Contemporary China Kristie Thomas, 2017-02-14 Since its accession to the World Trade Organisation WTO in December 2001 China has been committed to full compliance with the Trade Related Intellectual Property Rights TRIPS Agreement This text considers the development of intellectual property in China and offers an interdisciplinary analysis of China's compliance with the TRIPS Agreement using theories originating in international relations and law It notes that despite significant efforts to amend China's substantive IP laws to prepare for WTO accession and sweeping changes to domestic legislation a significant gap existed between the laws on paper and as enforced in practice and that infringements to the agreement are still prevalent The book examines how compliance with international rules can be promoted and encouraged in a specific jurisdiction Making a case for a wider more interdisciplinary and global outlook it contends that compliance needs to align with the national interests of relevant countries and jurisdictions as governments economic interests support the greater enforcement of the IP laws      Promoting Transboundary Water Security in the Aral Sea Basin through underpinnings to understand the success conditions in sharing transboundary water resources The author focused in the work on three conditions i e institutional conditions and country specific conditions as well as conditions of regional integrity level and role of external actors The proposed conditions were tested on two river basins i e the successful one in the example of Orange Senqu river basin and unsuccessful one in the case of Naryn Syrdarya river basin
