Families Of Handicapped Children Helping Others In Crisis:

The Family and the Handicapped Child Elizabeth Newson, 2017-09-04 This book describes an inquiry into the upbringing of young cerebral palsied children Following the precedent set by John and Elizabeth Newson in their studies of normal children at home Sheila Hewett visited the mothers of 180 spastic children and obtained their personal accounts of their experiences There is considerable literature on handicapped children in which the adverse effects of their presence in the family are emphasized This study is the first to present not evidence provided by professional people but that of a large number of mothers of all social classes who have children with all degrees of handicap They tell in their own words how they meet the problems and anxieties of everyday life and how they strive to maintain the norms of family living in spite of their very real difficulties A measure of their success is provided by a number of comparisons with the families of normal children Hewett s nursing experience combined with a social science training and personal experience of parenthood contributed a useful background for this research Resulting as it does from close collaboration with the Newsons her work provides an important extension of the main work of the Child Development Research Unit in Nottingham It will help all those who work with handicapped children to achieve a better understanding of the families to whom they offer their specialist knowledge To the general public it offers an opportunity to gain insights into a situation which calls for their support and acceptance but not their pity For the parents of handicapped children themselves it provides a much needed opportunity to make their views known and to see that they are not alone in the difficulties which they face with such stoicism and resourcefulness This book s last aim has been achieved by using the now extensive information about the upbringing of normal children obtained from Nottingham mothers in the United Kingdom by John and Elizabeth Newson Families with Disabled Children United States. Congress. House. Select Committee on Children, Youth, and Families, 1985 The Family and the Handicapped Child Sheila Hewett, 2007-06-01 This book describes an inquiry into the upbringing of young cerebral palsied children Following the precedent set by John and Elizabeth Newson in their studies of normal children at home Sheila Hewett visited the mothers of 180 spastic children and obtained their personal accounts of their experiences There is considerable literature on handicapped children in which the adverse effects of their presence in the family are emphasized This study is the first to present not evidence provided by professional people but that of a large number of mothers of all social classes who have children with all degrees of handicap They tell in their own words how they meet the problems and anxieties of everyday life and how they strive to maintain the norms of family living in spite of their very real difficulties A measure of their success is provided by a number of comparisons with the families of normal children Hewett s nursing experience combined with a social science training and personal experience of parenthood contributed a useful background for this research Resulting as it does from close collaboration with the Newsons her work provides an important extension of the main work of the Child Development Research Unit in Nottingham It will help all those who work with handicapped children to achieve a better understanding of the families to whom they offer their specialist knowledge To the general public it offers an opportunity to gain insights into a situation which calls for their support and acceptance but not their pity For the parents of handicapped children themselves it provides a much needed opportunity to make their views known and to see that they are not alone in the difficulties which they face with such stoicism and resourcefulness This book's last aim has been achieved by using the now extensive information about the upbringing of normal children obtained from Nottingham mothers in the United Kingdom by John and Elizabeth Newson Adoption and Foster Care, 1975, Hearings Before the Subcommittee on Children and Youth of ..., 94-1, April 28 & 29, 1975; July 14 & 18, 1975 United States. Congress. Senate. Committee on Labor and Public Welfare, 1975 Family Support for Families of Children with Disabilities United States. Congress. Senate. Committee on Labor and Human Resources. Subcommittee on Disability Policy, 1994 Theory and Research in Behavioral Pediatrics Hiram E. Fitzgerald, Barry M Lester, Michael W. Yogman, 2013-06-29 Volume I of Theory and Research in Behavioral Pediatrics focused on issues of early human development with special emphasis given to assessment of the preterm infant and to factors influencing the organization of the caregiver infant relationship Chapters in Volume 2 cover a broader range of topics and encompass a wider age span Chapter I provides a historical review of the relationship between developmental psychology and pediatrics The authors Barbara R Tinsley and Ross D Parke discuss differences between behavioral pediatrics and pediatric psychology and note that interdisciplinary collaboration in research and application has increased steadily in recent years However if similar collaborative efforts are to occur in education and training of pediatricians and developmental psychologists it will be necessary to determine just what each discipline hopes to gain from such collaborative efforts Tinsley and Parke report the results of a national survey designed to determine the areas of developmental psychology that pediatricians perceive to be of potential benefit to them in their delivery of pediatric care Results of the survey suggest that there are many ways in which developmental psychology could be incorporated into the pediatric curriculum In many respects Chapter 2 sets the stage for the remaining chapters Nancy A Carlson and Thomas Z Adoption and Foster Care, 1975 United States. Congress. Senate. Committee on Labor and Public Welfare. Subcommittee on Children and Youth, 1975 Disabled USA., 1987 Congressional Record United States. Congress, 1969 Mental Retardation in the Year 2000 Louis Rowitz, 2012-12-06 When you look at the advances in the field of mental retardation over the past 30 years it is hard to imagine that more change is inevitable Yet I think back to the time when early in his presidency President Kennedy called together the brightest scientists researchers doctors and educators to develop a comprehensive plan for the nation to effectively care for treat educate and house persons with mental retardation In the early 1960s the call for new research into the causes and the amelioration of mental retardation the development of community based programs and the development of family care for appropriate education vocational training and jobs were seen as revolutionary But in the 30 years since then we have seen time and time again that it is persons with mental retardation themselves who have led the way When the schools were opened to them they learned more than any one ever thought possible when vocational training was provided they learned skills that led to jobs when employment became available they proved to be good steady workers who earned money and paid taxes When the playing fields were made available to them through programs such as Special Olympics they showed the world they could train and compete and WIN in the sports of the Olympics When communities welcomed them they became our neighbors They have earned the right to play on any field to study in any school to hold a paying job and to be anyone s neighbor
