Variations in the Political and Social Economy of Care Shahra Razavi,Silke Staab,2012-05-23 Care work both paid and unpaid contributes to well being social development and economic growth But the costs of providing care are unequally borne across gender and social class Feminist scholarship on the gendered construction of welfare provisioning and welfare regimes has produced a conceptually strong and empirically grounded analysis of care reinforcing the necessity of rethinking the distinctions between the public and the private as well as the links between them Yet this analysis premised on post industrial contexts does not travel easily to other parts of the world Many of its core assumptions about family structures labor markets state capacities and public social provisioning do not hold for a wider range of countries Drawing on original research on the care economy in three developing regions Africa Asia Latin America this volume addresses a major empirical lacuna while facilitating a conversation across the North South divide Género y sexualidades en las tramas del saber Silvia Elizade,Karina Felitti,Graciela Queirolo,2009 Este libro se inscribe en el contexto de reflexi n acci n sobre los modos de educar desde una perspectiva de g nero revitalizado a partir de la sanci n de la Ley Nacional de Educaci n Sexual Integral Partiendo de la puesta en valor de la sexualidad como dimensi n fundamental de nuestras identidades esta compilaci n

Tiene género el lenguaje? ¿Cómo interpela la producción artística a las sexualidades? ¿Cómo analizar las marcas del sexismo, la homofobia y la discriminación en los discursos mediáticos? Women in the Judiciary Ulrike Schultz, Gisela Shaw, 2013-09-13 Does gender matter in judging? And if so in what way? Why were there so few women judges only two or three decades ago and why are there so many now in most countries of the Western world? How do women judges experience their work in a previously male dominated environment? What are their professional careers? How do they organise and live their lives? And finally and most notably do women judge differently from men or even better? These are the questions dealt with in this collection of contributions by seven authors from six countries: UK, Australia, USA, Canada, Syria and Argentina contrasting views from common law and civil law countries. In spite of differences in the two legal systems as well as greater gender diversity on the bench and the overall higher income and prestige enjoyed by judges in common law countries, women judges in all these countries (Syria included) share many problems. Diverse and intriguing facets are added to a debate that started thirty years ago but continues to leave ample space for further discussion. This book was originally published as a special issue of International Journal of the Legal Profession.

Gender Transitions Along Borders Marlene Solis, 2016-04-28 In recent decades women living in border cities have taken on new roles and have become one of the most vulnerable population groups experiencing the effects of the economic crisis of the early 21st century and the consequent increase in social inequality and violence. This situation is particularly evident for the northern borderlands of Mexico and Morocco. The geopolitical position of these regions is defined by their strong existing asymmetry with their neighbouring countries: the United States in the case of Mexico and the Mediterranean European countries in the case of Morocco. This book contributes to the understanding of current changes in the workplace, in family, in sexuality and sexual violence within the setting of the borderlands through various studies addressing the manner in which these transformations are interpreted and experienced by women in everyday life and in their individual and collective agency.

El cuidado infantil en el siglo XXI Eleonor Faur, 2019-11-22 Cómo se organiza el cuidado infantil en la sociedad argentina? Lo asumen por igual las madres y los padres? Cómo hacen las mujeres para compatibilizar la atención de los hijos pequeños y el trabajo remunerado fuera de la casa sin caer en el vertigo de los malabares cotidianos? Es un problema exclusivamente personal familiar que cada hogar debe resolver con sus propios recursos o interpela también al mercado y al Estado como posibles proveedores de coberturas y opciones. Eleonor Faur propone desandar la naturalización del maternalismo que cristaliza a la mujer como la cuidadora ideal y analizar las prácticas de cuidado con mirada sociológica en un mundo en que el modelo del hombre proveedor y el ama de casa de tiempo completo han caducado es preciso repensar la organización social del cuidado infantil incluyendo las políticas públicas como correspondientes En la actualidad esa organización revela desigualdades en cuanto al género ya que son las mujeres las depositarias de la tarea Y desigualdades socioeconómicas notorias entre las mujeres de ingresos medios que pueden desfamiliarizar y delegar en otras personas o instituciones la atención de sus hijos y las de sectores empobrecidos que encuentran serias dificultades para cuidar de los suyos y acceder a un trabajo remunerado A partir de un exhaustivo trabajo de campo la autora sostiene que es imperioso jerarquizar el cuidado como un bien social destacando el rol del Estado a través del diseño de políticas específicas subsidios a jefes y jefas de hogar asignación universal por hijo jardines maternales y de infantes guarderías legislación laboral El cuidado infantil en el siglo XXI instala con maestría y compromiso una discusión necesaria y el desafío de construir una política de cuidados integral sustentada en los principios de derechos universales para niños niñas hombres y mujeres Y da el puntapié inicial para colocar el cuidado entre las prioridades de la agenda pública
