Florentine Spring:

Florentine Spring Charlotte Lamb, 1977      The Development of Florentine Humanist Historiography in the Fifteenth Century Donald J. Wilcox, 1969

Presenting a new interpretation of humanist historiography Donald J Wilcox traces the development of the art of historical writing among Florentine humanists in the fifteenth century He focuses on the three chancellor historians of that century who wrote histories of Florence Leonardo Bruni Poggio Bracciolini and Bartolommeo della Scala and proposes that these men especially Bruni had a new concept of historical reality and introduced a new style of writing to history But he declares their great contributions to the development of historiography have not been recognized because scholars have adhered to their own historical ideals in judging the humanists rather than assessing them in the context of their own century Mr Wilcox introduces his study with a brief description of the historians and historical writing in Renaissance Florence He then outlines the development of the scholarly treatment of humanist historiography and establishes the need for a more balanced interpretation He suggests that both Hans Baron s conception of civic humanism and Paul Oscar Kristeller s emphasis on the rhetorical character of humanism were important developments in the general intellectual history of the Renaissance and more specifically that they provided a new perspective on the entire question of humanist historiography The heart of the book is a close textual analysis of the works of each of the three historians The author approaches their texts in terms of their own concerns and questions examining three basic elements of their art The first is the nature of the reality the historian is recounting Mr Wilcox asks What interests the writer What is the substance of his narrative What does he choose from his sources and what does he ignore What does he interpolate into the account by drawing on his own understanding of the nature of history The second is the various attitudes moral judgments historical conceptions analytical views with which the historian approaches his narrative And the third is the aspect of humanist historiography to which previous scholars have paid the least attention the historian s narrative technique Mr Wilcox identifies the difficulties involved in expressing historical ideas in narrative form and describes the means the historians developed for overcoming those difficulties He emphasizes the positive value of rhetoric in their works and points out that they sought by eloquence to teach men virtue He devotes three chapters to Bruni whom he considers the most original and important of the three historians The next two chapters deal with Poggio and the last with Scala Throughout the book Mr Wilcox exposes the internal connections among the three histories thus illustrating the basic coherence of the humanist historical art

Florentine Festivals from the Middle Ages to the Modern Age and their Relationship with Art Anita Valentini, Maria Giulia Cantuti Castelvetro, 2023-07-07

This volume retraces the history art and culture of the city of Florence through three unique festivities the festival of New Year ab Incarnazione Domini and those celebrating the figures of Saint Anne and of Saint Reparata All these festivals with their sacred connotations have been characterised since ancient times by political civic or secular values As Florentine citizens curious about the world and in love with our city the authors would like to underline how these values have continued to be vigorously represented up to the present day in new forms and have also contributed to forming the distinctive character of the city of the lily In this book the reader will find both very famous and lesser known artists and works of art that will allow them to better understand the history of this Tuscan city Robert Browning and the Florentine Renaissance Mabel Major,1924 Herd Register American Guernsey Cattle Club,1929
