centuries since the stories of their somber fates can help us learn how to save the other birds that are in jeopardy Because birdwatchers and others are showing increased interest in the tropical birds that survive in Hawaii and Puerto Rico the book includes separate sections on the imperiled and extinct birds of those areas Hawaii is of special importance because it has Seen so many extinctions just in the years since Cook s arrival 23 species and subspecies it provides a laboratory for studying the impact of civilization on birds in the wild The individual texts written in clear non technical language cover requirements for successful nesting and feeding worldwide and North American breeding range wintering range and imperiled portions of range current population estimates for Threatened and Endangered birds behavioral And other factors pertinent to conservation former and or current threats associated with decline current status of imperilment federally funded recovery plans and the date of last sighting in those desperate cases where extinction is imminent or already a fact In the last century coal miners took canaries into the mines reasoning that if poisonous gases were present the birds would give warning by succumbing first Now birds are serving as miners canaries once Again In the language of ecology they are good indicator species warning us that too many people unbridled consumption of wildlands and other natural resources faulty technologies and irresponsible disposal of chemical and other wastes threaten not just birds but ourselves and every other living thing In our daily lives we seldom see the terrible effects of these forces but they are demonstrated every day by scientific surveys of the environment around the world

A Field Guide to the Birds of Hawaii and the Tropical Pacific H. Douglas Pratt, Phillip L. Bruner, Delwyn G.

Berrett, 2023-06-06 This is the first field guide to the identification of the birds of the islands of the tropical Pacific including the Hawaiian Islands Fiji Samoa Tonga southeastern Polynesia and Micronesia It is intended both as a reference for the expert and as an introduction to birding in the region for the novice Small enough to be carried afield it contains much previously unpublished information about behavior vocalizations ecology and distribution The forty five color plates depict all plumages of all bird species that breed in the islands as well as of those that regularly visit them and the surrounding oceans and of most species believed to be extinct on the islands Black and white figures show many of the rarer visitors Introductory sections discuss the tropical Pacific as an environment for birds problems of birding on islands and bird conservation

Appendixes include maps of the island groups and a thorough bibliography

Crane Music Paul A. Johnsgard, 1998-02-01

Graced with illustrations by the author Crane Music introduces the two North American crane species The sandhill most often seen is within easy reach of bird watchers in the center of the continent Less visible is the whooping crane struggling back from near extinction Paul Johnsgard follows these elegant birds through a year s cycle describing their seasonal migrations natural habitats breeding biology call patterns angelic to the bird lover s ear and fascinating dancing The largest and most spectacular migratory concentration of cranes happens each spring when the Platte River valley becomes the staging ground for an amazing gathering of four hundred thousand to five hundred thousand sandhills en route from the South to the Arctic tundra Johnsgard describes this incredible event as well as memorable personal encounters with the cranes His knowledge of them transcends natural history covering their importance in religion and mythology Dodo Jeremy JC Mallinson, Katharine M Taynton, Falconry. Emma Ford, 1998 Habitat Suitability Index Models Michael J. Armbruster, 1987 Wildlife Conservation Evaluation Michael Usher, 2012-12-06 In the mid 1970s two events led me to get to know the Yorkshire Dales better than I had previously Since 1964 I had been to the Malham Tarn Field Centre with groups of students first from the University of Edinburgh and then from the University of York and my family very much enjoyed the summer days we spent amid this magnificent hill scenery In 1976 the British Ecological Society and the National Trust jointly worked on a survey of the biological interest of the National Trust properties of the Kent East Anglian and Yorkshire Regions Malham Tarn itself and the surrounding farms formed one of the twenty properties of the Yorkshire Region I spent the bank holiday that commemorated the Queen s Silver Jubilee at Malham looking fairly closely at the National Trust s landholding there Miss Sarah Priest who also looked at the National Trust properties and I produced a report in late 1977 attempting both to describe and to evaluate the nature resources of the National Trust in Yorkshire In the following year 1978 the Nature Conservancy Council wanted to survey the whole of the upland area that was known as the Malham Arncliffe SSSI Site of Special Scientific Interest A contract to look at such an exciting area considering where boundaries should go and looking to see if there were important areas of habitat that should be brought within the SSSI was a superb practical antidote to an office in the University The Earth in Transition G. M. Woodwell, 1990 A group of outstanding environmental scientists has compiled a collection of case studies that illustrate the changes being wrought on the biosphere by the human presence Encyclopedia of Endangered Species Bill Freedman, 1998-11 Annotation This 2nd volume contains an additional 500 descriptions and status reports on endangered animals and plants of the world Reports are arranged taxonomically by order family genus and species Each entry contains a description of the species range and habitat information population history conservation record and survival outlook 1994 IUCN Red List of Threatened Animals World Conservation Monitoring Centre, 1993 Lijst van soorten die bedreigd worden met uitsterven en soorten die zeer schaars voorkomen in het wild The Earth as Transformed by Human Action B. L. Turner, William C. Clark, Robert W. Kates, John F. Richards, Jessica T. Mathews, William B. Meyer, 1993-01-29 The Earth as Transformed by Human Action is the culmination of a mammoth undertaking involving the examination of the toll our continual strides forward technical and social take on our world The purpose of such a study is to document the changes in the biosphere that have taken place over the last 300 years to contrast global patterns of change to those appearing on a regional level and to explain the major human forces that have driven these changes The first section deals strictly with the major human forces of the past 300 years and the second is a detailed account of the transformations of the global environment wrought by human action The final section examines a range of perspectives and theories that purport to explain human actions with regard to the biosphere     Wildlife-Habitat Relationships Michael L. Morrison, Bruce Marcot, William Mannan, 2012-09-26 Wildlife Habitat Relationships goes beyond introductory wildlife biology texts to provide wildlife professionals and students with an understanding of the importance of habitat relationships in studying and managing wildlife. The book offers a unique synthesis and critical evaluation of data methods and studies along with specific guidance on how to conduct rigorous studies. Now in its third edition, Wildlife Habitat Relationships combines basic field zoology and natural history, evolutionary biology, ecological theory and quantitative tools in explaining ecological processes and their influence on wildlife and habitats. Also included is a glossary of terms that every wildlife professional should know.     Lost Land of the Dodo Anthony

