Gender and Peacebuilding Maureen P. Flaherty, Thomas G. Matyók, Sean Byrne, Hamdesa Tusso, 2015-10-16 The twenty first century has brought with it a shift from the notion of human security being located in secure national borders to the need to secure the safety freedom and dignity of all Despite efforts to equalize women's status in the world evidenced by changes in many international projects requiring a gender focus women and men experience most of the world in very different ways according to gender Further the reality is that humans who do not all fall neatly into one of these categories male or female often find their lives further challenged In the 1980s Peace and Conflict Studies first began to acknowledge and study the different experiences males and females have during war and peace Since then there have been books about women and war women working at grassroots levels to build peace women and transitional justice women and peace education and women's views of human security All of these works have contributed to the discourse of our changing world This book brings together some of those themes and voices and adds more with the final product being more than the sum of its parts We add to the conversation a book that considers foundational fundamental issues that span from the interpersonal to the global Many of the chapters describe empirical research completed with author and community shared here for the first time Part One is a collection of case studies documenting challenges and responses to peacebuilding by women from various parts of the world Part Two focuses on Peace and Conflict Studies PACS as a discipline examining not only what is but also what should be taught This section critiques today's efforts at teaching Peace and Conflict Studies and provides suggestions of how this important work might be shared in more open and equitable ways Part Three enters territory found even less in the PACS literature In this section our authors confront patriarchy engage in a discussion about the contribution queer theory makes to PACS and tussle with the notion of inclusivity with considerations of both gender and disability It then ends with a discussion about the contribution feminist methodologies make to PACS

Borderland

Infrastructures Alessandro Rippa, 2025-10-01 Across the Chinese borderlands investments in large scale transnational infrastructure such as roads and special economic zones have increased exponentially over the past two decades Based on long term ethnographic research Borderland Infrastructures addresses a major contradiction at the heart of this fast paced development small scale traders have lost their historic strategic advantages under the growth of massive Chinese state investment and are now struggling to keep their businesses afloat Concurrently local ethnic minorities have become the target of radical resettlement projects securitization and tourism initiatives and have in many cases grown increasingly dependent on state subsidies At the juncture of anthropological explorations of the state border studies and research on transnational trade and infrastructure development Borderland Infrastructures provides new analytical tools to understand how state power is experienced mediated and enacted in Xinjiang and Yunnan In the process Rippa offers a rich and nuanced ethnography of life across China's peripheries

Social Transformations in India, Myanmar, and Thailand: Volume I Chosein Yamahata, Donald M. Seekins, Makiko Takeda, 2021-01-02 This book focuses on the different challenges and opportunities for social transformation in India Myanmar and Thailand by centering communities and individuals as the main drivers of change In doing so it includes discussions on a wide array of issues including women's empowerment and political participation ethno religious tensions plurilingualism education reform community based healthcare climate change disaster management ecological systems and vulnerability reduction Two core foundations are introduced for ensuring broader transformations The first is the academic diplomacy project a framework for an engaged academic enquiry focusing on causative curative transformative and promotive factors The second is a community driven collective struggle that serves as a grassroots possibility to facilitate positive social transformation by using locally available resources and enabling the participation of the resident population As a whole the book conveys the importance of a diversification of engagement at the grassroots level to strengthen the capacity of individuals as decisive stakeholders where the process of social transformation makes communities more interconnected interdependent multicultural and vital in building an inclusive society

Young Women and Leadership Katrina Lee-Koo, Lesley Pruitt, 2020-04-07 Through a range of case studies in Asia and the Pacific this edited collection highlights the extent of the unique ways in which young women lead to create change in their own lives and their communities as well as in the structures cultures and institutions in which they live and work This volume challenges and reshapes the boundaries and relationships of power that animate traditional attitudes to leadership by exploring the often overlooked role of women as leaders and drivers of social change The text draws on a number of complex case studies in Asia and the Pacific in order to demonstrate how young women around the world have developed organised approaches to leadership that are often collective collaborative and transformative However as the authors reveal they also deviate from traditional forms of leadership that have dominated the literature and public understanding This book will be of interest to students and scholars of the theory and or practice of leadership More broadly it will also be useful for students and scholars of political science international studies peace and conflict studies international and community development leadership studies cultural studies youth studies and gender studies

Fear and Sanctuary Hazel J. Lang, 2018-05-31 An examination of the plight of the refugees of Burma's protracted civil war many of whom have fled across the border into Thailand This study looks at the changing nature of the refugee situation and the responses of the parties involved including the United Nations the refugees themselves and governments in both Bangkok and Rangoon In the process Fear and Sanctuary addresses pertinent international questions regarding civil war ethnic resistance against an oppressive state displacement and refugee protection

