Family Environment and School Performance Taruna Choudhary Dhall,2004 The Relationship Between Family Environment and School Performance Among 5-6-7th Grade Students Suzanne McDonnell Giraudo,1989 The Relationship of Family Environment and School Performance Michelle Renee Hocking,2000 FAMILY ENVIRONMENT AND ACHIEVEMENT MOTIVATION OF SCHOOL GOING ADOLESCENTS: AN INTERVENTION REPORT Dr. S. D. Mishra,2015-08-25 Family Environment and Achievement Motivation of School Going Adolescents An Intervention Report By Dr S D Mishra A STUDY OF ACADEMIC ACHIEVEMENT IN RELATION TO PARENTAL BEHAVIOUR, SCHOOL ENVIRONMENT AND ADJUSTMENT OF SECONDARY SCHOOL TRIBAL STUDENTS IN ASSAM Dr. Anindita Das,2017-08-05

India is regarded as the most second largest tribal dominated country in the world The tribal people are intrinsic part of the national life which has been instrumental in contributing to the complex amalgam of national culture by their rich cultural heritage From thousands of years they survived in a natural environment with simple lifestyle and developed their cultural pattern which is congenial to their consequent physical and social environment Even the references of such tribal groups are found in the ancient literature of Ramayana and Mahabharata At present the tribal population of India falls into three main zones namely North Eastern Zone the Central Zone and the Southern Zone Effect Of Family Environment Educational Incentives On Emotional Maturity And Academic Performance A Study Of Adolescent Students Rashmi Rashmi,2022-08-10

Background of the Study Modern age is the age of competition in all walks of life either it is academic or vast arena of non academic fields Therefore success in every field is determined by performance The concept of performance refers to how well the given task is completed against the set standards Everywhere there is high competition in the working world which is increasingly growing day by day The importance of doing well in schools has caught the attention of everyone in all spheres of life including parents teachers legislators and government education departments etc Although simple education is necessarily very important but not the only road to success in the competitive world However quality of performance in academic achievement and thereafter continuous quality effort to achieve the goals and objectives are instrumental for performance at par with standards to meet the challenges Much effort has been made to identify track and encourage the progress of students in schools Parents have to care about their child s performance in school because they believe good academic results will provide better career choices success and job security Performance in school is evaluated in a number of ways For regular performance assessment student demonstration of their understanding and knowledge in written and oral tests performance in presentations completion of homework assignments participation in class activities and discussions are and finally achievement scores usually considered as performance criteria Teachers evaluate it in the form of grades to describe how well a student has done Grading system came into existence in the late Victorian period and was initially criticized due to high subjectivity Different teachers valued different aspects of learning more than others although some standardization was attempted in order to make the system fairer the problem still continued The performance especially of students in studies is most likely determined by family environment emotional maturity and educational encouragement which all initially come from the family environment Here it is important to mention that the phenomenon of educational encouragement has not been studied especially in the Indian context which to the present investigator seems to be very important for students motivation and thereby attaining high performance With these above deliberations it is necessary to go further to undertake each and every variable for a comprehensive discussion that follows in the writings to proceed

Chapter 1 Introd Influence of Family and School Environment on Academic Performance Nelson

Mbarushimana,2015-12-07 Decrease in the academic performance in many secondary schools continues to be observed every year at the release of the results of Rwanda National Examinations This is definitely not a good trend especially for a country like Rwanda that has a vision of education to accomplish by the year 2015 Numbers of studies have found that family and school environment of schools are the key factors of success or failure of the school It is against this background that the need for this study was envisaged The general objective of this study was to investigate on the perception of students and head teachers on the influence of family and school environment on academic performance in private secondary schools in Kigali city Therefore school environment was found to affect academic performance of students than family environment In view of the results obtained from this study Families and their Learning Environments Kevin

Marjoribanks,2017-04-28 First published in 1979 this study is one of the first works of educational research to include detailed assessments of family environments in an analysis of performance of children at their schools Much of the research is based on data collected from families in Australia Canada and England and the findings have been integrated with results from other family environments research The study also explores social and psychological conceptual positions that will have relevance for further educational investigations This book will be of particular interest to those studying the relationship between family environments and education as well as the sociology of education Family Environment and

and Human Abilities Colin Cooper, 2015-05-08 Choice Recommended Read Psychological research into human intelligence and abilities presents us with a number of difficult questions Are human abilities explained by a single core intelligence or by multiple intelligences How should abilities be assessed With tests unlike the problems which people normally have to solve or with practical problems closer to those encountered in life school and work Do ability tests predict how a person will behave If so can they predict whether a person will succeed at school and at work Intelligence and Human Abilities critically evaluates research evidence from the past 100 years to consider these and other issues It shows that despite the apparent contradictions in this research the evidence in fact supports one coherent model a fact which has clear implications for researchers educators and test users This clear and engaging text provides an up to date evaluation of what the empirical evidence tells us about the number nature and origins of human abilities It will be essential reading for students and practitioners of psychology and education and also for users of ability tests such as applied psychologists and personnel managers
