Medicine astronomy dealing with numbers even the cultures of the pre modern world offer a rich spectrum of scientific texts But how are they best translated Is it sufficient to translate the sources into modern scientific language and thereby above all to identify their deficits Or would it be better to adopt the perspective of the sources themselves strange as they are only for them not to be properly understood by modern readers Renowned representatives of various disciplines and traditions present a controversial and constructive discussion of these problems Indo-European and the Indo-Europeans Thomas V.

Gamkrelidze, Vjaceslav V. Ivanov, 2010-12-15 Gamkrelidze and Ivanov's wide ranging and interdisciplinary work superbly translated from Russian is a must for every student of Indo European prehistory Its erudition is unsurpassed and its unorthodox conclusions are a continuing challenge Prof Dr Martin Haspelmath Max Planck Institut für Evolutionäre Anthropologie The authors propose a revision of views on a number of central issues of Indo European studies Based on findings of typology they suggest a new analysis of the phonological system of Proto Indo European the Glottalic Theory they offer novel assumptions about the relative chronology of changes in PIE vowels and laryngeals Their conclusions are compared with data from Proto Kartvelian In the second part of the book semantically organized presentation of material from the lexicon is combined with analyses of the use of forms and formulae in a broadly defined cultural context Again similarities with properties of primarily Kartvelian and Semitic are described and extended close contacts with these language families are postulated This necessarily leads to a proposal to place the hypothetical Urheimat of the Indo Europeans in the region south of the Caucasus Volume I and II of the original Russian edition have been combined in the English version as Part I the Bibliography and Indexes are published as Part II
