Global Issues in Contemporary Hispanic Women's Writing Estrella Cibreiro,Francisca López,2013 Carolyn Tuttle led a group that interviewed 620 women maquila workers in Nogales Sonora Mexico The responses from this representative sample refute many of the hopeful predictions made by scholars before NAFTA and reveal instead that little has improved for maquila workers The women s stories make it plain that free trade has created more low paying jobs in sweatshops where workers are exploited Families of maquila workers live in one or two room houses with no running water no drainage and no heat The multinational companies who operate the maquilas consistently break Mexican labor laws by requiring women to work more than nine hours a day six days a week without medical benefits while the minimum wage they pay workers is insufficient to feed their families These findings will make a crucial contribution to debates over free trade CAFTA DR and the impact of globalization The book visits continuities and discontinuities among Spanish and Latin American women with regards to the ways in which they approach writing as a political weapon to express ecological concerns to denounce social injustice to re articulate existing paradigms such as local versus global violence versus pacifism immigrant versus citizen and to raise consciousness about racist sexist and other discriminatory practices Such use of writing as an instrument of ethical and political exploration is underlined throughout the different articles in the volume as the authors emphasize pluralism social justice gender equality tolerance and political representation This book offers readers a broad perspective on the multiple ways in which Hispanic women writers are explicitly exploring the social political and economic realities of our era and integrating global perspectives and gender concerns into their writing highlighting the unprecedented level of sociopolitical engagement practiced by 20th and 21st century Hispanic women writers The ^AOxford Handbook of Consumption Dr. Frederick F. The Politics of Actually Existing Unsustainability John Barry, 2012-02-23 At the level of developing a progressive and critical theoretical understanding of unsustainability it argues for the importance of integrating vulnerability which has been largely neglected by both mainstream western political theory and analyses of the current global ecological crisis It suggests that valuable insights into the causes of and alternatives to unsustainability can be found in a critical embracing of human vulnerability and dependency as both constitutive and ineliminable aspects of what it means to be human Rather than seeing invulnerability as the appropriate response the book defends resilience and the ability to cope with rather than solve vulnerability as more productive

Bioregionalism and Global Ethics

Richard Evanoff, 2010-09-13 While a number of schools of environmental thought including social ecology ecofeminism ecological Marxism ecoanarchism and bioregionalism have attempted to link social issues to a concern for the environment environmental ethics as an academic discipline has tended to focus more narrowly on ethics related either to changes in personal values or behavior or to the various ways in which nature might be valued What is lacking is a framework in which individual social and environmental concerns can be looked at not in isolation from each other but rather in terms of their interrelationships In this book Evanoff aims to develop just such a philosophical framework one in which ethical questions related to interactions between self society and nature can be discussed across disciplines and from a variety of different perspectives The central problem his study investigates is the extent to which a dichotomized view of the relationship between nature and culture perpetuated in ongoing debates over anthropocentric vs ecocentric approaches to environmental ethics might be overcome through the adoption of a transactional perspective which offers a more dynamic and coevolutionary understanding of how humans interact with their natural environments Unlike anthropocentric approaches to environmental ethics which often privilege human concerns over ecological preservation and some ecocentric approaches which place more emphasis on preserving natural environments than on meeting human needs a transactional approach attempts to create more symbiotic and less conflictual modes of interaction between human cultures and natural environments which allow for the flourishing of both

