Fraser Canyon:

People of the Middle Fraser Canyon Anna Marie Prentiss, Ian Kuijt, 2012-05-15 The Middle Fraser Canyon contains some of the most important archaeological sites in British Columbia including the remains of ancient villages that supported hundreds if not thousands of people How and why did these villages come into being Why were they abandoned In search of answers to these questions Anna Marie Prentiss and Ian Kuijt take readers on a voyage of discovery into the ancient history of the St t imc or Upper Lillooet people Drawing on evidence from archaeological surveys and excavations and from the knowledge of St t imc people they find explanations in the evolution of food gathering and processing techniques climate change the development of social complexity and the arrival of Europeans This wide ranging vision of the ancient history of British Columbia is brought to vivid life through photographs artist renderings and fictionalized accounts of life in the villages a guide to the St t imc language and sidebars on archaeological methods theories and debates Fraser Valley Josef M. Hanus, 2004-01-01 Frontier Guide to the Fraser Canyon "Valley of Death.", 1968 Breaking News Fred Thirkell, Bob Scullion, George Alfred Barrowclough, 2004 Winner of a City of Vancouver Heritage Award 2005 Before the First World War photographs of major news events were rarely seen in the daily newspapers the technology was still too new to make their use viable Filling the gap and providing the missing images were the postcard photographers who could make their breaking news photos available on the street the day after an event occurred George Alfred Barrowclough was one of those photographers Barrowclough had the eye of an artist and the nose of a newsman His images of Vancouver and the surrounding areas stand out over those of other postcard photographers of his day in that they are more people centred and action oriented capturing the lives and appearances of the people living in and around Vancouver in the decade before the Great War Drawing from postcards that Barrowclough produced between 1908 and 1912 award winning authors Fred Thirkell and Bob Scullion have selected images for Breaking News that showcase the photographer s focus on people and events In Vancouver in those years you looked to newspapers for words you looked to Barrowclough for news This is Fred Thirkell and Bob Scullion s sixth book in the postcard genre Several of their earlier books have also won City of Vancouver Heritage awards The Resettlement of British Columbia Cole Harris, 2011-11-01 In this beautifully crafted collection of essays Cole Harris reflects on the strategies of colonialism in British Columbia during the first 150 years after the arrival of European settlers The pervasive displacement of indigenous people by the newcomers the mechanisms by which it was accomplished and the resulting effects on the landscape social life and history of Canada s western most province are examined through the dual lenses of post colonial theory and empirical data By providing a compelling look at the colonial construction of the province the book revises existing perceptions of the history and geography of British Columbia In their entirety this eloquent collection of nine essays constitute a provocative and unique investigation into the meaning of colonialism and geographical change in the province Backpacking in Southwestern British Columbia Taryn

Coates,1977-01-01 Policing the Fringe Charles Scheideman,2009-05-28 From the 1960s through the 1980s RCMP Sergeant Charlie Scheideman spent much of his time patrolling the dark corners of the Interior of British Columbia where the citizens would meet the modern criteria for redneck if their veranda collapsed it would kill more than four dogs they think harrass is two words and so on Such places weren t much fun to police but they were full of characters many of whom make their way into Charlie s entertaining book Policing the Fringe We meet Walter and Wilbur two Hixon hillbillies who went on a bender and decided it would be fun to stagger out onto the Cariboo Highway with a rifle and hold up passing cars which worked well enough until they held up a motorhome from Alaska that turned out to be better armed than they were We meet Petre the hard working hermit who was cheated out of his savings by three slick talking mining promoters and waited to take his revenge with an axe With wry humour and a policeman s eye for relevant detail Scheideman recounts events that range from the ridiculous to the horrific to the tragic Once he stopped a car in the Fraser Canyon driven by three normally responsible American fishermen who on this occasion were careening wildly from one guard rail to another Their defence They had failed to allow for the added kick of Canadian beer His most searing memory was of waiting for the embers of a burned house to cool enough so he could retrieve the bodies of two small victims while in a nearby house party goers kept right on partying One of the most revealing accounts ever written about policing in small town Canada this book bristles with unforgettable stories about the author s 27 years working on the RCMP s front lines It will give readers new respect for the men and women who patrol Canada s backroads both because of the extremely taxing work they do and the good spirit with which they do it Summary Report of the Geological Survey Branch of the Department of Mines for the Calendar
