

THE FAMILY'S CONSTRUCTION OF REALITY

DAVID REISS

Family's Construction Of Reality The

Robert D. Hess, Gerald Handel

Familys Construction Of Reality The:

The Family's Construction of Reality David Reiss,1981 David Reiss presents a new model of family interaction grounded in the subtle and complex way in which a family constructs its inner life and deals with the outside world Based upon fifteen years of research the book offers a new understanding of the covert processes that hold a family together and with distressing frequency pull it apart

Family Worlds Robert D. Hess,Gerald Handel,2016-07-31 How does a family function How does a family make a distinctive life of its own while living according to the values of society In what ways is a family a unit when all its members have personalities of their own How can we understand diversity among families Robert D Hess and Gerald Handel sensitively explore the dynamics of family life in five narrative case studies The Clarks Lansons Littletons Newbolds and Steeles are all typical families with representative social cultural and psychological problems By simultaneously studying each family as a small group and as a set of individual personalities the authors have captured the interplay between personality and family as each group works out its own special way of coping with its problems Further they have formulated several principles of family functioning that help focus comparison Family Worlds was the first and is still one of the few studies to interview each member of the family giving equal weight to children as well as to adults so each family member s perspective is factored into Hess and Handel s family portraits A new introduction to the Transaction edition illuminates just how significant this ground breaking study still is today and highlights the new implications it has for today s families as well as emerging approaches

Sex, Family, and the Culture Wars Mark J. Cherry,2017-07-05 Extraordinary social and moral shifts have taken place in Western societies Sex is no longer the exclusive province of husband and wife set within monogamous married family life The world is awash in sex advertising books magazines movies sex clubs internet pornography etc Parents traditionally responsible for guiding their children s moral and social development have been effectively side lined by commercial and governmental interests This volume pursues a detailed study of how changes in social life dating from the sexual revolution of the 1960s have affected the family Cherry shows that attempts to redefine the family away from the marital union of husband and wife come with real costs social emotional psychological and financial He argues that while political campaigns have fuelled attempts to undermine the traditional family to pretend it possesses no basic biological social or moral reality such ideologically driven undertakings are injurious to society Acting as if there are no consequential differences between traditional marriage and other sexual lifestyles ignores significant data demonstrating the importance of the traditional biological family to the well being of men and women and the successful raising of children The family possesses a biological and moral being that is foundational an essential building block of society Cherry argues that the family is the most incontrovertible field of conflict in the culture wars others might conclude that it is the decisive battleground

Sourcebook of Family Theories and Methods Pauline Boss,William J. Doherty,Ralph LaRossa,Walter R. Schumm,Suzanne K. Steinmetz,2008-11-19 Origins We call this book on theoretical orientations and methodological strategies in family studies a sourcebook because it details the social and personal roots i.e. sources from which these orientations and strategies flow. Thus an appropriate way to preface this book is to talk first of its roots its beginnings. In the mid 1980s there emerged in some quarters the sense that it was time for family studies to take stock of itself. A goal was thus set to write a book that like Janus would face both backward and forward a book that would give readers both a perspective on the past and a map for the future. There were precedents for such a project. The Handbook of Marriage and the Family edited by Harold Christensen and published in 1964 the two Contemporary Theories about the Family volumes edited by Wesley Burr, Reuben Hill, F. Ivan Nye and Ira Reiss published in 1979 and the Handbook of Marriage and the Family edited by Marvin Sussman and Suzanne Steinmetz then in production.

Shared Obliviousness in Family Systems Paul C.

Rosenblatt, 2009-07-02 Introduces the concept of obliviousness to the consideration of family systems what do families choose to ignore and why and how they do so.

The Psychosocial Interior of the Family Gerald Handel, Gail G.

Whitchurch, 1994 This long awaited fourth edition has the same goal as the preceding editions to understand families in terms of the kinds of interaction through which family life is constructed. The changes in the family as an institution have influenced these processes just as they have influenced the ways we understand and write about them. But even in these postmodern circumstances an underlying premise of the volume is that two partners establish a family because they have selected each other as distinctively meaningful to one another. They will affirm, modify, elaborate or retreat from various aspects of the relationship through interaction over time and in changing circumstances. This volume contains the best available interdisciplinary work on the social psychology of the family. More than half of the selections are new to this edition which incorporates a variety of theoretical and research perspectives that provide the reader with a range of authoritative and up to date sources on the family and interpersonal relations. The newer forms of family organization that have emerged in the more recent literature specifically single parent families, stepfamilies and families of gay and lesbian domestic partners are included. Authors have been drawn from a variety of disciplines including sociology, communication, family studies, human development, psychology, anthropology and social work.

Evaluating Family Programs Heather Bastow Weiss, Francine Helene Jacobs, 2008-05-01 The diverse composition of American families and changing ways of raising our children have become subjects of intense scrutiny by researchers and policymakers in recent years Shifting demographics and work patterns growing numbers of women in the work force teenage pregnancy single parent families and the deinstitutionalization of the elderly disabled and mentally ill all these trends have significantly affected family life Evaluating Family Programs effectively bridges the gap between researchers and practitioners in order to bring practical understandable advice to providers of family programs and to program funders and policymakers Heather B Weiss and Francine H Jacobs have collected in this volume works which move outside the traditional approaches of their disciplines to create new models for delivering and evaluating services This sets a mood of genuine inquiry and excitement about successful aspects of programs while maintaining openness about the limitations of both research and practice By expanding the research model this work is an attempt to understand reciprocal influences of extended family culture community and social institutions It urges those who advocate program accountability to understand that not all types of evaluations are appropriate for all programs and it notes that limitations in current evaluation technologies make it difficult to evaluate outcomes Evaluating Family Programs reminds the reader that in order to develop sound family policy we must look at children and families in context Because policymakers program administrators and informed citizens have come to rely more upon the results of evaluation research we must improve our methods while not losing sight of its limitations It is a thought provoking contribution to the efforts of those who seek to support the American family with compassion understanding and realism Heather B Weiss is the founder and director of Harvard Family Research Project and a senior research associate at the Harvard Graduate School of Education She is an advisor to numerous foundations on strategic grant making and serves on the advisory board of numerous organizations Francine H Jacobs is associate professor in the department of child development and associate professor of urban and environmental policy and planning at Tufts University She is the author of Evaluating Family Preservation Services A Guide for State Administrators with J Kapuscik
