End Of Imprisonment:

The End of Imprisonment Robert Sommer, 1976 Provides a brief history of American prisons explores their current status and discusses prospects and policies for reform The Architecture of Good Behavior Joy Knoblauch, 2020-04-07

Inspired by the rise of environmental psychology and increasing support for behavioral research after the Second World War new initiatives at the federal state and local levels looked to influence the human psyche through form or elicit desired behaviors with environmental incentives implementing what Joy Knoblauch calls psychological functionalism Recruited by federal construction and research programs for institutional reform and expansion which included hospitals mental health centers prisons and public housing architects theorized new ways to control behavior and make it more functional by exercising soft power or power through persuasion with their designs In the 1960s 1970s era of anti institutional sentiment they hoped to offer an enlightened palatable more humane solution to larger social problems related to health mental health justice and security of the population by applying psychological expertise to institutional design In turn Knoblauch argues architects gained new roles as researchers organizers and writers while theories of confinement territory and surveillance proliferated The Architecture of Good Behavior explores psychological functionalism as a political tool and the architectural projects funded by a postwar nation in its efforts to govern exert control over and ultimately pacify its patients prisoners and residents The ^A Future of Imprisonment Michael Tonry, 2004-04-08 The imprisonment rate in America has grown by a factor of five since 1972 In that time punishment policies have toughened compassion for prisoners has diminished and prisons have gotten worse a stark contrast to the origins of the prison 200 years ago as a humanitarian reform a substitute for capital and corporal punishment and banishment So what went wrong How can prisons be made simultaneously more effective and more humane Who should be sent there in the first place What should happen to them while they are inside When how and under what conditions should they be released The Future of Imprisonment unites some of the leading prisons and penal policy scholars of our time to address these fundamental questions Inspired by the work of Norval Morris the contributors look back to the past twenty five years of penal policy in an effort to look forward to the prison s twenty first century future Their essays examine the effects of current high levels of imprisonment on urban neighborhoods and the people who live in them They reveal how current policies came to be as they are and explain the theories of punishment that guide imprisonment decisions Finally the contributors argue for the strategic importance of controls on punishment including imprisonment as a limit on government power chart the rise and fall of efforts to improve conditions inside analyze the theory and practice of prison release and evaluate the tricky science of predicting and preventing recidivism A definitive guide to imprisonment policies for the future this volume convincingly demonstrates how we can prevent crime more effectively at lower economic and human cost Annual Report of the Prison Association of New York Prison Association of New Rachel Herzing,Justin Piché,2024-04-09 An incisive guide to abolitionist strategy and a love letter to the movement that made this moment possible Critics of abolition sometimes castigate the movement for its utopianism but in How to Abolish Prisons long time organizers Rachel Herzing and Justin Pich reveal a movement that has made the struggle for abolition as real as the institutions they are fighting against Drawing on extensive interviews with abolitionist crews all over North America Herzing and Pich provide a collective reconstruction of what the grassroots movement to abolish prisons actually is what initiatives it has launched how it organizes itself and how its protagonists build the day to day practice of politics Readers sit in on the Winnipeg rideshares of Bar None and the meetings of the Chicago Community Bail Fund as they assess the utility of politicized mutual aid They follow the campaigns and coalitions of Critical Resistance in Oakland and San Francisco and Survived and Punished in New York City and learn about the prisoner correspondence projects that keep activists behind bars and outside them in constant coordination Abolitionist campaigns are constructing on the ground initiatives across North America to deconstruct carceral society and build resistant communities Through the words deeds and personalities of this beautifully peopled movement How to Abolish Prisons emerges as a stunning snapshot of a movement s thinking in
