by a discussion on the etiology of fear Experimental studies on fear that focus on innateness maturation and learning are examined together with genetic aspects of timidity the kinds of situations that are feared and the physiology and learning of fear The next chapter deals with clinical syndromes and the classification of phobic disorders such as the agoraphobic syndrome specific animal phobias and social phobias along with illness phobias obsessive phobias autonomic equivalents to phobic disorders and children s fears and phobias The final chapter is devoted to prevention and treatment of phobias including desensitization and psychiatric management of phobic patients This monograph will be of interest to psychiatrists and psychologists

The Psychology of Early Childhood C.W. Valentine, 2015-06-05 Originally published in 1942 this title attempted to trace from their very earliest appearances after birth all aspects of mental development in childhood up to the age of about 4 or 5 It is based largely on the author s almost daily observations of his own five children over a period of some twenty years supplemented by numerous tests and experiments The first purpose of this book was to advance our knowledge of the psychology of childhood The importance of such knowledge had become increasingly recognised Even if not all is completely determined in the first 4 5 years there was little doubt by this time that these first years are of profound significance for future development and the better understanding and training of the young child may be at the root of many of our educational and social problems

Fears, Phobias, and Rituals Isaac Meyer Marks, 1987 This book brings together information on fear and anxiety disorders from many disciplines including ethology genetics biochemistry physiology pharmacology psychology and psychiatry of the first studies to explore the relationship between environmental criticism and British modernism Green Modernism explores the cultural function of nature in the modernist novel between 1900 and 1930 This theoretically engaged historically informed book brings new materialist insights to novels by Conrad Ford Lawrence and Butts EBOOK: Imagining the Victim of Crime Sandra Walklate,2006-10-16 the clarity in which the wide range of relevant issues are presented throughout the book makes this must reading for new entrants to this field and for students International Review of Victimology This book situates the contemporary preoccupation with criminal victimisation within the broader socio cultural changes of the last twenty five years In so doing it addresses not only the policy possibilities that have been generated as a consequence of those changes but also concerns itself with the ability of victimology to help make sense of this change Written in the post 9 11 context this book considers the efficacy of theory and policy relating to questions of victimhood to accommodate the current political and cultural climate and offers a critical understanding of both It adopts an explicitly cross cultural position on these questions It will be vital reading for anyone interested in the problems and possibilities posed by criminal victimisation understood in the broadest terms Secret Admirer Amanda Stevens,2014-10-15 Get ready for a new brand of justice Born to a legacy of lawman three brothers sworn to serve and protect will safeguard the women they love GALLAGHER JUSTICE With a wickedly sexy smile and reputation to match detective Tony Gallagher was the Chicago P D s bad boy Tony had one rule he always worked alone Until a murder case pushed him to the edge and he got a new partner Working with Tony was Eve Barrett s dream come true and her worst nightmare As a girl she d loved him but he d never noticed her Now she had to find her growing desire and her real assignment investigating Tony With women he knew dying Tony trusted no one Eve had to win his confidence before a clever killer discovered the secrets of his heart The Fears of Adolescents J. H. Bamber,1979 The Feel of Algorithms Minna Ruckenstein,2023-05-23 This book explores the cultural shift in society that promotes and relies on affectively charged technology relations Bringing together relatable first person accounts of what it means to experience algorithms emotionally alongside research developed across anthropology sociology media and communication studies and science and technology studies The Feel of Algorithms reveals how political economic processes are felt in the everyday as we learn about the digital geography of fear and the current lack of collective resources to build algorithmic systems Minna Ruckenstein builds on the notion that everyday practices are not merely subject to algorithmic logic rather people actively respond to and live with data and algorithms ranging from actual technical operations to their imagined effects The pleasures fears and frustrations come together to produce a blueprint of how such systems should be combined with human aims and efforts The narrated emotional reactions are not simply individual responses they tell a more generalizable story of structures of feeling and related attempts to live well with algorithmic systems The Feel of Algorithms demonstrates that human capacities and aims need active fostering in the algorithmic era The structures of feeling aid in recognizing troubling practices but they also call for alternatives that are currently ignored
