Falling From Silence:

The Fall Out of Redemption Joseph Acquisto, 2016-10-20 Joseph Acquisto examines literary writers and critical theorists who employ theological frameworks but who divorce those frameworks from questions of belief and thereby remove the doctrine of salvation from their considerations. Acquisto claims that Baudelaire inaugurates a new kind of amodern modernity by canceling the notion of salvation in his writing while also refusing to embrace any of its secular equivalents such as historical progress or redemption through art. Through a series of interhistorical readings that put Baudelaire into dialogue with literary and critical writers from the last 150 years, Acquisto highlights the way both literary and critical approaches attempt to articulate a third option between theism and atheism that also steers clear of political utopianism and Nietzschean estheticism. In the concluding section, Acquisto expands metaphysical and esthetic concerns to account also for the ethics inherent in the refusal of the logic of salvation, an ethics which emerges from rather seeking to redeem or cancel a certain kind of nihilism from back cover.

Composing under the Skin Paul Craenen, 2014-04-29 A revealing study of the physical presence of the musician in musical performance. Fingers slipping over guitar strings, the tap of a bow against the body of a cello, a pianist humming along to the music. Contemporary composers often work with parasitic, non-conventional sounds such as these. Are they to be perceived as musical elements or do they shift attention to the physical effort of music making, contact between a body and an instrument? Composer Paul Craenen explores ways in which the musician's body is revealed in musical performance. He leads us from Cage, Lachenmann, Kagel and their contemporaries to a discussion of how today's generation of young composers is writing a body paradigm into composition itself. Micro-temporal physical gestures and instrumental timbre provide the key to unveiling the physical presence of both a musician and a composing body. The author's concept of intercorporeality, along with the idea of an alternating linear and non-linear relationship of the composing body to time, casts new light on the relationship between musicians, composers and music consumers.

Phenomenological Psychology J.J. Kockelmans, 1987-10-31 Over the past decades many books and essays have been written on phenomenological psychology. Some of these publications are historical in character and were designed to give the reader an idea of the origin, meaning and function of phenomenological psychology and its most important trends. Others are theoretical in nature and were written to give the reader an insight into the ways in which various authors conceive of phenomenological psychology and how they attempt to justify their views in light of the philosophical assumptions underlying their conceptions. Finally, there are a great number of publications in which the authors do not talk about phenomenological psychology but rather try to do what was described as possible and necessary in the first two kinds of publications. Some of these attempts to do the latter have been quite successful; in other cases the results have been disappointing. This anthology contains a number of essays which I have brought together for the explicit purpose of introducing the reader to the Dutch school in phenomenological psychology. The Dutch school occupies an important place in the phenomenological movement as a whole Buytendijk was one of the first Dutch scholars to contribute to the field and for several decades he remained the central figure of the school

The American Political Scandal David R. Dewberry,2015-08-13 In this holistic examination of political scandal in the United States David Dewberry argues convincingly that such scandals follow a consistent narrative centered largely on media coverage and politician performance rather than the actual corruption or ethics violation committed In making this argument he also provides an analytical framework for understanding the patterns underlying scandals regardless of their unique political contexts Dewberry dissects four major examples Teapot Dome Watergate Iran Contra and Clinton Lewinsky and explores the roles of various constituencies involved in creating reacting to and mediating the scandal What is the true role of journalism within the context of scandal What persuasive techniques do politicians employ to develop and perpetuate scandals What motives and values bring scandals to a close In addition to the core cases Dewberry incorporates briefer examples from contemporary and ongoing controversies including Anthony Weiner s sexting scandal money and sex in Congress how cover ups have gone digital and Chris Christie s Bridgegate The result is a fascinating and thoughtful look at the relationships among political discourse free speech and democracy