Coverage includes but is not restricted to Ecological politics Sustainable development Environmental philosophy Green party politics Environmental economics Environmental movements Ecofeminism Sustainable living practices      The Green Light Bernard Charbonneau, 2018-06-14 The Green Light Le Feu Vert offers an original and profound exploration of the roots of environmental philosophy and the Anthropocene Bernard Charbonneau situates the wellspring of the ecological movement in the dialectics of Nature and Freedom and their needful but uneasy joining against the totalizing system of technological society that threatens them both Using this paradoxical tension as a yardstick he probes the ways in which concepts of Nature have developed as industrialization became second nature and jeopardized the original taken for granted until its advent This allows Charbonneau to explain how movements and policies claiming to deal with this issue have gone wrong A spirited critique of how the environmental movement has taken shape in relation to philosophy politics theology and contemporary culture this book written in 1980 is representative of an oft overlooked strand of French environmentalist thought as a look back on its first decade in the public eye by a man who had originated political ecology half a century earlier Charbonneau can be said to have prepared the way for many current concerns within environmental thought the tension between liberalism and ecologism in green political theory the wider question of the compatibility of ecological imperatives with supposedly foundational freedoms under capitalism the discussions over how to balance existing democratic structures with environmental goals the tensions between radical and reformist strategies within green movements the controversy over the core values of ecological politics in a world transformed by climate change and peak everything and the proper attitude of environmental movements to institutional science This ground breaking work should be front and centre of the debates that he anticipated while giving a timely perspective on the interconnected questions of nature and human freedom This first English translation of a work by Bernard Charbonneau provides not only a vivid account of environmental philosophy but an introduction to this important author's thought      Environmental Philosophy Liam Leonard, John Barry, Marius De Geus, 2013-10-24 What impact are we having on the environment around us How can we limit the effect of human life on the natural world These questions and more are considered in Advances in Sustainability and Environmental Justice volume 13 which looks at environmental philosophy humanity's place in the world and how we can live in harmony with our planet      Excess Kim Humphery, 2013-04-23 Over consumption is one of the key issues of our time especially in the Western world Over the past decade in the face of historically unprecedented levels of consumer spending in the West and the more recent impact of recession a vigorous politics of anti consumerism has emerged in a range of wealthy nations This timely and original new book provides a comprehensive overview and analysis of what has come to be called the new politics of consumption a politics embodied in movements such as culture jamming simple living slow food and fair trade The book offers an examination of anti consumerism at a time when the idea of consumer excess is being re framed by a global economic downturn and crucially explores what this means for the future of political debate Drawing on interviews with activists across three continents and offering a refreshingly accessible discussion of contemporary commentary and theory Kim Humphery sympathetically explores anti consumerism as cultural interpretation lifestyle change and collective action Whilst analysing the positive advances of the anti consumerist movement Excess also challenges contemporary critical thinking on consumption taking issue with the return to theories of mass culture in contemporary anti consumerist polemic Alternatively Humphery begins to forge a politics of anti consumerism that addresses the complexity of material acquisition and which avoids treating consumers as mere dupes in the logic of capitalism viewing them instead as active participants in a culture which is capable of transformation

Utopianism for a Dying Planet Gregory Claeys, 2024-12-10 How the utopian tradition offers answers to today's environmental crises In the face of Earth's environmental breakdown it is clear that technological innovation alone won't save our planet A more radical approach is required one that involves profound changes in individual and collective behavior Utopianism for a Dying Planet examines the ways the expansive history of utopian thought from its origins in ancient Sparta and ideas of the Golden Age through to today's thinkers can offer moral and imaginative guidance in the face of catastrophe The utopian tradition which has been critical of conspicuous consumption and luxurious indulgence might light a path to a society that emphasizes equality sociability and sustainability Gregory Claeys unfolds his argument through a wide ranging consideration of utopian literature social theory and intentional communities He defends a realist definition of utopia focusing on ideas of sociability and belonging as central to utopian narratives He surveys the development of these themes during the eighteenth and nineteenth centuries before examining twentieth and twenty first century debates about alternatives to consumerism Claeys contends that the current global warming limit of 1.5C (2.7F) will result in cataclysm if there is no further reduction in the cap In response he offers a radical Green New Deal program which combines ideas from the theory of sociability with proposals to withdraw from fossil fuels and cease reliance on unsustainable commodities An urgent and comprehensive search for antidotes to our planet's destruction Utopianism for a Dying Planet asks for a revival of utopian ideas not as an escape from reality but as a powerful means of changing it

Future as Fairness Anne K. Haugstad, J. D. Wulforst, 2004 Twenty years after the establishment of the World Commission on Environment and Development the 13 contributions in this interdisciplinary volume offer a broad spectrum of perspectives and research based recommendations on environmental sustainability social justice and the human enterprise The cases explored cover global citizenly rights and obligations environmental health ecological building practices tradable fuel permits forestry and illegal logging local waste management employment and risk assessments the genetic modification debate nuclear and toxic waste global environmental governance and 500 years of globalization

Liberal Democracy and Environmentalism Yoram Levy, Marcel Wissenburg, 2004-07-31 In recent decades environmental issues have increasingly been incorporated into liberal democratic thought and political practice Environmentalism and ecologism have become fashionable even respectable schools of political thought This apparently successful integration of environmental movements issues and ideas in mainstream politics raises the question of whether there is a future for what once was a counter movement and counter ideology Liberal Democracy and Environmentalism provides a reflective assessment of recent developments social relevance and future of environmental political theory concluding that although the alleged pacification of environmentalism is more than skin deep it is not yet quite deep enough This book will appeal to students and researchers of social science and philosophers with an interest in environmental issues      Sustainable Consumption Lucie
