

The background of the book cover is a photograph of a forest. In the foreground, there is a rustic wooden fence made of horizontal logs. Behind the fence, a large, gnarled tree trunk leans at an angle. The forest extends into the background with many tall, thin trees. The lighting is soft, suggesting a misty or overcast day.

Tweed,2015-10-01 A naturalist and historian for the National Parks Service offers a lively history of the giant sequoias of California and the love of nature they inspired Former park ranger William C Tweed takes readers on a tour of some of the world s largest and oldest trees in a narrative that travels deep into the Sierra Nevada mountains across the American West and all the way to New Zealand Along the way he explores the American public s evolving relationship with sequoias also known simply and affectionately as Big Trees It s no surprise that the sequoia groves of Yosemite and Calaveras were early tourist destinations The species was the embodiment of California s superlative appeal These giant redwoods were so beloved that special protections efforts sprang up to protect them from logging interests and so began the notion of National Parks Later as science evolved to consider landscapes more holistically sequoias once again played a major role in shaping this new perspective Featuring a fascinating cast of adventurers researchers politicians and environmentalists King Sequoia reveals how one tree species transformed Americans connection to the natural world

The Man Who Planted Trees Jim Robbins,2015-03-03 The Man Who Planted Trees is the inspiring story of David Milarch s quest to clone the biggest trees on the planet in order to save our forests and ecosystem as well as a hopeful lesson about how each of us has the ability to make a difference When is the best time to plant a tree Twenty years ago The second best time Today Chinese proverb Twenty years ago David Milarch a northern Michigan nurseryman with a penchant for hard living had a vision angels came to tell him that the earth was in trouble Its trees were dying and without them human life was in jeopardy The solution they told him was to clone the champion trees of the world the largest the hardiest the ones that had survived millennia and were most resilient to climate change and create a kind of Noah s ark of tree genetics Without knowing if the message had any basis in science or why he d been chosen for this task Milarch began his mission of cloning the world s great trees Many scientists and tree experts told him it couldn t be done but twenty years later his team has successfully cloned some of the world s oldest trees among them giant redwoods and sequoias They have also grown seedlings from the oldest tree in the world the bristlecone pine Methuselah When New York Times journalist Jim Robbins came upon Milarch s story he was fascinated but had his doubts Yet over several years listening to Milarch and talking to scientists he came to realize that there is so much we do not yet know about trees how they die how they communicate the myriad crucial ways they filter water and air and otherwise support life on Earth It became clear that as the planet changes trees and forest are essential to assuring its survival Praise for The Man Who Planted Trees This is a story of miracles and obsession and love and survival Told with Jim Robbins's signature clarity and eye for telling detail The Man Who Planted Trees is also the most hopeful book I've read in years I kept thinking of the end of Saint Francis's wonderful prayer And may God bless you with enough foolishness to believe that you can make a difference in the world so that you can do what others claim cannot be done Alexandra Fuller author of Don't Let's Go to the Dogs Tonight Absorbing eloquent and loving While Robbins's tone is urgent it doesn't compromise his crystal clear science Even the smallest details here are fascinating Dominique Browning The New York Times Book Review The great poet W S Merwin once wrote On the last day of the world I would want to plant a tree It's good to see in this lovely volume that some folks are getting a head start Bill McKibben author of Eaarth Making a Life on a Tough New Planet Inspiring Robbins lucidly summarizes the importance and value of trees to planet Earth and all humanity The Ecologist Imagine a world without trees writes journalist Jim Robbins It's nearly impossible after reading The Man Who Planted Trees in which Robbins weaves science and spirituality as he explores the bounty these plants offer the planet Audubon

Modernism in the Green Julia E. Daniel, Margaret Konkol, 2020-04-15 Modernism in the Green traces a trans Atlantic modernist fascination with the creation use and representation of the modern green From the verdant public commons in the heart of cities to the lookout points on mountains in national parks planned green spaces serve as felicitous stages for the performance of modernism In its focus on designed and public green zones Modernism in the Green offers a new perspective on modernism's overlapping investments in the arts politics urbanism race class gender and the nature culture divide This collection of essays is the first to explore the prominent and diverse ways greens materialize in modern literature and culture along with the manner in which modernists represented them This volume presents the idea of the green as a point of exploration as our contributors analyze social organic spaces ranging from public parks to roadways and refuse piles Like the term green one that evokes both more than human natural zones and crafted public meeting places these chapters uncover the social and spatial intersection of nature and culture in the very architecture of parks gardens buildings highways and dumps This book argues that such greens facilitate modernists' exploration of how nature can manifest in an era of increasing urbanization and mechanization and what identities and communities the green now enables or prevents
