The Oxford Handbook of Modern Irish Fiction presents authoritative essays by thirty five leading scholars of Irish fiction They provide in depth assessments of the breadth and achievement of novelists and short story writers whose collective contribution to the evolution and modification of these unique art forms has been far out of proportion to Ireland's small size The volume brings a variety of critical perspectives to bear on the development of modern Irish fiction situating authors texts and genres in their social intellectual and literary historical contexts The Handbook's coverage encompasses an expansive range of topics including the recalcitrant atavisms of Irish Gothic fiction nineteenth century Irish women's fiction and its influence on emergent modernism and cultural nationalism the diverse modes of irony fabulism and social realism that characterize the fiction of the Irish Literary Revival the fearless aesthetic radicalism of James Joyce the jolting narratological experiments of Samuel Beckett Flann O'Brien and Mairéad Ní Cadhain the fate of the realist and modernist traditions in the work of Elizabeth Bowen Frank O'Connor Seán O'Faoláin and Mary Lavin and in that of their ambivalent heirs Edna O'Brien John McGahern and John Banville the subversive treatment of sexuality and gender in Northern Irish women's fiction written during and after the Troubles the often neglected genres of Irish crime fiction science fiction and fiction for children the many hued novelistic responses to the experiences of famine revolution and emigration and the variety and vibrancy of post millennial fiction from both parts of Ireland Readably written and employing a wealth of original research The Oxford Handbook of Modern Irish Fiction illuminates a distinguished literary tradition that has altered the shape of world literature

The Feminization of Famine Margaret Kelleher, 1997 Contemporary media depictions of famine disaster display a striking prevalence female images The Feminization of Famine is a unique study of the tradition of female representations in famine literature from nineteenth century accounts of the Irish famine to the present day It examines the many novels and short stories written about the Irish famine over the last 150 years from the novels of William Carleton Anthony Trollope and Maria Edgeworth through to the writings of Liam O'Flaherty and John Banville These literary works are read in the context of a rich variety of other sources including contemporary eyewitness accounts of the Great Irish Famine women's memoirs and journalistic writings and famine historiography The recurring motifs used to depict famine are highlighted the prevalence of images of mother and child the scrutiny of women's starved bodies efforts to express the inexpressible The author investigates the effect of famine representations and their crucial role in shaping viewers and readers interpretations of the famine The Feminization of Famine provides a significant critique of how famine has been represented and suggests important parallels with the current presentation of emergency and disaster Periodical Famines Lindsay Janssen, 2025-02-04 Long recognized as Ireland's greatest demographic disaster in recent history the Great Famine of 1845-1851 has shaped Irish identities around the world From the monuments erected to commemorate its victims to the political rhetoric involving it to the novels poems songs and films that it continues to inspire the Famine remains a crucial part of Irish memory Famine memories have also reached across history and national borders to establish links with cultural groups who were not directly connected to the Irish diaspora Periodical Famines reveals how within the transatlantic Irish periodical market between 1845 and 1910 Irish Irish American and Irish Canadian newspapers and magazines acted as carriers and shapers of cultural identities Lindsay Janssen argues that famine memory was deployed transhistorically to help represent other crucial events in the Irish past and periodicals used Famine recollections transnationally to give new meaning to events outside of Ireland such as labor issues in the United States and the Second Boer War Moving beyond individual writings to interrogate how different texts printed within a periodical issue influenced each other and affected audiences attitudes to Irish hunger and distress Janssen's contextual approach reveals the intricate and sometimes divergent paths that Famine memory traveled through in the decades during and after its onset Drawing upon a substantial corpus of creative and nonfiction periodical publications including nearly 600 works of poetry and prose fiction Periodical Famines is a thorough analysis of transatlantic Irish periodical culture during and after the Great Famine demonstrating how periodicals transmission of famine memories shaped global cultures Black Potatoes Susan Campbell Bartoletti, 2014-07-29 Sibert Award Winner This true story of five years of starvation in Ireland is a fascinating account of a terrible time Kirkus Reviews In 1845 a disaster struck Ireland Overnight a mysterious blight attacked the potato crops turning the potatoes black and destroying the only real food of nearly six million people Over the next five years the blight attacked again and again These years are known today as the Great Irish Famine a time when one million people died from starvation and disease and two million more fled their homeland Black Potatoes is the compelling story of men women and children who defied landlords and searched empty fields for scraps of harvested vegetables and edible weeds to eat who walked several miles each day to hard labor jobs for meager wages and to reach soup kitchens and who committed crimes just to be sent to jail where they were assured of a meal It's the story of children and adults who suffered from starvation disease and the loss of family and friends as well as those who died Illustrated with black and white engravings it's also the story of the heroes among the Irish people and how they held on to hope Bartoletti humanizes the big events by bringing the reader up close to the lives of ordinary people Booklist starred review Mary-Anne's Famine Colette McCormack, 1994 A story of a young girl during the time of the potato famine in Ireland Extracts from a recently found diary form the basis of the story Representing the Troubles in Irish Short Fiction Michael L.
