E. Gregory McPherson,1984      Buildings Energy Conservation ,1985-08      Energy-conserving Site Design Case Studies ,1979 The workshop was opened by Mr J Kaminsky giving a brief synopsis of the history of the case studies to date
The Site and Neighborhood Design case studies are roughly midway through the process of identifying and evaluating various options for increasing energy conservation in current design stages of their development and marketing schedule The experiences gained to date are given for Burke Center a village center site concentrating on building options in Fairfax Co Virginia Radisson basically a new town in central New York Greenbrier 3 000 acres very flat and wet in a standard metropolitan area in Virginia near Norfolk Shenandoah a series of villages developed in stages in Georgia near Atlanta and The Woodlands 12 million ft2 of building area and 37 000 parking spaces in Texas near Houston Technical progress for each development is then summed Dr W R Powell presented a paper describing an energy conservation system called Community Annual Storage Systems CASES CASES collects heat in in summer and stores it for used heating in winter In the winter it preserves the chill and provides the necessary cooling in the summer for communities      Energy Conservation Site Visit color practical guide to designing sustainable residential landscapes and small scale sites Going green is no longer a choice it s a necessity Developed landscapes have played a significant role in exacerbating the environmental and social problems that threaten humanity however they can also be part of the solution Designing the Sustainable Site Integrated Design Strategies for Small Scale Sites and Residential Landscapes gives site designers and landscape architects the tools and information they need to become a driving force in the quest for sustainability Advocating a regenerative design approach in which built landscapes sustain and restore vital ecological functions this book guides readers through a design process for new and redeveloped sites that not only minimizes damage to the environment but also actively helps to repair it Designing the Sustainable Site Assists designers in identifying and incorporating sustainable practices that have the greatest positive impact on both the project and the surrounding community within a regional context Uses photographs sketches and case studies to provide a comprehensive look at successful green landscape design Illustrates how sustainable practices are relevant and applicable to projects of any size or budget Demonstrates how built environments can protect and restore ecosystem services Explains the multiple and far reaching benefits that sustainable design solutions can provide Assists project teams in fulfilling credit requirements of green building assessment tools such as LEED BREEAM or SITES With attention to six global environmental challenges including air pollution urban flooding and water pollution water shortages invasive species and loss of biodiversity along with guidance on how to meet these challenges Designing the Sustainable Site is a practical design manual for sustainable alternatives to small scale site and residential landscape design Energy, 1980 Energy Conserving Site Design Case Study, Burke Center, Virginia.
