Economics Of The Developing Countries:

The Economics of the Developing Countries Hla Myint (U.), 1980 Development economics development theory economic theory study of different types of developing countries at different stages of economic development covers economic policy population growth poverty dual economy economic structure agricultural market expansion wage policy for mines and plantation workers migrant workers input output banking investments trade monetary policy disguised unemployment and underemployment References Economics for a Developing World Michael P. Todaro, 1977 An introductory text oriented towards the teaching of economics within the context of the major problems of development and underdevelopment in Third World nations The Economics of the Developing Countries H. Myint, 1982 The Economics of the Developing Countries Hla Myint, 1974 Economics of Change in Less Developed Countries David Colman, F. I. Nixson, 1986-01-01 The comprehensive range of topics includes the concept and measurement of development economic theory and development economic quality and development human resource development international trade foreign exchange flows and indebtedness agricultural transformation and development industrial development the transnational corporation the transformation of technology inflation stabilization and the IMF A classic book modernized for contemporary study The New Global Economy and the Developing Countries Gerald K. Helleiner, 1990 The text explores the principle issues surrounding the effective participating of the developing countries in the new more interdependent global economy It is up to date and offers a fresh and critical assessment of traditional approaches in the sphere of international financial and trading policies Particular emphasis is placed upon what is not known and requires further research Among the major issues addressed are the impact of the global exchange rate system on developing countries the efficacy of growth oriented structural adjustment lending the future role of foreign direct investment the relevance of the new trade theories to the developing countries primary commodity market problems poverty alleviation in adjustment programmes and the role of information systems Economic Progress and Policy in Developing Countries Angus Maddison, 2013-10-16 First published in 2005 The central issue of our times is the unequal income of nations Its importance outweighs most of the domestic problems in rich countries and the division of the world into rich and poor has become more significant than the ideological cleavage between communism and capitalism There are twenty five rich countries but more than 100 countries who are in the where income range Two thirds of the world's population live in the latter group This study focuses on those countries and looks at economic policy and progress The Developing Countries and the World Economic Order Lars Anell, Birgitta Nygren, 2013-11-07 The Developing Countries and the World Economic Order provides a lucid introduction to the debate about the developing countries and the quest for a New International Economic Order The primary objective is to indicate some of the fundamental requirements that must be satisfied by an equitable world order Since the present economic situation and demands of developing countries cannot be understood thoroughly without prior knowledge of how the present world order has evolved Part I begins with a detailed historical survey An account of economic development up to the Second World War and of the colonial heritage of the developing countries is followed by a description of the way in which the postwar world order came into being Part II analyses more recent developments including the central demands of developing countries and the background to these demands and outlines a new perspective on the NIEO programme with suggestions are offered on how the developing countries could secure for themselves a larger share of the world's resources A major theme of the book is that important changes in the world order take place irrespective of the recommendations adopted at international conferences
