A Century of Advancing Mathematics Paul Zorn, 2015-08-23 The MAA was founded in 1915 to serve as a home for The American Mathematical Monthly The mission of the Association to advance mathematics especially at the collegiate level has however always been larger than merely publishing world class mathematical exposition MAA members have explored more than just mathematics we have as this volume tries to make evident investigated mathematical connections to pedagogy history the arts technology literature every field of intellectual endeavor Essays all commissioned for this volume include exposition by Bob Devaney Robin Wilson and Frank Morgan history from Karen Parshall Della Dumbaugh and Bill Dunham pedagogical discussion from Paul Zorn Joe Gallian and Michael Starbird and cultural commentary from Bonnie Gold Jon Borwein and Steve Abbott This volume contains 35 essays by all star writers and expositors writing to celebrate an extraordinary century for mathematics more mathematics has been created and published since 1915 than in all of previous recorded history We've solved age-old mysteries created entire new fields of study and changed our conception of what mathematics is Many of those stories are told in this volume as the contributors paint a portrait of the broad cultural sweep of mathematics during the MAA's first century Mathematics is the most thrilling the most human area of intellectual inquiry you will find in this volume compelling proof of that claim Absolute Freedom:

An Interdisciplinary Study Paul Gordon, 2022-09-13 At a time when the term freedom is loosely and dangerously bandied about this work makes the important distinction between positive and negative freedom and examines the various zones of positive freedom art religion academia politics speech etc Is a College Education Still Worth the Price? A Dean's Sobering Perspective Richard B. Schwartz, 2012-01-18 From New Haven to Nineveh and Beyond Benjamin

Foster, 2023-09-01 Over the course of three centuries Yale has been actively and seriously engaged in Near Eastern learning in both senses of the term training students in the knowledge and skills needed to understand the languages and civilizations of the region and supporting generations of scholars renowned for their erudition and pathbreaking research This book traces the history of these endeavors through extensive use of unpublished archival materials including letters diaries and records of institutional decisions Developments at Yale are set against the wider background of changing American attitudes toward the Near East as well as evolving ideas about the role of the academy and its curriculum in educating undergraduate and graduate students In the case of the Near East this also involves considering how several of its disciplines made the transition from biblically motivated enterprises to secular fields of study Yale has notable firsts to her credit the first American professional program in Arabic and Sanskrit the first American learned society and periodical devoted to Oriental subjects the first American research institutes in Jerusalem and Baghdad the first American university to have endowed funds to establish and curate one of the world's largest collections of cuneiform tablets and cylinder seals Yet at the same time especially over the past half century Yale has found it challenging to deal administratively with a small humanities department whose standards and philosophy of teaching and learning seemed increasingly at odds with trends in the university as a whole This book places these tensions in the context of Yale's responses to post World War 2 interest in the modern Middle East the rise of government supported area studies and the consequences of American military actions in Iraq and Afghanistan Numerous illustrations many of them previously unpublished and drawn from a wide range of source material round out the portrait of three centuries of Near Eastern learning at Yale In Defense of a Liberal Education

Fareed Zakaria, 2015-03-30 CNN host and best selling author Fareed Zakaria argues for a renewed commitment to the world's most valuable educational tradition The liberal arts are under attack The governors of Florida Texas and North Carolina have all pledged that they will not spend taxpayer money subsidizing the liberal arts and they seem to have an unlikely ally in President Obama While at a General Electric plant in early 2014 Obama remarked I promise you folks can make a lot more potentially with skilled manufacturing or the trades than they might with an art history degree These messages are hitting home majors like English and history once very popular and highly respected are in steep decline I get it writes Fareed Zakaria recalling the atmosphere in India where he grew up which was even more obsessed with getting a skills based education However the CNN host and best selling author explains why this widely held view is mistaken and shortsighted Zakaria eloquently expounds on the virtues of a liberal arts education how to write clearly how to express yourself convincingly and how to think analytically He turns our leaders vocational argument on its head American routine manufacturing jobs continue to get automated or outsourced and specific vocational knowledge is often outdated within a few years Engineering is a great profession but key value added skills you will also need are creativity lateral thinking design communication storytelling and more than anything the ability to continually learn and enjoy learning precisely the gifts of a liberal education Zakaria argues that technology is transforming education opening up access to the best courses and classes in a vast variety of subjects for millions around the world We are at the dawn of the greatest expansion of the idea of a liberal education in human history