Cheke, Julian P. Hume, 2009-01-01 The Mascarene islands in the southern Indian Ocean (Mauritius, Réunion and Rodrigues) were once home to an extraordinary range of birds and reptiles. Evolving on these isolated volcanic islands in the absence of mammalian predators or competitors, the land was dominated by giant tortoises, parrots, skinks and geckos, burrowing boas, flightless rails. The birds and tortoises were slaughtered indiscriminately while introduced rats, cats, pigs and monkeys destroyed their eggs. The once extensive forests, logged and invasive introduced plants from all over the tropics, devastated the ecosystem. The now familiar icon of extinction, the Dodo, was gone from Mauritius within 50 years of human settlement and over the next 150 years many of the Mascarenes' other native vertebrates followed suit. The product of over 30 years' research by Anthony Cheke, Lost Land of the Dodo provides a comprehensive yet hugely enjoyable account of the story of the islands' changing ecology interspersed with human stories, the islands' biogeographical anomalies and much else. Many French publications, old and new, especially for Réunion are discussed and referenced in English for the first time. The book is richly illustrated with maps and contemporary illustrations of the animals and their environment, many of which have rarely been reprinted before. Illustrated box texts look in detail at each extinct vertebrate species, while Julian Hume's superb colour plates bring many of the extinct birds to life. Lost Land of the Dodo provides the definitive account of this tragic yet remarkable fauna and is a must read for anyone interested in islands, their ecology and the history of our relationship with the world around us.     Neotropical Birds Douglas F. Stotz, 1996-06 This unparalleled wealth of finely detailed ecological information on Neotropical bird communities will prove invaluable to all Neotropical wildlife managers, conservation biologists and serious birders.     Raptors of the World David A. Christie, James Ferguson-Lees, 2010-07-30 Covering every species of raptor on the planet, this book is perfect for anyone with an interest in birds of prey. Birdwatch: This guide covers all the world's 313 raptor species, illustrated with adult, juvenile and selected immature plumages as well as main geographical races. There are illustrations of over 2000 perched and flying birds, some with typical prey and facing texts summarising length, wingspan, male to female proportion, shape and flight. The text is further enhanced with line drawings illustrating specific points about identification and behaviour.
