From the Eye of Africa to the Floating Island of Atlantis in the Sargasso Sea Vito de la Vera,2024-12-27 One s search can sometimes go from one extreme to another I and my fellows start off on our voyage researching a lost culture that had evolved at the Eye of Africa in Mauritania When the Sahara had dried at the end of the Holocene Maximum the peoples of the western part of the Saharan savanna had congregated here and by a nearby river to escape the desert Much like what happened in Egypt in the Eastern Sahara These people gathered here evolved their own culture and started to sail out into the Atlantic finding the North Atlantic gyre becoming adept seafarers What we found was that more drying and other disasters struck this culture causing them to increasingly take to the sea and evolving floating islands in their dwindling rivers delta In the end these islands took completely to the sea along with the entire culture becoming seaborne What became clear to us from following the trail of this culture to Bermuda the Azores and Madeira was that they had moved their floating islands to the calm waters of the Sargasso Sea building of floating culture here We find that this oceanic culture had had contact with the bronze age cultures of the Eastern Mediterranean and been part of the trade network that sustained the bronze age cultures This oceanic culture built on floating islands in the middle of the world ocean had been the basis of the myth of a great ocean kingdom that disappeared in a cataclysmic disaster Thus being the actual Atlantis described by Plato Finally we uncover that there is a clear connection between the fall of this culture of Atlantis and the sea peoples that arrived in the Eastern Mediterranean during the bronze age collapse

The Aesthetics of Island Space Johannes Riquet,2019-12-18 Oxford Textual Perspectives is a series of informative and provocative studies focused upon literary texts conceived of in the broadest sense of that term and the technologies cultures and communities that produce inform and receive them It provides fresh interpretations of fundamental works and of the vital and challenging issues emerging in English literary studies By engaging with the materiality of the literary text its production and reception history and frequently testing and exploring the boundaries of the notion of text itself the volumes in the series question familiar frameworks and provide innovative interpretations of both canonical and less well known works The Aesthetics of Island Space discusses islands as central figures in the modern experience of space It examines the spatial poetics of islands in literary texts from Shakespeare s The Tempest to Ghosh s The Hungry Tide in the journals of explorers and scientists such as James Cook and Charles Darwin and in Hollywood cinema It traces the ways in which literary and cinematic islands have functioned as malleable spatial figures that offer vivid perceptual experiences as well as a geopoetic oscillation between the material energies of words and images and the energies of the physical world The chapters focus on America's island gateways Roanoke and Ellis Island visions of tropical islands Tahiti and imagined South Sea islands the islands of the US Canadian border region in the Pacific Northwest and the imaginative appeal of mutable islands It argues that modern voyages of discovery posed considerable perceptual and cognitive challenges to the experience of space and that these challenges were negotiated in complex and contradictory ways via poetic engagement with islands Discussions of island narratives in postcolonial theory have broadened understanding of how islands have been imagined as geometrical abstractions bounded spaces easily subjected to the colonial gaze There is however a second story of islands in the Western imagination which runs parallel to this colonial story In this alternative account the modern experience of islands in the age of discovery went hand in hand with a disintegration of received models of understanding global space Drawing on and rethinking post phenomenological geocritical and geopoetic theories The Aesthetics of Island Space argues that the modern experience of islands as mobile and shifting territories implied a dispersal fragmentation and diversification of spatial experience and it explores how this disruption is registered and negotiated by both non fictional and fictional responses

Islands for Offshore Nuclear Power Stations Binnie & Partners,2012-12-06 The Working Group Offshore Nuclear Power Plants was established by the Commission of the European Communities in 1971 At that time it appeared that the option offered by creating new sites offshore should be explored The present development of nuclear power has not however reached the stage where offs hore siting can be considered as a near or medium term proposition The purpose of this report is to summarize the state of the art for the provision of floating or fixed structures or man made islands of the size needed for the construction of nuclear and other power stations It describes the main factors which must be taken into account in the design and location of such islands and provides an indication of feasibility and cost for each design at the present time It deals mainly with the civil engineering problems and not other major factors such as the law of the sea the rights of countries to locate nuclear establishments off their coast their safety security the energy connection with the mainland the marine ecology the logistics etc many of these problems are directly related to the site and have major economic and political implications By studying application examples the Working Group has occupied itself with these other factors

Emerging Environmental Technologies, Volume II Vishal Shah,2009-12-02 Within the span of last couple of years the increasing human interference with v ious natural ecosystems and higher discharge of pollutants has presented numerous challenges to the society related to preserving the nature for a better tomorrow The challenges also mount pressure on the scienti c community to invent technologies that would provide solutions to the problems that are man made and also decrease the negative consequences that we are facing because of our own actions This edited book attempts to present eight technological innovations that have shown potential to provide answers to a few challenges Like the previous collection the described innovations in the current volume also cover a range of areas including water and soil pollution bio sensors and energy However it is to be realized that no combination of technology can be enough to make a sizeable difference As I said in my last collection technological advances have to be integrated with a change in social behavior The philosophy of sustainable development has to be the principle of future planning and growth In this collection I am pleased to include an article on noise pollution Noise is a pollutant of our own behavior and can only be solved by a behavioral change The change that is either voluntary or enforced by laws As an environmental scientist noise is not normally a pollutant that would come in mind as a leading pollutant
