Furstenberg, Jr.,2013-03-07 In the past decade or so scholars in the United States have identified the emergence of a new distinct stage of life as adolescence has become protracted and most young people of recent generations take longer to achieve economic and psychological autonomy than they did a half century ago This new life stage in between adolescence and adulthood when young people are in a semiautonomous state has come to be known as early adulthood Main characteristics of this new life stage include a later entry into the work force a longer period of time living in the natal home and a delayed age at marriage and childbearing These trends not only have profound implications for young adults well being and intergenerational relationships but also challenge social institutions such as family schools labor markets and many youth serving institutions Handbook of Family Resilience Dorothy S. Becvar,2012-08-24 Resilience is a topic that is currently receiving increased attention In general resilience refers to the capacity of those who even under the most stressful circumstances are able to cope to rebound and to go on and thrive Resilient families are able to regain their balance following crises that arise as a function of either nature or nurture and to continue to encourage and support their members as they deal with the necessary requirements for accommodation adaptation and ultimately healthy survival Handbook of Family Resilience provides a broad body of knowledge regarding the traits and patterns found to characterize resilient individuals and well functioning families including those with diverse structures various ethnic backgrounds and a variety of non traditional forms This Handbook brings together a variety of perspectives aimed at understanding and helping to facilitate resilience in families relative to a full range of challenges

The Family and Social Change in Chinese Societies Dudley L. Poston, Jr., Wen Shan Yang, Demetrea Nicole Farris, 2013-11-26 This book focuses on families and their changes in Taiwan and China Traditional notions of what constitutes a family have been changing in China Taiwan and other Asian countries The chapters in this book provide interesting methodological and substantive contributions to the discourse on family and social change in Chinese societies They also underscore the implications of the various social changes in Chinese families Written by Chinese and Western scholars they provide an unprecedented overview of what is known about the effects of social change on Chinese families One might think that defining a family is an easy task because the family is so significant to society and is universal The family is the first place we learn culture norms values and gender roles Families exist in all societies throughout the world but their constitution differs In the past several decades there have been many changes in the family in Taiwan and China For instance whereas in the West we use a bilineal system of descent in which descent is traced through both the mother's side and the father's side of the family in many parts of China descent is patrilineal although this is changing and China and Taiwan are starting to assume a family constitution similar to that in the West This and other issues are discussed in great detail in this book. Indeed it is the very nature of the differences that motivated the writing of this book on changing families in Taiwan and China. The chapters in Part I, The Family in Taiwan and China, focus on the basic family issues in Taiwan and China that provide the groundwork for many of the chapters that follow. Chapter 1 is about the distribution of resources in the family in Taiwan. Chapter 2 focuses on filial piety and the autonomous development of adolescents in the Taiwanese family, and Chapter 3 explores the important issue of family poverty in Taiwan. Chapter 4 moves away from Taiwan and looks at several issues of family growth and change in Hong Kong, noting the interesting similarities and differences between Hong Kong and China. Part II, Issues of Marriage, the Family, and Fertility in Taiwan and China, focuses specifically on marriage, family, and fertility. In Chapter 5 the authors discuss the relationships between marital status, socioeconomic status, and the subjective well-being among women in Hong Kong and Taiwan. Chapter 6 describes patterns of sexual activity in China and the United States. Chapter 7 considers gender imbalances in Taiwan and their impact on the marriage market. Chapter 8 also focuses on Taiwan and examines the effects of mothers' attitudes on daughters' interaction with their mothers in law. Chapter 9 compares female and male fertility trends and changes in Taiwan. Part III, Children and the Family in East Asia and in Western Countries, consists of comparative studies of the family and children. Chapter 10 examines the dynamics of grandparents caring for children in China. Chapter 11 explores family values and parent-child interaction in Taiwan. Chapter 12 examines the significant amount of diversity among families in contemporary Taiwan. Chapter 13 describes adolescent development in Taiwan. Chapter 14 examines the impact of son preference on fertility in China, South Korea, and the United States. And Chapter 15 explores the determinants of intergenerational support in Taiwan. The final chapter in our book, the only chapter in Part IV, The Family and the Future in Taiwan, examines the future of the family in Taiwan with respect especially to the marriage market and aged dependency.

Family Demography in Asia Stuart Gietel-Basten, John Casterline, Minja Kim Choe, 2018-11-30. The demographic future of Asia is a global issue. As the biggest driver of population growth, an understanding of patterns and trends in fertility throughout Asia is critical to understand our shared demographic future. This is the first book to comprehensively and systematically analyse fertility across the continent through the perspective of individuals themselves rather than as a consequence of top-down government policies.