Energy, Governance and Security in Thailand and Myanmar (Burma) Adam Simpson, 2016-04-29 Across the world states are seeking out new and secure supplies of energy but this search is manifesting itself most visibly in Asia where rapid industrialisation in states such as China and India is fomenting a frantic scramble for energy resources Due to entrenched societal inequities and widespread authoritarian governance however the pursuit of national energy security through transnational energy projects has resulted in devastating impacts on the human and environmental security of local populations These effects are particularly evident in both Thailand and Myanmar Burma which located at the crossroads of Asia are increasingly engaged in the cross border energy trade Based on extensive fieldwork and theoretical analysis this ground breaking book proposes a new critical approach to energy and environmental security and explores the important role that both local and transnational environmental movements are playing in the absence of effective and democratic governments in providing activist environmental governance for energy projects throughout the region By comparing the nature of this activism under two very different political regimes it delivers crucial theoretical insights with both academic and policy implications for the sustainable and equitable development of the South's natural resources

Border Humanitarians Adam Saltsman, 2022-08-31 In rich ethnographic detail Border Humanitarians explores the narratives of Burmese activists in exile who rely on transnational political and social networks to respond to gender violence among the hundreds of thousands of migrants living and working precariously on the Thai border with Myanmar The activists this book follows must navigate a multiplicity of representations they are simultaneously illegal in Thailand underpaid feminized laborers in a global garment supply chain and targets of global North humanitarian intervention with funding to rescue and empower them Looking at how these multiple roles overlap Saltsman asks how state border enforcement regimes global humanitarianism and neoliberal capitalist trajectories produce varied sets of constraints and opportunities in migrants lives Here like in many spaces that are simultaneously zones of refuge and hubs for flexible labor the borderlands are both a site of dispossession for migrants as well as a resource for collective agency As Saltsman details gender itself emerges as an important tool for migrants and aid workers alike to navigate insecurity and assert varying ways of making order amidst the upheaval of displacement and ongoing exclusion Rewriting the Victim Erin M. Kamler, 2019-02-26 The international movement against the trafficking of women which has gained momentum over the past two decades is driven largely by the United States in tandem with state governments and NGO workers Feminist organizations have played a key role in carrying out anti trafficking policies but are increasingly divided over what those policies should look like The primary divide exists between those feminists who want to abolish prostitution as a key link to trafficking and those who argue that what sex workers need is not to have their livelihoods taken away through paternalistic policies but improved working conditions to alleviate the dangers associated with their work A primary criticism of US NGO workers well intentioned as they may be is that they misunderstand the cultural and economic conditions of the women they purport to help This book provides a unique response to this misunderstanding On one level it shows how this movement is in fact based on a Western mindset that problematizes women and puts its own interests before those of the women it is trying to help But the project's primary innovation is in the method that it develops to explore the conflict of cultural values that gives rise to the aforementioned debates what Erin M Kamler calls Dramatization as Research DAR Through writing and producing Land of Smiles a musical inspired by field research that includes over fifty interviews with female migrant laborers sex workers activists NGO employees and other members of the anti trafficking movement Kamler presents one of the dominant stories about human trafficking and critiques the discourse about the trafficking of women in Thailand The book examines how the musical aimed to facilitate communication between stakeholders in the anti trafficking movement in Thailand and prime a dialogue to explore the policies practices and outcomes of actions in this environment Through researching writing and producing the musical for the individuals on whose experiences the story of the musical is based Kamler shows how the arts can be used as a feminist communication intervention and a vehicle for understanding the cultural dimension of human rights Border Capitalism, Disrupted Stephen Campbell, 2018-04-15 Border Capitalism Disrupted presents an insightful ethnography of migrant labor regulation at the Mae Sot Special Border Economic Zone on the Myanmar border in northwest Thailand By bringing a new deployment of workerist and autonomist theory to bear on his fieldwork Stephen Campbell highlights the ways in which workers struggles have catalyzed transformations in labor regulation at the frontiers of capital in the global south Looking outwards from Mae Sot Campbell engages extant scholarship on flexibilization and precarious labor which typically is based on the development experiences of the global north Campbell emphasizes the everyday practices of migrants the police employers NGOs and private passport brokers to understand the politics of precarity and the new forms of worker organization and resistance that are emerging in Asian industrial zones Focusing in particular on the uses and effects of borders as technologies of rule Campbell argues that geographies of labor regulation can be read as the contested and fragile outcomes of prior and ongoing working class struggles Border Capitalism

Disrupted concludes that with the weakened influence of formal unions understanding the role of these alternative forms of working class organizations in labor capital relations becomes critical With a broad data set gleaned from almost two years of fieldwork Border Capitalism Disrupted will appeal directly to those in anthropology labor studies political economy and geography as well as Southeast Asian studies
