Enduring Inequality Religious Discrimination In Employment In Northern Ireland:

Inequality & Injustice in Northern Ireland Vincent McCormack,1990 Enduring Inequality Vincent McCormack,Joe O'Hara,1990 U.S. Economic Role in the Peace Process in Northern Ireland United States. Congress. House. Committee on International Relations,1995 Facets of the Conflict in Northern Ireland Seamus Dunn,2016-07-27 an important volume for anyone anxious to understand the fundamentals of politics in Northern Ireland today Margaret O Callaghan Irish Times Facets of the Conflict in Northern Ireland is written by practising social science researchers all currently or recently working within Northern Ireland It provides an up to date background to the conflict and much of the material used arises from the wide range of funded researches carried out at the Centre for the Study of Conflict University of Ulster during the past sixteen years Each chapter focuses on a different facet of the problem and these include social legal political religious economic and cultural matters Combating Terrorism in Northern Ireland James Dingley,2008-10-13 This edited book analyses the lessons which can be drawn from Northern Ireland s experiences of combating terrorism The essays in this volume unite analysis and practice in exploring both the conflict in Northern Ireland and the internationally applicable counter terrorism lessons which can be drawn from the response to it The contributors all specialists in their fields make a theoretical analysis of the underlying causes of terrorism and explore how this interacts with the development of effective operations and policy responses The book emphasises the socio economic and socio cultural dimensions underlying the problem of terrorism arguing that short term violent military responses can in fact exacerbate the problem It highlights the complexity of terrorism as a social phenomenon and outlines the multi faceted approach needed to combat it The Long Road to Peace in Northern Ireland Marianne Elliott,2007-01-01 The ratification of the Good Friday Agreement in 1998 was the culmination of a lengthy and contentious peace process that involved the efforts of a committed team of political actors In 2001 Marianne Elliott brought together a collection of essays by many of these pivotal figures in The Long Road to Peace in Northern Ireland an invaluable resource for students scholars and politicians Now Elliott one of the most prominent chroniclers of Irish history presents a fully updated edition with new essays commissioned to explore the events of the past five years A period that saw successes such as the decommissioning of the Provisional IRA but also a rise in drug trafficking and organized crime as a generation of men who have done nothing other than serve as paramilitaries are now finding their skills most valued as criminals With contributions from U S Senator George J Mitchell Sir David Goodall Jan Egeland Lord Owen and Peter Mandelsohn the second edition of The Long Road to Peace in Northern Ireland is an illuminating record of the ongoing peace process and its consequences told by the people directly involved in its evolution A Treatise on Northern Ireland, Volume III Brendan O'Leary,2019-04-04 The third volume of the definitive political history of Northern Ireland The Good Friday Agreement deserved the attention the world gave it even if it was not always accurately understood After its ratification in two referendums for the first time in history political institutions throughout the island of Ireland

rested upon the freely given assent of majorities of all the peoples on the island. It marked it was hoped the full political decolonization of Ireland. Whether Ireland would reunify or whether Northern Ireland remain in union with Great Britain now rested on the will of the people of Ireland North and South respectively. A complex mode of power sharing addressed the self-determination dispute. The concluding volume of Brendan O'Leary's A Treatise on Northern Ireland explains the making of this settlement and the many failed initiatives that preceded it under British direct rule. Long-term structural and institutional changes and short-term political maneuvers are given their due in this lively but comprehensive assessment. The Anglo-Irish Agreement is identified as the political tipping point itself, partially the outcome of the hunger strikes of 1980-81 that had prevented the criminalization of republicanism. Until 2016 the prudent judgment seemed to be that the Good Friday Agreement had broadly worked, eventually enabling Sinn Féin and the DUP to share power with intermittent attention from the sovereign governments. Cultural Catholics appeared content if not in love with the Union with Great Britain. But the decision to hold a referendum on the UK's membership of the European Union has collaterally damaged and destabilized the Good Friday Agreement. That in turn has shaped the UK's tortured exit negotiations with the European Union. In appraising these recent events and assessing possible futures, readers will find O'Leary's distinctive angle of vision clear, sharp, unsentimental, and unsparing of reputations in keeping with the mastery of the historical panoramas displayed throughout this treatise.

The Troubles in Ballybogoin William F. Kelleher, Jr., 2010-02-09 A fascinating exploration of how social memory serves to hinder communication and foster disorder in Northern Ireland.

The Unequal Unemployed Maura Sheehan, Mike Tomlinson, 2018-12-21 First published in 1999, this volume is about unemployment and discrimination with a focus on Northern Ireland and its debate over patterns of inequality between unemployed Catholics and Protestants. The Unequal Unemployed uses the important and revealing context of Northern Ireland to review the international debate on discrimination and the role of unemployment within it. This intellectual and political debate, active throughout the past decade, represents a conflict between a) The traditional view that unequal unemployment is evidence of labour market discrimination against minorities and other distinct social groupings; b) Recent models which explain unemployment either in terms of individual responsibility or innate inferiority and attack the equal opportunities industry for its attempts at social engineering. Maura Sheehan and Mike Tomlinson approach these theories using unique survey evidence gathered through a comprehensive evaluation of anti-discrimination policy. They contradict the view that differences in unemployment between Catholics and Protestants in Northern Ireland are the result of personal attitudes and religious culture. The book demonstrates that unequal unemployment arises from various discriminatory structures and practices, all of which are amenable to policy intervention. However, while more radical measures may achieve change, these must be developed within a policy framework which stimulates labour demand and economic development. Such a framework is constrained by the continuing political conflict within Northern Ireland.