Healing Rhythms: The World of South Korea's East Coast Hereditary Shamans Simon Mills, 2017-03-02. Still today in South Korea many people pay for the services of mudang, the intermediaries of Korea's syncretic folk religion. The majority of mudang are called to the profession by gods; their clients are individuals or small groups and they focus on the use of spirit power possession for diagnosis and problem solving. There is, however, a tiny minority of mudang who are born or adopted into the ritual life and who have no spirit power. These ritualists perform in large family groups, conducting rituals for whole communities. They focus far more on the use of music, dance, and song to provide healing experiences. In this book Simon Mills provides an in-depth analysis of the East Coast hereditary mudang institution and its rhythm-oriented music, focusing particularly on the

Kim family of mudang the government appointed cultural assets for the genre It is the first English language book to study this tradition in any depth using materials from fieldwork 1999 2000 alongside interviews with two key family members Kim Junghee and Jo Jonghun Throughout Mills includes numerous quotes from the ritualists themselves to help reveal their characters opinions and beliefs He documents the family s history the decline of the hereditary mudang institution and its kinship customs and the family s changing relations towards outsiders Mills also details ritual procedures musical structures playing techniques instruments and learning methods both of the past and present as non ritual musicians become increasingly aware of the powerful ritual rhythms the music is finding new life in non ritual settings Downloadable audio resources featuring Kim Jo and Mills accompanies the book each track corresponding to the equivalent chapter in the text

North Korean Defectors in Diaspora HaeRan Shin,2022-03-14 This edited collection investigates the mobilities resettlement practices and identities of North Korean defectors who have relocated to the United Kingdom the United States Japan and South Korea The contributors to this volume examine the complex nature of defection from North Korea highlighting the ways in which defectors renegotiate their identities in order to adapt and settle in new societies as well as the implications these differing narratives have on future policy decisions Gender, Family and Policy Sirin

Sung,2025-02-12 In this prescient book Sirin Sung brings together an array of expert contributors to address questions about gender equality and its relation to family the workplace and society as a whole Chapters examine the issues surrounding work family balance across the globe considering dual earning families the division of domestic labour and the impact of family policies on the labour market Perception of Family and Work in Low-Fertility East Asia Junji Kageyama,Eriko

Teramura,2023-08-29 This book is the first of its kind to incorporate subjective well being SWB data to comprehensively explore perceptual factors that relate to fertility behavior in East Asia The advantage of SWB data lies in the accessibility to rich information regarding perceptions attitudes and behaviors With this advantage the book inquires into the perceptions toward family and work and explores the attitudes that lead to low fertility in the region To this end first a comparative analysis with international cross sectional data is performed and the East Asian characteristics of family and work perceptions are documented Then three democracies in the region are focused on Japan South Korea and Taiwan to investigate the relationships between cultural orientations work life balance and fertility outcomes with panel data In addition East Asian results are compared with those in India which has also been experiencing a rapid transition from a traditional society to an industrial one The results support the idea that the friction between persistent gender based role divisions and socioeconomic transformation in East Asia makes it difficult for women to balance family and work prompting fertility decline to the lowest low level in the region The Oxford Handbook of Business Groups Asli M. Colpan,Takashi

Hikino,James R. Lincoln,2010-08-05 Business groups large diversified often family controlled organizations with pyramidal ownership structure such as the Japanese zaibatsu the Korean chaebol and the grupos economicos in Latin America have played a significant role in national economic growth especially in emerging economies Earlier variants can also be found in the trading companies often set up in Britain which operated in Asia Africa and Latin America Business groups are often criticized as premodern forms of economic organization and occasionally as symptomatic of corrupt crony capitalism but many have shown remarkable resilience navigating and adjusting to economic and political turbulence international competition and technological change This Handbook provides a comprehensive analysis of business groups around the world It examines the adaptive and competitive capabilities of business groups and their evolutionary dynamics 16 individual country chapters deal with business groups from Asia to Africa the Middle East to Latin America while overarching chapters consider the historical and theoretical context of business groups With contributions from leading experts The Oxford Handbook of business groups provides a comprehensive empirically and theoretically rich guide for scholars and policy makers

Marriage Migration, Family and Citizenship in Asia Tuen Yi Chiu, Brenda S.A. Yeoh, 2023-06-06 Amidst the increasing global trend of cross border marriage migration this book offers timely theoretical and empirical insights into contemporary debates about migration and citizenship Extant scholarship on marriage migration and citizenship have concentrated on East West inter cultural marriages and tended to approach citizenship as an individual centred concept linked to the nation state thus fading the family into the background Focusing on cross border marriages within Asia a region where collectivist and familistic values are still prevalent this book points to the importance of going beyond the state individual nexus to conceptualise and foreground the family as a strategic site where citizenship is mediated negotiated and experienced Through six critical and in depth case studies on cross border marriages between East Southeast and South Asia this book reveals how nation states mobilize patriarchal notions of the family for its citizenship project how formal frameworks of citizenship structure the trajectory and circumstances of cross border families how the repercussions of marriage migrants citizenship are experienced and negotiated across generations and how the tensions between the individual the family and the state are produced along gender class race ethnic religious cultural geographical and generational boundaries Collectively this book calls for a rethinking of citizenship from an individual centred proposition to a family level concept Its wealth of case studies and examples make it an essential resource for students academics and researchers of Sociology Geography Anthropology Politics International Development Studies and Asian Studies The chapters in this book were originally published as a special issue of Citizenship Studies
