Family Violence Vol 1 Prevention And Treatment:

Handbook of Family Violence Alan S. Bellack, Michel Hersen, R.L. Morrison, Vincent B. Van Hasselt, 2013-06-29 In the last decade there has been heightened clinical and investigative activity in the area of family violence This of course is partly attributable to recent surveys showing a high incidence of family violence in the United States For example there are indications that nearly 30% of married women in this country are victims of physical abuse by spouses at some point in their marriage Further FBI statistics show that approximately 13% of all homicides are husband wife killings Moreover it has been projected that such figures are likely to increase over the next several years Consistent with these trends funding of family violence research by both federal and private agencies has increased Indeed federal agencies such as the National Institute of Mental Health and the National Institute of Law Enforcement and Criminal Justice have provided considerable support for work in this area In addition family violence particularly wife battering child abuse and sexual abuse of children has been the focus of media attention at the national level and has generated intensive interest in both lay and professional publications Moreover there have been several recent governmental hearings and investigations regarding the prevalence of these problems

Family Violence in Primary Care Stephen Amiel, Iona Heath, 2003-02-06 Violence within the family whether directed against children partners or elders profoundly disturbs our notions of what the relationship between the family and the discipline of general practice should be GPs are doctors to whole families and yet their relationships with patients are individual ones drawing their strength from the principles of confidentiality mutual trust and positive regard Violence and abuse within families necessarily challenges all of these creating a profusion of ethical interpersonal and practical difficulties and dilemmas At the same time the nature of general practice confers unique opportunities to deal effectively with family violence GPs and GP registrars will find this book an invaluable and empowering resource It brings together a broad range of expertise and opinion from relevant specialities and disciplines and sets family violence in its historical epidemiological and societal context It describes in separate sections child abuse domestic violence and elder abuse its presentations diagnosis and treatment and suggests ways forward for its prevention and early detection It draws throughout on the experience of GPs health visitors and social workers providing practical safe and workable guidelines Family violence can present to any member of the primary care team and there is much here that will be of relevance and interest to them all

Substance Abuse Treatment and Domestic Violence

Patricia Anne Fazzone, 1997 clients Child abuse and neglect elder abuse women's abuse of men and domestic violence within same sex relationships are important issues that are not addressed in depth in this document largely because each requires separate comprehensive review Other patterns of domestic violence outside the scope of this TIP are abused women who in turn abuse their children or react violently to their partners continued attacks and adult or teenage children who abuse their parents Researchers have found that one fourth to one half of men who commit acts of domestic violence also have substance abuse problems Gondolf 1995 Leonard and Jacob 1987 Kantor and Straus 1987 Coleman and Straus 1983 Hamilton and Collins 1981 Pernanen 1976 and that a sizable percentage of convicted batterers were raised by parents who abused drugs or alcohol Bureau of Justice Statistics 1994 Studies also show that women who abuse alcohol and other drugs are more likely to be victims of domestic violence Miller et al 1989 The primary purpose of this document is to provide the substance abuse treatment field with an overview of domestic violence so that providers can understand the particular needs and behaviors of batterers and survivors as defined above and tailor treatment plans accordingly This requires an understanding not only of clients issues but also of when it is necessary to seek help from domestic violence experts The TIP also may prove useful to domestic violence support workers whose clients suffer from substance related problems As the TIP makes clear each field can benefit enormously from the expertise of the other and cooperation and sharing of knowledge will pave the way for the more coordinated system of care discussed in Chapter 6 Future publications will examine those aspects of the problem that concern such special populations as adolescent

Case Studies in Family Violence Robert T. Ammerman, Michel

Hersen, 2000-08-31 Since the publication of the first edition in 1991 there has been substantial progress in our understanding of the etiology and associated features of domestic violence As in the first edition this book elucidates and highlights the complex multidisciplinary issues facing clinicians who work with family violence cases Each chapter combines two illustrative cases with a broader discussion of the issues that are encountered by clinicians working with families that engage in abuse or neglect

A Practical Guide to Forensic Nursing Angela Amar, L. Kathleen Sekula, 2015-10-28 Victims of violence are unfortunately ever present in healthcare today Regardless of the setting nurses are often the first to interact with victims and regularly must step into uncomfortable or difficult situations To ensure patient and provider safety and enable the best possible outcomes every nurse should be well versed in forensic and theoretical issues of violence A Practical Guide to Forensic Nursing is an evidence based guide to understanding and applying forensic nursing science Authors Angela F Amar and L Kathleen Sekula introduce practical and theoretical perspectives on violence and provide valuable resources including injury assessment and violence prevention strategies as well as an overview of relevant legal ethical societal and policy issues Whether you are a student new nurse or experienced clinician you will find the right tools and strategies to broaden your understanding of violence and help you integrate forensic science into your patient care Confronting Chronic Neglect Institute of Medicine, Board on Children, Youth, and Families, Committee on the Training Needs of Health Professionals to Respond to Family Violence, 2002-04-04 As many as 20 to 25 percent of American adults or one in every four people have been victimized by witnesses of or perpetrators of family violence in their lifetimes Family violence affects more people than cancer yet it is an issue that receives far less attention Surprisingly many assume that health professionals are deliberately turning a blind eye to this traumatic social problem The fact is very little is being done to educate health professionals about family violence Health professionals are often the first to encounter victims of abuse and neglect and therefore they play a critical role in ensuring that victims as well as perpetrators get the help they need Yet despite their critical role studies continue to describe a lack of education for health professionals about how to identify and treat family violence And those that have been trained often say that despite their education they feel ill equipped or lack support from by their employers to deal with a family violence victim sometimes resulting in a failure to screen for abuse during a clinical encounter Equally problematic the few curricula in existence often lack systematic and rigorous evaluation This makes it difficult to say whether or not the existing curricula even works Confronting Chronic Neglect offers recommendations such as creating education and research centers that would help raise awareness of the problem on all levels In addition it recommends ways to involve health care professionals in taking some responsibility for responding to this difficult and devastating issue Perhaps even more importantly Confronting Chronic Neglect encourages society as a whole to share responsibility Health professionals alone cannot solve this complex problem Responding to victims of family violence and ultimately preventing its occurrence is a societal responsibility Lowinson and Ruiz's Substance Abuse Pedro Ruiz, Eric C. Strain, 2011 A comprehensive authoritative text on all aspects of substance abuse and addiction medicine Scientific topics such as the biology of various addictions and all dimensions of clinical treatment and management are addressed by a wide range of leading contributors Behavioral addictions are addressed also so the text is not solely devoted to specific substances and their misuse Provided by publisher The Victimization of Children Janet Mullings, James Marquart, Deborah Hartley, 2012-11-12 Explore current social developments issues and controversies concerning young victims The Victimization of Children Emerging Issues keeps students and practitioners working with young victims on the cutting edge of the latest research developments regarding crimes against children Leading experts from the legal medical and sociological communities explore some of the most urgent issues involving child victims Researchers and practitioners in victim services social work mental health public health and criminal justice will all benefit from this useful resource While numerous books have been written on the topic of child abuse and neglect few delve into the more contemporary issues and problems The Victimization of Children fills a large void in the literature by offering advanced discussions of today's most relevant topics making this book an in depth supplement to generic textbooks Forward thinking and thought provoking this
