

A hand holding a feather against a sunset background. The background is a soft, out-of-focus image of a sunset or sunrise over a body of water, with warm orange and yellow tones blending into a cooler blue. A hand is visible at the bottom, holding a single feather that points upwards. The feather has a dark shaft and light-colored, slightly frayed barbs.

I used to think that the worst thing in life was to end up all alone. It's not. The worst thing in life is ending up with people who make you feel all alone.

Ending Up Kingsley Amis, 2015-04-28 A group of disgruntled septuagenarians prepare for their final days in this dark and very funny English novel about death and the inevitability of growing old The Observer Everyone wants a comfortable place to die and Kingsley Amis's characters have found it in Tuppenny Happenny Cottage where assorted septuagenarians have come together to see one another out the door of life There's grotesque Adela whose sole passion is her cheapness her brother Brigadier Bernard Bastable always strategizing a new retreat to the bathroom before sallying forth to play some especially nasty practical joke Shorty the servant who years ago had a fling with the brigadier in the barracks and now organizes his day around a trail of hidden bottles George Zeyer the distinguished professor of history bedridden and helpless to articulate his still coherent thoughts and Marigold who slowly but surely is forgetting it all And now it is Christmas Children and grandchildren are coming to visit their ailing elders They don't know what lies in store before the story ends None of us do Ending Up is a grimly hilarious dance of death full of bickering bitching backstabbing drinking of course and idiocy of all sorts It is a book about dying people and about a dying England clinging to its memories of greatness as it succumbs to terminal decay
