Francis Turner Palgrave Gwenllian F. Palgrave,2015-07-12 Excerpt from Francis Turner Palgrave His Journals and Memories of His Life This little sketch of my father s life has been attempted at the wish not only of many personal friends but also of some who have only known him through the Golden Treasury or his hymns It has been greatly aided by his own journals which are quoted at some length for in them he speaks for himself expressing many thoughts and opinions which could not otherwise have been so plainly given Moreover they especially help to fill the gap resulting from the comparative scarcity of his own letters This scarcity is partly due unhappily to the fact that very many of my father s contemporaries have died during the last ten years the letters in these cases having been usually destroyed The sole correspondence which had been preserved in any sense of completeness was between him and Mr Gladstone generally on purely literary subjects but the letters from Mr Gladstone have had to be inevitably omitted in deference to the wishes of his trustees About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books Find more at www.forgottenbooks.com This book is a reproduction of an important historical work Forgotten Books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy In rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition We do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works
