Critical Buddhism James Mark Shields, 2016-04-22 In the late 1980s and early 1990s the relative calm world of Japanese Buddhist scholarship was thrown into chaos with the publication of several works by Buddhist scholars Hakamaya Noriaki and Matsumoto Shiro dedicated to the promotion of something they called Critical Buddhism hihan bukkyo In their quest to re establish a true rational ethical and humanist form of East Asian Buddhism the Critical Buddhists undertook a radical deconstruction of historical and contemporary East Asian Buddhism particularly Zen While their controversial work has received some attention in English language scholarship this is the first book length treatment of Critical Buddhism as both a philosophical and religious movement where the lines between scholarship and practice blur Providing a critical and Romantic Dharma M. Lussier, 2011-10-10 Romantic Dharma maps the emergence of Buddhism into European consciousness during the first half of the nineteenth century, probes the shared ethical and intellectual commitments embedded in Buddhist and Romantic thought, and proposes potential ways by which those insights translate into contemporary critical and pedagogical practices. Aikido as Transformative and Embodied Pedagogy Michael A. Gordon, 2019-07-16 Drawing on the author's lifelong practice in the non-competitive and defensive Japanese art of Aikido, this book examines education as self-cultivation from a Japanese philosophy, e.g., Buddhist perspective. Contemplative practices such as secular mindfulness meditation are being increasingly integrated into pedagogical settings to enhance social and emotional learning and well-being and to address stress induced overwhelm due to increased pressures on the education system and its constituents. The chapters in this book explore the various ways through the lens of this non-violent relational art of Aikido that pedagogy is always something being practiced on the level of psychological, somatic, and emotional registers and thus holding potential for transformation into being more relational, ecological, minded, and reflecting more embodied attunement. Positioning education as a practice of self-discovery, the author argues that one can approach personal development as engaging in a spiritual process of integrating mind and body towards full presence of being and existence.
