Endangered Environments, 1972      Endangered Ecosystems of the United States Reed F. Noss, J. Michael Scott, 1995

Endangered Environments! Bob Burton, 1996 Examines twelve different biomes around the world and some of the threats they face      Endangered Ecosystems of the United States Reed F. Noss, J. Michael Scott, 1995      Sandy Beaches as

Endangered Ecosystems Sílvia Gonçalves, Susana Ferreira, 2022-02-09 Sandy beaches are the most abundant coastal environments worldwide which have an undeniable and unique ecological value Presently they are amongst the most endangered ecosystems in the biosphere mainly due to the influence of several human activities In this book renowned scientists from around the world describe key attributes of sandy beaches and highlight the problems which impact them Specific tools encompassing the physical environment and the biota are pointed out at different levels of ecological organization The book also covers suitable management conservation programmes and respective actions where ecologic economic and social dimensions are comprehensively integrated      Our built and natural environments ,      The

Environment, Our Natural Resources, and Modern Technology Thomas R. DeGregori, 2008-06-02 Always controversial Thomas DeGregori has released another classic volume that is sure to inform confound and present new perspectives on today's environmental issues This time he is taking on the environmentalists naturalists green consumerists and those that hail the natural lifestyle as the healthy politically correct thing to do DeGregori examines the economics of green consumerism the reality of saving the environment how historical cultures may have influenced environmental damage and how being ecologically correct may have a more damaging effect on our environment Not just a regurgitation of theories DeGregori offers real time strategies and alternatives to enhance our natural resources and our environment in harmony with today's modern technology This is the book everyone will be talking about for years to come      Environment Jules

Pretty, 2006-06-23 This four volume set explores the locations where the environment matters most such as where people are poor where environments are under threat such as on frontiers where there are few natural resources remaining and where industrialization is rampant It will also explore these concerns at different system levels from local community to regional national and global It will also explore costs of damage to the very resources on which economies rely and the values of environmental goods and services and the controversies surrounding such valuations It is organized around environment people interactions livelihoods poverty income economic growth environment environment interactions do people matter and people people interactions collective action challenges institutions      Presenting and Representing Environments

Graham Humphrys, Michael Williams, 2006-01-27 The presentation and representation of the environment occurs throughout academia and across all news media The strict protocols of science often clash with environmental information available from sources that dwell on subjective aesthetic emotional and personal sensitivities This book challenge the reader as student teacher researcher or policy maker to reflect critically on the ways that environments are studied interpreted presented and represented in education and public policy      New Directions in Anthropology and Environment Carole L. Crumley, 2002-05-09 Carole L. Crumley has brought together top scholars from across anthropology in a benchmark volume that displays the range of exciting new work on the complex relationship between humans and the environment. Continually pursuing anthropology's persistent claim that both the physical and the mental world matter, these environmental scholars proceed from the holistic assumption that the physical world and human societies are always inextricably linked. As they incorporate diverse forms of knowledge, their work reaches beyond anthropology to bridge the sciences, social sciences, and the humanities, and to forge working relationships with non-academic communities and professionals. Theoretical issues such as the cultural dimensions of context, knowledge, and power are articulated alongside practical discussions of building partnerships, research methods, and ethics, and strategies for implementing policy. New Directions in Environment and Anthropology will be important for all scholars and non-academics interested in the relation between our species and its biotic and built environments. It is also designed for classroom use, and in and beyond anthropology, and students will be greatly assisted by suggested reading lists for their further exploration of general concepts and specific research. Human Influences on Forest Ecosystems Edward A. Macie, L. Annie Hermansen, 2002      Language Death David Crystal, 2002-04-29 The rapid endangerment and death of many minority languages across the world is a matter of widespread concern, not only among linguists and anthropologists but among all concerned with issues of cultural identity in an increasingly globalized culture. By some counts, only 600 of the 6,000 or so languages in the world are safe from the threat of extinction. A leading commentator and popular writer on language issues, David Crystal asks the fundamental question: Why is language death so important? He reviews the reasons for the current crisis and investigates what is being done to reduce its impact. This 2002 book contains not only intelligent argument but moving descriptions of the decline and demise of particular languages and practical advice for anyone interested in pursuing the subject further      Assessment of grassland ecosystem conditions in the southwestern United States, 2004      Assessment of Grassland Ecosystem Conditions in the

Southwestern United States: without special title, 2004      Riverine Ecology Volume 2 Susanta Kumar Chakraborty, 2021-02-27 This book is part of a two-volume set that offers an innovative approach towards developing methods and tools for assigning conservation categories of threatened taxa and their conservation strategies by way of different phases of eco-restoration in the context of freshwater river systems of tropical biogeographic zones. The set provides a considerable volume of research on the biodiversity component of river ecosystems: seasonal dynamics of physical, chemical parameters, geo-hydrological properties, types, sources, and modes of action of different types of pollution, river restoration strategies, and methodologies for the ongoing ecological changes of river ecosystems. Volume 2 highlights biodiversity potential in aiding the resistance and resilience of riverine ecosystem functioning and their synergistic effects on ongoing environmental perturbations Comprehensive information on the conservation of river associated wildlife is provided covering the impacts of pollution land use changes river policies and ecosystem restoration strategies The book offers an innovative approach towards developing methods and tools for assigning conservation categories of threatened taxa and covers their conservation strategies by way of different phases of eco restoration in the context of freshwater river systems of tropical bio geographic zones

Biocultural Rights, Indigenous Peoples and Local Communities Fabien Girard, Ingrid Hall, Christine Frison, 2022-04-18 This volume presents a comprehensive overview of biocultural rights examining how we can promote the role of indigenous peoples and local communities as environmental stewards and how we can ensure that their ways of life are protected With Biocultural Community Protocols BCPs or Community Protocols CPs being increasingly seen as a powerful way of tackling this immense challenge this book investigates these new instruments and considers the lessons that can be learnt about the situation of indigenous peoples and local communities It opens with theoretical insights which provide the reader with foundational concepts such as biocultural diversity biocultural rights and community rule making In Part Two the book moves on to community protocols within the Access Benefit Sharing ABS context while taking a glimpse into the nature and role of community protocols beyond issues of access to genetic resources and traditional knowledge A thorough review of specific cases drawn from field based research around the world is presented in this part Comprehensive chapters also explore the negotiation process and raise stimulating questions about the role of international brokers and organizations and the way they can use BCPs CPs as disciplinary tools for national and regional planning or to serve powerful institutional interests Finally the third part of the book considers whether BCPs CPs notably through their emphasis on stewardship of nature and tradition can be seen as problematic arrangements that constrain indigenous peoples within the Western imagination without any hope of them reconstructing their identities according to their own visions or whether they can be seen as political tools and representational strategies used by indigenous peoples in their struggle for greater rights to their land territories and resources and for more political space This volume will be of great interest to students and scholars of environmental law indigenous peoples biodiversity conservation and environmental anthropology It will also be of great use to professionals and policymakers involved in environmental management and the protection of indigenous rights The Open Access version of this book available at www.taylorfrancis.com has been made available under a Creative Commons Attribution Non Commercial No Derivatives 4.0 license
